GENEVA, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Spanish government asked the league of nations today to deal with the menace to "peace and good will among nations" allegedly created by Italo-German recognition of the Fascist rebel junta at Burgos.

Foreign Minister Julio del Vayo appealed to the league council to convene in special session to determine whether international peace was menaced. He acted under article eleven of the league covenant.

The note was dispatched from Valencia, present seat of the Spanish government. The league council was expected to call a meeting next week to consider the appeal.

Procedure Is Outlined.

Under article eleven of the covenant, the league may concern itself with any "war or threat of war" whether league members are affected or not. The league is authorized to take "any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations."

The secretary-general must summon the council in event of emergency at the request of any league member which has "the friendly right" to bring up:

"Any circumstances whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations, on which peace depends."

Germany is no longer a member of the Geneva body. Italy retains membership, but did not attend the latest sessions because delegates representing the ousted Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia were permitted to participate.

Premier Mussolini in a recent speech at Milan indicated no great hurry on the part of Italy to return to the league sessions. He said the league must reform or perish, and so far as Italy is concerned "let it perish."

Text of Spanish Note.

"The Spanish government has denounced in notes to the signatory powers of the nonintervention pact, in a letter to the league of nations, and in a speech by its representative in the league assembly, the armed intervention of Germany and Italy in the Spanish civil war in favor of the rebels, an intervention which, in itself, constitutes a most flagrant violation of international law.

"This intervention has been crowned by the recognition of the chief of the rebels, who has been set up as a government by manipulators of the powers in question. This method of procedure virtually constitutes an act of aggression against the Spanish republic.

Cites Blockade Threat.

"The declaration of the rebels that they intend to block by force the flow of free commerce through ports controled by the government demands attention as an element liable to cause difficulties of an international order—difficulties which Señor Franco is known to have declared himself disposed to provoke since the beginning of the rebellion.

"These difficulties have been made greater by the fact that the rebels have been recognized by Germany and Italy, and that these powers, one of them in particular, as information

ROOSEVELT HITS WARMAKERS IN PLEA TO LATINS

Says Americas Will Fight Aggression.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 27.—President Roosevelt today crowned a triumphal reception in the most beautiful city in the world with a ringing plea that both Americas continue to show a war-threatened world that peace among nations rests upon meeting current problems with understanding and good will.

At the same time he voiced a warning, after citing the "grim picture of armed camps and threats of conflict" in the rest of the world, that "we cannot countenance aggression—from wheresoever it may come."

The people of the republics in both Americas, and also of the dominion of Canada, he said, wish to lead their own lives, free from both desire for and fear from conquest. He urged international agreements to bring about this aim. Such agreements, Mr. Roosevelt declared, would constitute "no threats to other regions or races," would "harm no other continent."

"Discard Rivalry," He Urges.

The speech, delivered in the deep octagonal well of the Brazilian chamber of deputies, brought cheering members of the legislative body to their feet several times when the President reiterated his demand against a recurrence of the horrors of war. Mr. Roosevelt's famed personal charm leaped the hurdle of national language [Portuguese] as, acting as a salesman of the United States, he asked for a universal laying down of arms.

"We can discard the dangerous language of rivalry," he said. "We can put aside the empty phrases of 'diplomatic triumphs' or 'shrewd bargains.' We can forget all thought of domination, of selfish coalitions, or of balances of power. These false gods have no place among American neighbors."

Pledges U. S. Understanding.

Mr. Roosevelt held that the United States is entering the inter-American peace conference, for which he is bound to Buenos Aires, deeply mindful of its responsibilities and the need to work in fullest understanding with all the republics of this hemisphere. If the American sister republics will be guided by the same wisdom, he said, "conflict will be banished from this part of the world."

"We are entitled," he continued, "to hope that we may thus contribute to the universal ideal that nations throughout the entire world, laying weapons aside, may at last fulfill the greatest ambition which any nation, large or small, can have—that of contributing steadily and, above all, generously to the advance of well-being, culture, and civilization throughout the changing years."

Applause Rocks Chamber.

This conclusion brought the chamber again to its feet. The applause from the floor, augmented by that from the two marble galleries, reverberated against the dome bright with frescoes depicting the early history of Brazil. For several minutes the scene resembled the reception of a stump speech in the recent presidential election campaign.

The applause was broken when the president of the chamber announced in Portuguese over the chamber amplifying system that the extraordinary session of the chamber, senators, and Supreme court was ended.

House Crowded to Limit.

In their seats were almost the full 400 members of the chamber and 42 members of the senate, all of them except one or two women members in morning clothes. The eleven members of the Supreme court wore priestlike robes. Behind the President the balconies were full to the last inch of space with a churning crowd of those fortunate enough through political connections to obtain a card of entrance.

The President of the United States entered on the arm of his son, James, who wore a marine major's uniform

Zintak Loans to 2 Judges Are Revealed

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Two judges of the Superior court dipped into the till of their court clerk during the payless pay day period of 1933, according to disclosures yesterday at the trial of the clerk, Frank V. Zintak, who was ousted from office on charges of embezzling $26,500. The names of both judges were withheld after Zintak's attorneys objected that a judge should not be subjected to such public attention.

Zintak is on trial in the Criminal court of Judge Robert C. O'Connell on a single indictment specifying embezzlement of a $10,500 item. His attorneys have advanced as their principal defense the declaration that, as court clerk, he not only never stole a cent, but was a kindly philanthropist who advanced money to his employés and others in a time of dire need.

Star Witness Embarrasses State.

Testimony to this effect has been given by the state's star witness, Frank Witkowski, 2147 Moffat street, who was bookkeeper in Zintak's office at the time of the alleged embezzlement. To the admitted surprise of Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, Witkowski thus far on cross-examination has been an excellent witness for the defendant.

Yesterday the jury almost learned the name of one of the judges who benefited from Zintak's philanthropy. The prosecutor indicated he had a photostatic copy of a $500 check signed by this judge which found its way into Zintak's office and which, it was alleged, was not made good.

The horrified protests of the defense counsel kept the name out of the record. Similarly the name of another judge, mentioned by the prosecutor, in the same connection, was barred.

Dispute Previous Testimony.

At the start of yesterday's session Prosecutor Wright asked Judge O'Connell to strike out previous testimony by Star Witness Witkowski on the subject of the judges and court employés getting advances from Zintak during the payless period.

During the subsequent argument with Defense Attorneys Benedict J. Short and George Guenther the prosecutor admitted that Witkowski was an accomplice and conspirator. He argued that the defense could not make a defense from a state witness.

"The very judges who sought to remove Zintak told him it was all

BOY, 4, CAN'T STOP TALKING; HIS MALADY HAS DOCTORS PUZZLED

Doctors who examined him are puzzled, for Emmie, son of Mrs. May Wilson of Munford, Tenn., has prattled day and night since he was brought to a hospital here nine days ago.

He talks of mother, of home, of childish things. Sometimes Emmie is conscious, but often he is in a coma. Always he talks—unless his thin voice is stilled by sedatives.

The child, once a sturdy youngster, weighs only 20 pounds and 8 ounces. Slowly his strength has ebbed. He is rational one day. The next his fever mounts.

Doctors thought at first he had meningitis, but now they are at a loss to explain the case.

BRITISH QUADS CELEBRATE FIRST BIRTHDAY TODAY

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Ann, Ernest, Paul, and Michael, the quadruplets of St. Neots, Huntingdonshire, will be a year old tomorrow. They will have four tiny birthday cakes, each with one candle, at a party attended by friends of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miles.

All have cut four teeth except Michael, who has three, and all are blond except Michael, who is dark. Paul and Ernest weigh 21 pounds 2 ounces each, Ann weighs 20 pounds 14 ounces, and Michael 19 pounds 8 ounces. All are healthy.

REVEAL FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW IS THREAT TARGET

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Freddie Bartholomew, the Los Angeles Examiner said tonight, is being watched constantly by private bodyguard following receipt of an extortion note threatening kidnaping.

The newspaper quoted Miss Millicent Bartholomew, the child film actor's aunt, as saying she received a note demanding $50,000 about 10 days ago.

Fifi D'Orsay Robbed of $3,500 Coat, She Reports

Fifi D'Orsay, French stage and screen actress, reported to the Central police yesterday that her mink coat, valued at $3,500, was stolen shortly after noon from her dressing room at the State-Lake theater, 190 North State street. The actress said the coat disappeared while she was away from the room for fifteen minutes. Her engagement at the theater ended yesterday.

Warn Chicago Movies to End Prize Nights

The Chicago Better Business bureau yesterday warned theater operators that if they do not end the prize drawing activities which are now conducted in approximately 250 of the 300 motion picture houses in the city, the bureau will demand that they be halted by police action.

The warning was in the form of letters to the Exhibitors Association of Chicago, representing the theater chains, and the Allied Theaters of Illinois, an organization of independents. The theater prize drawings, the letters said, have been found by counsel for the bureau to be a violation of state laws, which not only prohibit lotteries, but even prescribe a fine and jail sentence for the advertising of them.

Tells of Complaints.

"This organization is receiving complaints in ever increasing numbers," said the letters, which were signed by Kenneth Barnard, general manager of the bureau. "In the opinion of the bureau's counsel, these schemes [prize drawings] are in clear violation of the state statute. In connection with the statute, you will please note that it is unlawful not only to set up a lottery and to sell tickets for the same, but even to advertise one.

"The situation has become so acute that the bureau takes these means of requesting, from your association, an expression of your intentions as to the future.

"Unless assurances are received that these schemes are to be abandoned forthwith, it is the bureau's intention to lay the facts promptly before Mayor Kelly, Police Commissioner Allman, and Corporation Counsel Hodes, for appropriate action."

Will Wait a Few Days.

Mr. Barnard said that the bureau would wait "a reasonable time" for assurances from the associations that the prize drawings will be stopped. This meant three or four days, he added.

The bureau pointed out that in a recent Municipal court suit, such drawings were described as illegal lotteries by the judge, who held that a suit to collect winnings in such a drawing could not, for that reason, have any standing in court.

Mr. Barnard said that he expected cooperation from the theater associations because many theater men have expressed a desire to drop the drawings but are unable to do so because of competing houses. Theater men, however, explained that the operators of loop houses, including the major chains, wish to end such drawings because they are not offered in the loop.

Moron Beats and Attacks Mother of 2

Death for Slayer

Mrs. Genevieve Richards, 32 years old, was raped and beaten by a moron in her first floor apartment at 4415 Beacon street last night. While she fought frantically, her children, Grant, 6 years old, and Louin, 3, slept in another room. A pet dog leashed in the kitchen barked futilely at the rapist.

From the moron's brutality, the police believed he was the same man who raped, slashed, and beat Miss Anna Brasy, 38 years old, early last Saturday in her home at 4752 Lincoln avenue. The descriptions, however, do not entirely agree. The Richards and the Brasy homes are about two miles apart.

Transfusion for Other Victim.

Miss Brasy is still in a critical condition in the Ravenswood hospital. She will be given a blood transfusion today.

Mrs. Richards' husband, Edward Richards, a dining car chef on the Milwaukee railroad, was in Spokane, Wash., last night. She was awakened by a noise in a rear room. She went to the kitchen and turned on the light. It revealed a man in the adjoining dining room.

Details of the Attack.

Before she could scream he seized her, put his hand over her mouth, and tore off her night clothing. She fought with him. Chairs and tables were overturned. He scratched her severely and kicked her into unconsciousness. Then he raped her.

Reviving, Mrs. Richards called police. They found that the moron had entered the apartment, which is easily reached from the ground, through the dining room window.

Dr. A. J. Lery, 4400 North Clark street, took Mrs. Richards to the North Chicago Community hospital.

Mrs. Richards told Sergt. Frank McKune that her assailant tried to break into her home Thursday night, but that she chased him away. He wore a brown zipper jacket, as did Mrs. Brasy's assailant. Police are searching for a well known ex-convict, although Mrs. Richards was unable to identify his picture when it was shown to her at the hospital.

STORY OF FIGHT TO STOP GIVEN BY MOTORMAN

Leaves Cab Before Wreck Occurs.

Van R. Grooms, motorman of the North Shore line train that crashed into the rear of an Evanston bound elevated train at the Granville station on Tuesday evening, killing ten persons and injuring 58, last night told his story of the wreck for the first time. He denied he was responsible for the tragedy. He said that skidding wheels on his train were to blame.

Grooms made his statement to Assistant State's Attorney Leslie V. Curtis in the presence of Capt. Martin McCormick of the Summerdale police and E. M. Muldoon, general claim agent for the North Shore line. He said that he applied his brakes in ample time to avoid the crash, but that his train would not stop.

Under Police Guard.

Grooms, who is 36 years old and lives at 212 Prairie avenue, Highwood, is in St. Francis hospital in Evanston, where he was taken for treatment of injuries received in the worst wreck in the history of the elevated lines here. He is under police guard.

According to Curtis, who did all of the questioning, Grooms revealed also that he had left his cab just before the crash. In his statement the motorman said that he saw the elevated train when about 4,000 feet or approximately three-quarters of a mile, away.

The heavy steel three-car North Shore train was running on the east, or express, track. The crowded Evanston elevated train ahead, about to swing over west to the local track, had just come to a halt, as it was blocked by another northbound train on the local track.

Tests Brakes; Train Skids.

Grooms said when he first saw the elevated train he made a test application of his brakes and his train went into a skid.

"I put on the brakes to slow down," Grooms told Curtis, "and I should have been able to stop within 400 feet at the rate I was going, but the wheels skidded.

"I took off my brakes and got the wheels rolling, and applied the brakes again when I was about 1,700 or 2,000 feet from the Evanston train. The wheels skidded again."

Grooms said that he released the brakes again, and applied them for a third time, but the wheels locked and the train skidded as before.

"I saw I was going to hit," he said, "so I blew my whistle three times and put the motors in reverse. Then I stepped out of the cab just before the crash."

Plows Through Wooden Car.

The North Shore train rammed into the rear wooden coach of the elevated train and plowed most of the way through it, nearly reaching the next car, which was of steel. Passengers were flung in all directions, and several fell to the pavement below.

"Grooms told me," said Curtis, "that he was going from 35 to 40 miles an hour each time when he applied his brakes. He told me that he had tried out the brakes once before, some time after leaving Lawrence avenue, and that they worked well. He said he was fifteen minutes behind time.

"I asked him what could have caused the skid and he said he did not know unless it was due to oil on the tracks. He said he did not see any oil. I asked him how oil could have gotten there and he said it might have come from cars on his train or from those on a train ahead."

Differs from First Story.

Van Grooms' story yesterday differs somewhat from the brief statement he made the night of the wreck. Hysterical with shock and grief and talking incoherently, he said then:

"I was traveling about forty miles an hour. Then I saw the two red lights on the rear of the Evanston train. The lights were very dim. I put on my brakes and that's the last thing I know."

Curtis said he thinks Grooms will be kept in the hospital for a few more days. The police guard will stay on duty. Curtis said Grooms will be held at least until the coroner's inquest is resumed on Dec. 15.

Curtis declined to make any comment on Grooms' story. He said he wants to talk with railroad experts concerning the motorman's story before making any recommendations in the case. A few days ago Curtis said that if Grooms were found to be responsible for the crash he would be charged with manslaughter.

Bernard J. Fallon, operating head of the Rapid Transit company, was asked last night about the possibility of there being oil on the tracks which might have caused the North Shore train to skid. He said he knew of no way in which oil could get on the tracks. It was pointed out that the motorman of the wrecked elevated train had no trouble in stopping just before the crash.

Grooms was questioned briefly yesterday by another investigator, Walter McDermott of the coroner's office. Grooms told McDermott, also, that he first saw the train when about 4,000 feet away, but refused to answer other questions for him.

Resume Other Investigations.

Other investigations into the wreck were resumed after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Investigators for the company, the city of Chicago and the Illinois and interstate commerce commissions yesterday combined their activities in one central meeting in the office of H. A. Johnson, general manager of the elevated lines.

Among those in attendance were Philip Harrington and Maj. R. F. Kelker, engineers for the city council's local transportation committee; Frank McDonald, engineer for the interstate commerce commission, and Eugene Cohn, attorney, and Merrill B. Knox, engineer, for the Illinois commerce commission.

Members of the crews of both trains were questioned at the conference. According to one of the investigators, several of the North Shore crew testified that the brakes on the train appeared to work properly.

Call Safety Sessions.

Two important meetings have been called by civil authorities to consider means of guarding against a recurrence of a tragedy like last Tuesday's.

A session of the city council's local transportation committee will be held this morning to receive and discuss reports of its engineers on signals, automatic train control and the rights of the North Shore line and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad to use the tracks of the Rapid Transit company.

Another meeting, called by James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, will be held at commission headquarters at 1 North La Salle street Tuesday morning. Mayor Kelly and officials of the North Shore and elevated lines have been asked to attend. The purpose of the meeting, according to Slattery, is to discuss means of preventing further accidents on the elevated lines.

The inquest into the death of George Fulton, 60 years old, 7610 North Ashland avenue, the tenth person to die from injuries received in the crash, was begun yesterday. Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein continued the inquest until Dec. 15 to coincide with the other hearing.

Rites for Five in Wreck.

Funeral services for five other victims of the wreck were held during the day.

Services for Jacob Borchardt, 55 years old, of 7014 Sheridan road, were held at St. Jerome Catholic church, Lunt avenue and Paulina street, with two sons of Borchardt taking part in the mass. The Rev. Paul E. Borchardt said the mass for his father and the Rev. Kenneth Borchardt served as subdeacon. Burial was in All Saints cemetery.

Preceding the mass for Mr. Borchardt, services were held in St. Jerome church for Miss Mary Mullen, 27 years old, 6917 Lakewood avenue. Burial was in St. Boniface cemetery.

Joseph C. Diffendal, 64 years old, 1309 Albion avenue, was buried in All Saints cemetery after services in St. Ignatius church. Services for Samuel Schwartz, 45 years old, 7606 Bosworth avenue, were held in memorial chapel, 5206 Broadway. He was buried in Rosehill cemetery.

The funeral for Miss Nell B. Wilson, 44 years old, of 1223 Jarvis avenue, who owned a children's apparel shop at 7231 Sheridan road, was held at the home. Burial will be in Kirkwood, Mo.

M'GURN WIDOW TO BE FREED OF AUTO FATALITY

A charge of manslaughter against Mrs. Louise Rolfe Gebardi, widow of Vincent Gebardi (Machine Gun Jack McGurn), was continued to Dec. 4 at her arraignment yesterday before Judge Edward S. Scheffer in Felony court. Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dillon said the charge would be dropped, but would be reinstated against Miss Mildred McGarry, 20 years old, of Jacksonville, Ill. The charge arose from the death of Vincent Zamiara, 34 years old, 3047 West 54th place, who was fatally injured Oct. 4 when struck by Mrs. Gebardi's automobile. At the time it was assumed she was driving the car.

HELD IN $50,000 BAIL.

James Rogue, 19 years old, 853 South Normal parkway, who has confessed four burglaries and has been identified in five holdups, was held to the grand jury in $50,000 bonds by Municipal Judge Stephen Adamowski yesterday.

BLAMES STREET LIGHT SYSTEM IN AUTO DEATH

Ninth Victim Killed in So. Side Stretch.

An improved lighting system in State street between Harrison street and Cermak road was urged yesterday by Deputy Coroner Pasquale Venetucci at an inquest into the death of Edward A. Adams, 68 years old, a locksmith of 747 South State street. Adams was fatally injured by a truck earlier in the day in State street between Eighth and Ninth streets.

Venetucci directed two policemen of the accident prevention bureau to report to Commissioner Allman that State street in that section is inadequately illuminated. Nine pedestrians have been killed in the stretch in the last year, he said.

W. B. Sharpe, 55 years old, 1624 Morse avenue, died yesterday in a hospital in Memphis, Tenn., from injuries received Monday in an automobile collision near Jericho, Ark. Peter A. Grossman, 65 years old, president of M. Born & Co., wholesale tailors, also was injured fatally in the mishap. Mr. Sharpe was advertising manager of the tailoring company.

Thomas Reynolds, 31 years old, 1116 South Mayfield avenue, died a few hours after he was struck at Cicero and Grand avenues by an automobile driven by Richard Steward, 28 years old, 5734 Winthrop avenue. Stewart was not held.

Hit-Run Victim Dies.

Struck by a hit-run automobile at Polk street and Racine avenue, Frank Suarez, 53 years old, 1136 Polk street, died while being taken in a police patrol to a hospital.

Benjamin Baker, 45 years old, 10207 South Irving avenue, died of injuries incurred Nov. 22 when he was struck at 97th street and Western avenue by an automobile driven by Lawrence Fish, 19 years old, 7227 South May street.

Injuries received Nov. 15, when he was struck by an automobile at 2584 Blue Island avenue, caused the death in the County hospital of George Pleval, 37 years old, 3330 West 37th street. Arthur Denz, 58 years old, 3010 South Keeler avenue, driver of the automobile, was not held.

Neil Mingo, 47 years old, colored, 11125 South Bishop street, was killed and another colored man critically injured last evening when they were struck by an automobile as they were pushing a cart north in Ashland avenue at 116th street. Mingo died soon after being taken to the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island. The unidentified man was taken to the Roseland Community hospital. Morgan Park police held the driver of the automobile, Charles Lucas, 28 years old, 11170 Vincennes avenue.

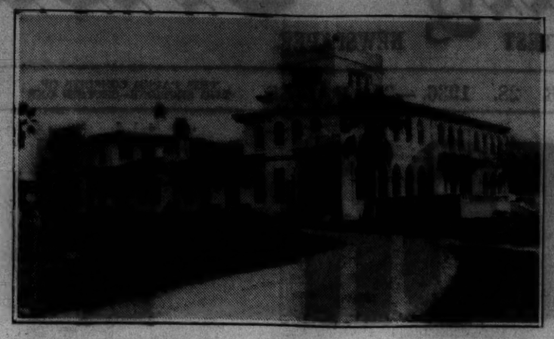

Confesses Hitting Pedestrian.

Frank Leo, 41 years old, 9422 Commercial avenue, arrested yesterday, admitted that he was the driver who fled on Thursday after his car struck Frederick Hartwell, colored, 50 years old, 3435 Prairie avenue, at 95th street and South Chicago avenue. Hartwell's left leg was broken. Leo said that he drove away because he was panic stricken. He was traced through his car license number, obtained by a witness.

Policeman Joseph Minnick, 33 years old, of the Chicago Lawn station, was injured critically when his automobile collided head-on with a street car in front of 7215 South Western avenue. The motorman, C. Krause, 6011 South Sawyer avenue, told police he saw Minnick's car approaching, but expected him to turn off the tracks in time to avoid the collision. The policeman, off duty, was on his way to his home at 7949 South Oakley avenue.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 934 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of that number 704 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 17,724 persons were injured in auto accidents in the city.

ZINTAK'S LOANS TO TWO JUDGES ARE REVEALED

right to advance money," replied Attorney Short. "The state must show intent in this case and we can show that the defendant had no intent to embezzle."

"I think we all agree that intent is a vital issue," said Judge O'Connell, refusing the plea to strike out the disputed portion of Witkowski's testimony.

Blames All on Defendant.

"We can show that every shortage that occurred in that office was brought about by Zintak, if given a chance," said Prosecutor Wright during a heated exchange. This explosion came during a dispute about Witkowski's testimony that Zintak had made up shortages in his office caused by employés carried over from a previous régime, Attorney Guenther, who later took up the cross-examination because of his colleague's illness, asked the following questions:

Q.—Zintak at all times told you that funds were available to handle these various items you testified about. A.—Yes.

Q.—Every court order for money was properly and promptly paid? A.—Yes.

Q.—Zintak never touched the books, did he? A.—No.

For a brief moment it appeared that another battle was imminent between the lawyers when Witkowski admitted he talked to the defense lawyers prior to testifying. It was averted, however, when he said he had a legal right to talk to them and that they did not suggest any testimony to him.

Out of Own Pocket, He Says.

Witkowski ended his cross-examination by testifying that Zintak paid the salary advances to employés out of his own pocket and that he still has $4,000 not repaid coming to him.

Prosecutor Wright then took the witness on redirect examination. The prosecutor, a gray haired man with horn rimmed glasses and a resounding voice, apparently became exasperated with the witness as he assumed a reluctant attitude again or one of not clearly understanding the questions. He tried to show that there could have been no shortage in the cashier's cage because Witkowski told him he made a daily audit.

"This witness clearly indicates his unfriendly attitude toward the state," said the prosecutor. "His testimony is a surprise."

Witness Weary of Stand.

Witkowski, who has been on the witness stand for more than three days, had hoped to get out of the "trenches" yesterday, but the ever recurring legal arguments which have characterized the trial will keep him in for at least part of another day. The jury was in and out of the courtroom at frequent intervals yesterday as the lawyers dickered.

FIND 2 MILLIONS OF PHONE REFUND AWAITING CLAIM

With federal court approval yesterday of an order requested by the Illinois Bell Telephone company, it was disclosed that the utility has $2,059,237 in unclaimed funds due coin box subscribers under the 1934 decision of the United States Supreme court requiring refunding of nearly $30,000,000 in overcharges.

The order requested by the company was for permission to advertise in daily newspapers that its liability to return the money expires June 1, 1937. United States Judges Evans and Wilkerson approved it.

At the date of expiration, funds remaining will "go begging," as there has not been a final order concerning their disposition. It is expected that the company will claim the money as recompense for the expense of making the refunds. The expense stood at $2,693,478 on Oct. 31.

WOMAN TEACHER IS CONVICTED OF UNSAFE DRIVING

Eight Others Sentenced in Safety Court.

Nine motorists, one a woman high school teacher, 60 years old, were convicted of dangerous driving in Safety court yesterday by Judge Joseph Graber.

May Watkins, 1435 East 60th street, assigned to the Lindblom High school, was the teacher found guilty, but Judge Graber continued her hearing on a reckless driving charge to Dec. 4 for the imposing of sentence, saying he wanted time to decide her penalty. At the same time the judge said he "believed she should be treated as any other defendant even though she is a school teacher."

Miss Watkins was arrested last Wednesday after she drove her car past a stoplight at Woodlawn avenue and the Midway and struck an automobile driven by Morrison Joy of 8038 Manistee avenue.

Eight Others Sentenced.

Attorney Plans Appeal.

Kline was represented by an attorney who said the case would be appealed. He identified Kline as a nephew of Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher. Kline drove his car over a curb at 16th street and St. Louis avenue Oct. 1, injuring three persons awaiting a street car.

Judge Harold P. O'Connell sentenced Alexander Martini, 40 years old, 1519 Adams street, to five days for reckless driving. The case had been continued from a previous hearing in the Safety court at a time when Judge O'Connell was sitting there.

SHOOTS SELF FATALLY.

Allegan, Mich., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Melburne Wagner, 31, who operated a milk route out of Hopkins, ten miles north of Allegan, committed suicide by shooting himself in the chest last night at the home of Leroy Simpkins, Watson township, dying several hours later. He said he did not know why he did it.

FORMER FEDERAL DEPUTY IS SHOT BY GANG IN LOOP

JOSEPH SPIZZIRRI.

Joseph Spizzirri, 50 years old, 6808 Wayne avenue, a former deputy United States marshal, who during prohibition specialized in posting "closed" signs on padlocked saloons, was shot in the right thigh and left ankle last night when he resisted two gunmen in Wells street, between Madison and Washington streets. He now is employed in a West Washington street handbook.

Spizzirri, who is six feet tall and weighs 230 pounds, was walking in Wells street toward the Madison street elevated station when two men stepped out of a parked automobile. A third man sat at the wheel of the car.

Announcing "this is a stickup," the two hoodlums, one of whom at least was armed, seized Spizzirri. He resisted. The men then tried to drag him into the car, but Spizzirri dropped to the sidewalk and dared them to carry him away. They tugged, but could not budge him. In anger, one of the men fired a shot. The bullet passed through his right thigh and into his left ankle. The hoodlums escaped. Spizzirri was taken to the Henrotin hospital. Police could not say whether the men intended only robbery or kidnaping and perhaps murder.

ICKES' SON FINED FOR SPEEDING TO LAW CLASS; PAYS

Raymond Ickes, son of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, was fined $5 and $5 costs yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht in the Traffic court on a charge of speeding 32 miles an hour Wednesday in Sheridan road at Chase avenue. Young Ickes, who is 24 years old and lives at 900 South Private road, Winnetka, said he had been driving at 45 miles an hour and was going to his law classes at the University of Chicago. He paid the fine.

Mrs. Ellen Glore, 301 Sheridan road, Lake Forest, wife of Charles F. Glore, investment broker, was fined $10 and $5 costs by Judge Gutknecht on a charge of speeding 50 miles an hour in Sheridan road near Granville avenue. Mrs. Glore, who did not appear in court, was represented by Attorney Marion J. Peters.

SEARCH GALVIN DEPOSIT BOXES; FIND THREATS

Investigators Get Mass of Papers, No Property.

Authorities searching for clews in the murder of Michael J. Galvin, labor leader, opened yesterday in the Mid-City National bank two large safety deposit boxes which Galvin had rented under the name of Michael Gannon.

Galvin was shot to death Monday night in front of 552 West Madison street, presumably over some feud arising from his 30 years as a union organizer and executive. The deposit boxes included a mass of material bearing on this career—personal correspondence, canceled checks, official documents.

Among the effects which interested the investigators was a blank notebook, containing numerous telephone numbers and other numbers believed to be part of a code system and several warnings addressed to the labor leader.

Check to Former Senator.

Another item in the box was a canceled check for $1,000, dated May 9, 1930, and made payable to State's Attorney Courtney, who at the time was state senator from the Eleventh district.

The check, made public by the investigators, was found in an envelope which had been inclosed in a lether folder. The envelope bore the notation "Do not open, P. A." The check was drawn on the account of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association and signed by D. F. McKeown, president.

Mr. Courtney, in Springfield last night, said that he received the check for legal services rendered. At that time, he said, he acted as attorney for the truck operators' association in its successful efforts to gain the repeal of a public cart license ordinance adopted in 1900 when express wagon owners solicited business on the streets.

State's Attorney Astonished.

The state's attorney said he was much mystified by the finding of the check in Galvin's box.

"I don't know how he got it," Mr. Courtney said, "inasmuch as my only connection with Galvin was my effort to put him out of business."

McKeown, the president of the truck operators' association, who signed the check, could not be reached.

The investigators also found a note, dated July 2, 1931, advising Galvin to beware of L———. It was signed a "Friend."

A memorandum, which had evidently been received by Galvin, said that D. J. Finn, head of the Scavengers' union, was only president in name, but that Marcus Looney was the actual head. Looney has been arrested by the police numerous times and now is sought for questioning.

The investigation of the deposit boxes was watched by Chicago federal and state officials and by attorneys representing women who at various times were wives of Galvin.

Few Assets Are Found.

These lawyers voiced surprise when practically no assets of Galvin's estate were found. It was reported that the labor leader had boxes in the First National and the Harris Trust and Savings bank. The authorities have been unable, however, to learn under what names the boxes may have been rented.

The safety deposit box revealed however, that Galvin was married four times and that a six flat building he owned in Rogers Park was deeded to his latest wife, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Galvin, last Oct. 27. The second wife, who has not been mentioned before, is Mrs. Lillian M. Callinan Galvin, whom he married in 1913 and divorced in 1921. His first wife, Helen Galvin, 12039 Princeton avenue, the records showed was granted a divorce in 1913.

During the day Capt. Patrick Collins of the Des Plaines street station questioned Thomas Brennan, business agent for the Warehouse Storage and Terminal Handlers, Checkers, and Clerks union, an organization rival to the group controled by Galvin. Brennan said he knew no reason why Galvin should be killed.

SINGER TUNES UP IN CHICAGO

In "Lakme" Tonight

Lily Pons, operatic star and singer of romantic movie rôles, arrived here yesterday and will sing the leading rôle tonight in "Lakme" with the Chicago City Opera company. Wrapped closely in a mink coat, the diminutive Miss Pons went directly to the Blackstone hotel on arriving from New York on the Twentieth Century. She is "so, so excited" at the prospect of singing "Lakme," she said, but was less voluble about her widely publicized romance with Andre Kostelanetz, radio orchestra leader. For the present, she said, all that is "just so-so."

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Warren and Kenneth Weeks, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Michael L. McKinley.

A messenger for the Mid-City National bank of Chicago, 801 West Madison street, was robbed of $1,519 in currency and $12,522 in checks yesterday afternoon by three gunmen who slugged him with a pistol and abducted him in their automobile.

The messenger, Christ F. Scheer, 58 years old, 1329 Campbell avenue, Des Plaines, was walking on the east side of Sacramento avenue south of Lake street when the three robbers jumped out of their automobile and surrounded him. One of the men struck Scheer on the forehead.

The bandits stripped off Scheer's overcoat, containing the currency, and suit coat, which contained the checks. They dumped their victim out of the automobile in front of 2700 Van Buren street.

ROOSEVELT SON HAS FAIRLY GOOD DAY IN HOSPITAL

Boston, Mass., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Massachusetts General hospital reported tonight that Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. spent "a fairly comfortable day" under observation for a sinus infection.

An assistant director of the hospital said he had received "good reports all day" about young Roosevelt, and added he expected him to remain at the hospital "only a short time," probably one or two days more.

Meanwhile the patient's fiancée, Miss Ethel du Pont, was reported by Henry Cushing, brother-in-law of James Roosevelt, to be coming to Boston.

THEORY OFFERED ON REASON FOR BIRD MIGRATION

Zoologist Finds Weight Varies with Weather.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Science has not yet penetrated the mysteries of bird migration, but a new factor in it was suggested yesterday at the twenty-second annual meeting of the Wilson Ornithological club in the Chicago Academy of Sciences, 2001 North Clark street. About 100 persons, most of them from university faculties, attended.

Dr. S. Charles Kendeigh of the experimental zoölogy laboratory of the University of Illinois at Champaign, volunteered the theory in connection with his experiments in weighing birds.

He learned that during the course of a day a bird's weight is lessened when the temperature goes up, and increases when temperatures fall. This delicate adjustment to protect the bird works with temperature shifts up to a certain point.

Theory to Explain Stimulus.

It is Dr. Kendeigh's theory that when the temperature falls too low or goes too high for adjustment, migration of the bird takes place.

Except for one bird, the white breasted nuthatch, he found that birds weigh more in winter than in summer, reaching their maximum in cold weather and minimum in heat.

Other scientists have advanced the theory that hormones from the reproductive glands, stimulated by the pituitary glands, controled the mechanism of bird migration, according to Dr. Kendeigh. Thyroid glands also have been urged as factors in migration. These may be involved, he said, but are less important than the processes indicated by his weight records.

First Report in Nine Years.

Dr. Kendeigh's weight experiments were made by obtaining birds in banding traps over fifteen acres of land at the Baldwin bird research laboratory in Cleveland, where he spends summers. Birds were trapped, weighed, and immediately released. A total of 5,812 individual birds of eighty-five species were weighed over a nine year period. This was his first report on the work.

Speaking on "Wildlife Cycles," Dr. Leonard Wing of the University of Wisconsin said that after years of study he knew little about why the numbers of some animals and birds, such as the beaver, muskrat, coyote, cottontail, grouse, ptarmigan, owl, and goshawk, rise and fall in cycles.

He felt sure, he said, that solar radiation was involved in some way, affecting the quality if not the quantity of food supply. In spite of the saying, "You can't starve a partridge," he observed, the grouse in some years may not get the small dose of some mineral or vitamin which is needed.

A survey of prairie chickens in Illinois, which has been under way for some years, was reported by Dr. Ralph E. Yeatter of the University of Illinois, who found that they are holding their own in recent years in southeastern Illinois and declining in number elsewhere.

BRAZIL CHEERS ROOSEVELT PLEA TO BANISH WAR

President Asks Americas to Discard Rivalry.

under a reserve commission issued to him at the beginning of the cruise. It was the sole relief to the somber black speaker's dais. All spectators rose to their feet, respectfully clapping their hands in greeting.

Mr. Roosevelt seated himself during the 20 minute address of welcome by Raoul Fernandez, diplomat and former chamber majority leader, a frail wisp of a man with white hair. He introduced the United States leader as a President who "admitted he had brought about a revolution but was proud that it had been effected peacefully." The applause at this melted into another round of welcome to Mr. Roosevelt as he laid his address on the rostrum and waved a response to the throng, which again had risen.

Captures Audience from First.

The sentiment expressed by Fernandez has made Mr. Roosevelt popular in Brazil, where the heavy hand of the depression has brought many people into sympathy with the socialistic aspects of the New Deal.

In his opening paragraph Mr. Roosevelt captured his audience by recalling that half a century ago, as a boy in a park in southern France, he saw a distinguished elderly couple, Dom Pedro II. and his empress, forced into exile by the proclaiming of the Brazilian republic in 1889.

At the end of his speech Mr. Roosevelt flashed his teeth and waved in the manner known to ardent admirers who turned out to see him during the presidential campaign.

The reception in the chamber was on a small scale compared to the enthusiastic reception from the city hours before. The cruiser Indianapolis was towed to the Praca Maua plaza alongside the Touring club. Soldiers stood with fixed bayonets along the line of march and throngs began to form behind green clad rifle bearers.

A slight drizzle held down the turnout, but police estimated that one-fourth of the 2,000,000 population caught a glimpse of the Indianapolis, laying back against the tug rope like a dog against its leash.

School Children Sing.

A special ramp had been built during the night with gay awning, like a reception tent for an Indian maharajah. One thousand school children piped the "Star Spangled Banner" and the Brazilian anthem. Massed densely, they flung up their hands, waving foot square cards of red, white, and blue in the form of an American flag.

Mr. Roosevelt appeared on deck as the mooring lines were made fast. Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador, went aboard for brief greetings and then, with a scream of sirens and tooting of whistles and barking of a salute, Getulio Vargas, president of Brazil, arrived at the foot of the ramp to extend the greetings of his country.

Kissing Ceremony Omitted.

He and Vargas exchanged handclasps. Kissing, the common greeting below the equator, was barred following considerable head scratching by the protocol division of the Brazilian foreign office.

Mr. Roosevelt was taken for a drive around the city and had lunch at Tijuco as a guest of Ernesto Fontes, cotton magnate. After lunch he went to the chamber to make his speech and then gave a press interview at the mansion of Carlos Guinle, cotton and coffee baron.

Mr. Roosevelt gave the local press both barrels of his magnetism.

Replying to a series of prepared questions he said he did not believe the question of a little league of American nations would come up at the Buenos Aires conference.

All America, he said, is becoming more interested in furthering a closer relationship and in furthering peace by setting an example to the world through the ideals of Pan-Americanism. In the past this feeling was principally on the seacoast, but now, he said, it is deep in the interior and growing rapidly through the whole country.

The Americas, he said, should stand together to preserve the forms of democracy they have attained. He added that such a preservation would be an example to the world. With a knowing nod, he remarked that some continents are not faring so well in this respect, and pointed his right arm toward Europe.

From the palace Mr. Roosevelt rushed aboard the Indianapolis to steam out of the harbor for Buenos Aires.

PLENTY FOR ALL, ROOSEVELT TELLS LATINS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 27. —(AP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address today to the Brazilian congress:

Nearly half a century ago a little boy was walking with his father and mother in a park of a city in southern France. Toward them came a distinguished looking elderly couple—Dom Pedro II. and his empress. That occasion was my first introduction to Brazil. In the years that have passed since that day—years measured by the splendid history of the republic of Brazil—I have had the pleasure of meeting many of your statesmen and of becoming increasingly familiar with the problems which mutually affect our two nations.

Praises Beauty of Rio.

My visit to Rio de Janeiro today is, therefore, the realization of a growing desire to see Brazil with my own eyes. Every student has been told of the majestic beauty in which your great city is cradled. But Rio is unique in that the reality far exceeds our expectations. A visit—even of a single day—is one of the outstanding experiences of my life.

The loveliness of nature would have been enough to bring me here—but my visit has another purpose. I was unwilling to come so far abroad without rendering my respects to the government of Brazil—that sister nation with which for more than a century we have maintained a tradition of good understanding, mutual regard and coöperation which is rare in history.

I have had the honor of greeting your great president, and this personal friendship between the chief executives of our two nations seems to me not only of practical benefit, but also of profound significance. You, gentlemen of the congress, now afford me the courtesy of this agreeable opportunity of meeting in person the legislative branch of your government and of exchanging thoughts directly with its members.

Touched by "Unique Honor."

I could not be but deeply sensible of the unique honor offered by the presence in this chamber of your Supreme court, a tribunal whose high traditions are known throughout the judicial world. Thus, the executive, legislative, and judicial powers of the government of Brazil have united in this demonstration of friendship toward the nation which I have the honor to represent.

Let me now return thanks for this renewed proof of that brotherhood which has ever united Brazil and the United States, a fraternity which I have reason to know is made evident in every group in both countries, whenever and wherever they meet.

The fine record of our relations is the best answer to those pessimists who scoff at the idea of true friendship between nations. In the present state of the world it is heartening that the two largest countries in this hemisphere have been able, by the exercise of good will, good temper, and good sense, to conduct the whole course of their relations without clash or conflict of ill feeling.

"War Destroys Democracy."

Not only that. The confidence in each other's aims and motives enables us to work together for the common good. We have a record of which we can be proud—a record of joint endeavor in the cause of peace in this new world.

My country has derived strength and confidence from the farsighted, irreproachable attitude of Brazil in its devotion to arbitration, conciliation, and other methods for the peaceful settlement of international disputes. Your first concern, like ours, is peace—for we know that war destroys not only human lives and happiness, but destroys as well the ideals of individual liberty and of the democratic form of representative government which is the goal of all American republics.

I think I can say that if in the generation to come we can live without war democratic government throughout the Americas will prove its complete ability to raise the standards of life for those millions who cry for opportunity today. The motto of war is, "Let the strong survive; let the weak die." The motto of peace is, "Let the strong help the weak to survive."

Room for All of Uus.

There is room for all of us, without treading on one another's toes. There are resources of nature adequate for our present and our future. We are happily free from ancient antagonisms which have brought so much misery to other parts of the world. There are, it is true, conflicts of interest between the American states—but they cannot be called serious or difficult of solution, when compared with the deeply rooted hates of other continents. There is no American conflict—and I weigh my words when I say this—there is no American conflict that cannot be settled by orderly and peaceful means.

And it is in our common interest imperative that they be settled always by agreement and not by bloodshed. We serve not ourselves alone. The friendly nations of the Americas can render no greater service to civilization itself than by maintaining both domestic and international peace and by freeing themselves forever from conflict.

No Time to Hesitate.

We are about to gather in a great American conference, called by President Justo in furtherance of the good neighbor policy in which we all share. In this conference we have the opportunity to banish war from the new world and dedicate it to peace.

It is unthinkable to me that in this time of world-wide apprehension we should fail to seize the opportunity to meet what is a heavy responsibility. This is no time to hesitate. We must be guided by a serene and generous view of our common needs.

World horizons may be dark, but the time is auspicious for our task in America. The rest of the world presents a grim picture of armed camps and threats of conflict. But in our own continent armed clashes which in recent years have divided American countries have been happily brought to an end.

It is gratifying to be able to pay well deserved tribute to the very outstanding part played by your able and distinguished foreign minister, Macedo Soares, in the mediatory efforts of the representatives of six American republics. And the Leticia question was settled here in Rio through the patient assistance and masterly diplomacy of Dr. Afranio Mello Franco.

The progress we have made must not be allowed to serve as pretext for resting on our laurels; it should, on the contrary, stimulate us to new and increased effort. It is not enough that peace prevails from the arctic to the antarctic, from the Atlantic to the Pacific; it is essential that this condition be made permanent, that we provide effectively against the recurrence of the horrors of war and assure peace to ourselves and our posterity.

All instrumentalities for the maintenance of peace must be consolidated and reinforced. We cannot countenance aggression—from wheresoever it may come.

No Desire for Conquest.

The people of each and every one of the American republics—and, I am confident, the people of the dominion of Canada as well—wish to lead their own lives free from desire for conquest and free from fear of conquest—free at the same time to expand their cultural and intellectual relationships and tc take counsel together to encourage the peaceful progress of modern civilization. Our aims will best be served by agreements which bring peace, security and friendship among us and all our neighbors.

Solidarity among the American states in the cause of peace constitutes no threat to other regions or races. The honorable adherence to solemn agreements among us will harm no other continent. On the contrary—the more firmly peace is established in this hemisphere, the more closely we will live up to the spirit as well as the letter of our agreements, the better it will be for all the rest of the world.

Let us present a record which our hemisphere may give to the world as convincing proof that peace lies always at hand when nations, serene in their sovereign security, meet their current problems with understanding good will.

No Nation Can Live Apart.

All of us have learned that no real, no lasting prosperity can exist where it is secured at the expense of our neighbors—that among nations, as in our domestic relations, the principle of interdependence is paramount.

No nation can live entirely to itself. Each one of us has learned the glories of independence. Let each one of us learn the glories of interdependence. Economically we supply each other's needs; intellectually we maintain a constant, a growing exchange of culture, of science and of thought; spiritually the life of each can well enrich the life of all. We are showing in international relations what we have long known in private relations—that good neighbors make a good community.

In that knowledge we meet today as neighbors. We can discard the dangerous language of rivalry; we can put aside the empty phrases of "diplomatic triumphs" or "shrewd bargains." We can forget all thought of domination, of selfish coalitions or of balances of power. Those false gods have no place among American neighbors.

Hopes to Banish Conflict.

Happily, the relations between Brazil and the United States have transcended those lesser conceptions. Secure in unbroken respect and friendship we meet with full respect, each for the other, with every hope that our mutual regard may prove useful to others as well.

There has never been a time when this confidence between Brazil and the United States was more precious or more needed. I know from my enlightening conversation with President Vargas that we are entering the coming conference deeply mindful of our responsibilities and the need to work in fullest understanding with all of the republic of this hemisphere. If we are guided by wisdom, such comprehension will banish conflict from this part of the world.

We are entitled to hope that we may thus contribute to the universal ideal that nations throughout the entire world, laying weapons aside, may at last fulfill the greatest ambition which any nation, large or small, can have—that of contributing steadily and, above all, generously to the advance of well-being, culture and civilization throughout the changing years.

2 U. S. Sailors in Roosevelt Escort Injured in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 27. —(AP)—Two members of the crew of the United States cruiser Chester were injured today when a skylight fell on them while they were sipping soft drinks in an ice cream store. Kenneth Richardson, a first class seaman, was knocked unconscious and suffered abrasions of the forehead. Robert Muzzy, a machinist's mate, suffered injury to his right hand. After first aid treatment at a hospital, both men returned to the ship. The Chester accompanied the cruiser Indianapolis, bearing President Roosevelt.

in the possession of the government proves, are prepared to collaborate with the rebels in naval, military, and air operations.

"Such facts, because of the simultaneousness of their origin, constitute a situation affecting international relations and menacing peace and good will among nations.

"Therefore, in the name of the Spanish government, in the paramount interest of peace, and in virtue of Article 11 of the league covenant, I ask your excellency to take the necessary measure to have the council proceed as soon as possible to examine the situation I have outlined."

France "Deplores" Move.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France tonight deplored the Spanish government's appeal to the league of nations without consulting other countries, and a source close to the government called it "a frightful development."

One official said Spain's request that the league consider Italo-German recognition of the Spanish Fascist rebels "makes it an affair in which all Europe will be involved."

Delbos told the chamber of deputies foreign affairs committee:

"It would have been better if the move had been submitted first to France for consultation, since England and even Russia have advised against it."

France, he said, would act in close collaboration with England regarding policy toward the Spanish civil war.

"In this matter, no less than any other," Delbos declared, "France cannot act alone, and if England decides to continue to avoid all sources of complications France must likewise take into consideration its public opinion."

British Oppose Move.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Great Britain was represented as opposed to the Spanish demand for a meeting of the league of nations council to consider the civil war situation. The council could accomplish only a reaffirmation of the principle of nonintervention, a high government source said, and the European neutrality committee already is trying to enforce this principle.

MADRID DIGS TUNNELS

MADRID, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Madrid citizens dug underground tunnels today to speed their flight from house to house in the bitter siege against the capital by Fascist rebels.

With bare hands and what shovels they could find, the householders burrowed from one cellar to the next to assure some means of exit if their homes were demolished by bombardment.

Asphyxiation killed hundreds trapped in basements during the last three weeks of siege. Others were crushed to death by falling débris, and the tunnels were designed to guard against this.

City on Vegetarian Diet.

Their haste was increased by a clear sky after two days of rain and the renewed threat of Fascist aerial attack. Few pedestrians were about the streets, and they were morose and silent. Women wore bathrobes or kitchen attire—the finery of dress and the dash of gay boulevard life was absent. Curtains flapped through jagged window panes of shell-scarred buildings. Débris lay untouched about the streets. Lack of food was becoming more acute and most of the city was on a vegetarian diet.

Light skirmishes marked the struggle for University City, northwestern Madrid suburb, but neither Fascist nor loyalist troops made apparent advances.

The government defenses were battered tonight by a lone rebel bomber. The plane dropped at least ten bombs into the Madrid defense lines, while every anti-aircraft battery in the city kept up an incessant fire in a vain attempt to bring it down. The single handed raid lasted almost an hour.

Gen. Emilio Kleber, naturalized Canadian and leader of the international brigade of foreign volunteers, was named supreme commander of the suburban defenses as a reward for brilliant services. Kleber described himself as a "professional revolutionary." A solidly built man in his early 50's, he boasts of his "experience in directing the proletariat's struggle in Russia, Germany, and China."

Report Spanish Premier's Son Executed by Rebels

MADRID, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Reports here tonight said Joseph, 22 year old son of Socialist Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, was executed by a Fascist firing squad. He was held prisoner by the Spanish rebels at Talavera de la Reina.

WENDELIN PRAISED BY U. S. FOR HANDLING OF SITUATION IN SPAIN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—A report on the evacuation of Madrid by the American embassy staf was received by the state department today from Eric C. Wendelin, third secretary in charge of the embassy. The department sent him a message of commendation for his "excellent work." The message, sent by B. Walton Moore, acting secretary of state, said:

"Upon the occasion of the successful evacuation from Madrid of the remaining Americans and our official staf, I wish to commend you for your excellent work and for the splendid way in which you have measured up to your heavy responsibilities during the past four months. Under difficult and trying conditions, without regard to personal danger to yourself, you have taken care of our nationals and our interests in a manner which merits the highest praise and is in keeping with the best traditions of the foreign service.

"Please convey my commendation and thanks to the American officials who assisted in the conduct of the embassy, notably Col. Fuqua, Consul John D. Johnson, and Vice Consul Bolard More."

WALLY GETS FAN MAIL; THREATS ON LIFE DENIED

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Wallis [Wally] Simpson, her friends said today, is getting plenty of fan mail ranging from letters by "cranks" to those from school girls. But, they hastened to add, none has threatened her life and termed reports to that effect "entirely without foundation."

The American friend of King Edward VIII. of England, awaiting her divorce decree nisi from Ernest A. Simpson, shipping broker, to become final, goes about as she pleases and sees old friends and acquaintances—including Edward—as much as ever, the friends said.

With a London bobby never more than a few yards from her door, friends added, her home is amply protected. They insisted no special policeman had been assigned to handle her mail.

ZAHAROFF DIES; WAR MAKER AND A MYSTERY MAN

Super-Arms Salesman Has Heart Attack.

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Sir Basil Zaharoff, Europe's mystery armament salesman whose name has been linked with major wars and Latin American revolts, died today at 86.

His death came on his annual visit from his French country home to this gambling city in which he is reported to have held a controling interest.

Stepdaughter at Bedside.

Physicians said he was stricken suddenly with a heart attack. He collapsed in the arms of his valet who was helping him dress in his hotel room. Sir Basil died at 9 a. m. His stepdaughter, the countess of Bourbon, was at the bedside.

Both the United States and Great Britain sought, during the later years of his life, to withdraw the cloak from the activities of the so-called "war maker" who was one of the richest men in Europe.

The United States senate's investigating committee linked him with American armaments manufacturers in Latin American dealings, and a British royal commission brought his name into its inquiry of international munitions manufacturers.

To Be Buried in Secrecy.

Zaharoff will be buried in the same secrecy which made him a mystery man while he lived.

Without a ceremony, his body is to be taken from Monte Carlo at 4 a. m. tomorrow to his isolated chateau at Balincourt near Vallangoumard, France, where he had resided quietly for the last few years. The early hour apparently was selected to avoid the gathering of curious persons who have heard tales of Zaharoff.

Although details of the funeral were not disclosed, it was expected he would be buried Sunday beside his wife inside the chateau grounds, hidden from roadside view by walls, trees, and hedges. He left instructions, his stepdaughter said, that there would be no flowers if he died.

A MODERN ENIGMA.

Never in modern history was there a figure more powerful or complex, or which moved with greater inscrutibility through its pages than Zaharoff.

He died the world's greatest enigma. No potentate or capitalist with anything like a comparable influence on the destinies of nations lived and died so completely the unanswered question mark as Zaharoff.

Innumerable legends surrounded his name. His life's work was shrouded for the most part in the veiled combinations and reshufflings among the munitions makers. He never discussed his origin or his business. It is said that he sat before a fire several years ago and burned all his diaries page by page.

Their publication would have been impossible during his lifetime, for it was said somebody would have killed him first. No one else knew Zaharoff's complete story.

Dined with Wilson.

The threads of his life were wound around almost every Balkan war for the last fifty years. The skein was woven into more than one South American conflict. The incredible Zaharoff was found in St. Petersburg plying with his attentions the mistress of a grand duke, which enabled him to sell armaments to the Russians in their war with Japan. He brought Greece into the world war on the side of the allies, and at the close President Wilson, David Lloyd George, and Georges Clemenceau went together to dine with him.

The line even reached to Chicago, for Zaharoff was a great friend of Samuel Insull.

The master arms salesman was born in Phanaz, Turkey, Oct. 20, 1850. He went to Athens as a young man, where he gained a precarious livelihood as money changer, tourists' guide, and cloth merchant.

Arms Agent in Balkans.

In 1877 he became Balkan agent for the Anglo-Swedish munitions firm Nordenfelt. From that moment Zaharoff moved swiftly to his place of power in Europe. In every European conflict he sold armaments with strict impartiality to both countries.

For over half a century he functioned as a power in the British munitions firm of Vickers.

Zaharoff's great opportunity came in the Russo-Japanese war. It was his firm which supplied most of the Russian munitions, and he emerged with a huge fortune in commissions.

Zaharoff foresaw the world war and took the side of France. His interests had meantime spread into other munitions firms, reputedly in Canada, India, and China. His political influence was tremendous, not only in the Balkans, but throughout the whole of southern Europe and the near east.

When the world war began he immediately made a large cash donation to the French government. His other gifts during the war, according to the French semi-official newspaper Temps, amounted to about $2,500,000. His help in the political sphere was almost as valuable to the French government, perhaps more so. He brought Greece into the war on the side of the allies, and is even credited with swaying the Italians to the same decision.

Germany Regarded Him as Foe.

Germany regarded him as a dangerous enemy and made two attempts to kidnap him, once by submarine. Zaharoff was on a vessel returning to Europe when a U-boat appeared. The submarine commander signaled that he wanted Herr Zaharoff, who, he added, was known to be in Cabin 24. A friend of Zaharoff's took his place in the cabin and was duly taken off the ship by the submarine crew and the vessel was allowed to proceed. After the mistake was discovered the captive was released.

Toward the close of the war he was consulted more than once by Lloyd George on Balkan and near eastern affairs in 1918-'19. How much his influence exerted from his palace in the Avenue Hoche in Paris influenced the Versailles boundary decisions will probably never be known. But his enemies laid at his door the charge that he forestalled the abolition of private arms manufacturing.

Backs Greece in War.

Zaharoff's last great excursion in international politics came during the Greek war with Turkey in 1920-'21. Zaharoff was a friend and supporter of Eleutherios Venezelos. It was reputedly due to his influence that the then British coalition government, headed by Lloyd George, supported Greece. The British policy was attacked in the house of commons by members of parliament, who demanded to know just to what extent Downing street's actions were dictated by outside influences.

After Turkey won the war Zaharoff's activities took on another phase. He took out French naturalization papers. He had emerged as a banker, an insurance magnate with tremendous investments, a power in shipping, through Vickers, and finally as the publisher of a French newspaper.

Meantime he had reaped the reward for his services to the allies. The late King George V. of England had made him knight grand cross of the Bath, and knight grand cross of the British empire. He was the only foreigner ever awarded the former decoration.

Married Duchess in 1924.

The French government had also conferred upon him the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. He was the only civilian to receive this award during the war.

In September, 1924, he was married to the Spanish noblewoman, the Duchess de Marchena. It was the culmination of a romance lasting more than 20 years. She was married morganatically in 1886 to the Duc de Marchena Francisco de Bourbon, a relative of former King Alfonso.

The duke spent 15 years in an insane asylum until his death in 1923. She assumed the title of her first husband for her marriage to Zaharoff, since the name Bourbon represented royal blood.

Oil Deals Recalled.

Zaharoff's active career closed at the time of the Anglo-Persian oil deals. The Anglo-Persian oil fields are controled by the British government. Zaharoff organized and put a fortune into a French concern to market Anglo-Persian products in France. The move was interpreted as a direct challenge to the Rockefellers, who had previously held a huge share of the French market.

Since then he had lived in almost jail-like retirement. Charity, he once said, was his pet hobby. He founded chairs of aviation both in Paris and London, which he endowed with $125,000 each, and also chairs of French and English literature at Oxford and the Sorbonne respectively, which he also endowed.

Zaharoff had another diversion. It was in his kitchen. He was said to have been one of the best cooks alive, and personally superintended the preparation of his meals.

After the death of Lady Zaharoff, in 1926, he lived in closer retirement than ever before.

JAPAN TO SEEK NEW NATIONAL LOAN DUE TO A RECORD BUDGET

TOKIO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Finance Minister Eiichi Baba said tonight a new national loan for Japan will be necessary as a result of the record-breaking 1937-38 budget, more than half of which was devoted to the army and navy. The cabinet approved the budget today.

The new budget of 3,041,000,000 yen [about $870,000,000] represented an increase of 73,000,000 yen [about $19,564,000] over the current budget. Nevertheless, appropriations for both branches of the armed forces were reduced by approximately 200,000,000 yen [$57,200,000]. Less than five per cent of the new budget was alloted to education.

Cuts in the military expenditures left a total of 1,409,000,000 yen [about $400,000,000]. Of this the army was given $205,000,000, the navy $194,480,000.

Baba said he would try to keep the anticipated national loan below one billion yen and he hoped to raise revenue by revision of the taxation and tarif systems while raising monopoly prices.

FOAM OF FUN

BY CALEB

WHEN you were a boy or girl, you likely played—depending on your generation—with toys of "simple breed and caliber." A little wood wagon, a few spools and some string, a stuffed calico animal, a rag doll, a spotted wood hobby horse, or a pair of stilts!

Nowadays, view the toys with which children play.

Our year 'round, world famous toy floor is at its annual flood-tide. Animals, dolls, games, toys, trains, bikes, and innumerable "kinderphernalia" have foamed and flowed possessively into cases, into counters, and over extensive new areas.

This is my personal urge to you—adult you—no matter how long it has been since you were, or have had, a child, to come and see how the world has wagged. Nowadays, toys are amazing.

Great organizations have hardly wheedled the "electric eye" into doing their bidding in laboratories and shops—when lo, the earnest urchin scarcely accustomed to his second teeth enslaves the same phenomenon and in his own home makes it turn on the radio, ring a bell, or stop a clock.

Sixty years ago, discoveries of vast importance to the world were coming from the combined wisdom and eyesight of the great Koch—and a microscope! Now—at toy prices!—boys not yet in their teens can peer into microscopes and see the same world-shaking things great scientists have seen.

Girls are not forgotten. Dolls, from playing with which girls can learn many things a rag doll could never teach, are here—538 different styles and many sizes of some styles! Minutely exquisite doll-house furniture, too, from sources where fingers are deft and skilful—furniture to scale and true to tradition.

There are games—instructive games for boys and girls—and there are chemical and mineralogical sets—and lead casting sets—and airplane and locomotive model sets.

You will say, "Now when I was a boy (or girl), play was for fun. From what I see here, it looks as though toys are for education and for fun." And that's precisely true.

If any theme in toys today predominates, it is a constructive theme. It's a theme of "learning." Toys are far more intriguing and more fun than ever to play with—but the play leaves a "residue" of increased knowledge.

Before the season advances—and children take over the place bodily—slip in to our fourth floor Wabash and remind yourself of an hour or two of the long ago. We will understand your desire to "just look" on this fascinating floor. We get it, too.

BRITAIN WARNS SHE WILL GO TO WAR FOR BELGIUM

Ready to Defend Freedom from "Cannon Rule."

BY DAVID DARRAH.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Great Britain cleared its diplomatic decks tonight for new developments in the critical Spanish civil war situation. Capt. Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, issued a blunt warning, unmistakably meant for Nazi ears, that, in case warfare does spread through Europe, Britain proposes to fight, if necessary, to protect Belgium from "unprovoked aggression."

At the same time, it was believed, following an emergency cabinet session earlier in the day, that the government is ready to grant belligerent rights to the Spanish Fascist rebels in an effort to avert possible war-making clashes in the Mediterranean incident to the threatened rebel blockade of loyalist Barcelona.

Belgium Has "Special Place."

Rushing from the meeting to a luncheon given by the international chamber of commerce for Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium, Eden declared that "people who seem to have no finer inspiration than that of the cannon" must understand that the British and Belgians are ready to fight in self-defense.

"Belgium has a special place in the friendship of the British people," Eden said. "In many respects our outlook on world affairs is similar. We are both of us democracies. We cherish our freedom, both individual and national, and we will not yield it up.

"We have no more sacred trust than to insure that that cause for which hundreds of thousands of people in our countries were sacrificed is not lost. I believe that in the present state of the world no greater service can be done by our country to the cause of peace than clarity.

Pledges British Help.

"Let us, therefore, on this Anglo-Belgian occasion once again affirm that the independence and integrity of Belgium is of vital interest to this nation and that Belgium can count on our help if she is ever a victim of unprovoked aggression.

"I say these words deliberately, because I am confident they represent the will of the British people, and that to make this plain is a contribution to peace. And let there be no mistake—these conceptions are tokens neither of softness nor cowardice.

"Nations must choose. If they determine to return to the arbitrament of the sword it will be found that the terrible weapons science has forged can be wielded with courage by people who love their freedom both individually and nationally and want to preserve it."

The ministers were ordered to cancel all engagements for the cabinet meeting.

Cabinet Split on Issue.

It has been known for several days that a strong faction in the cabinet has been fighting for recognition of the Fascists as belligerents on the ground that such action would be one of the best ways to avoid "incidents" in the Mediterranean.

Today's meeting was considered an attempt to whip dissenters into line and announce recognition before any trouble is caused by Gen. Francisco Franco's blockade of Barcelona.

Everything possible is being done to prevent trouble. A bill making it a misdemeanor for an owner, captain, or charterer of any British ship to allow the use of his vessel for taking arms or other war supplies to Spain, to Spanish colonies or anywhere with the knowledge that it is to be trans-shipped to Spain, is before parliament.

Britain to Protect Belgium.

The object of this measure is to relieve Great Britain of the necessity of protecting British ships if they are caught running guns.

This bill, if passed, will make life easier for the members of the international non-intervention committee on Spain, whose subcommittee met today. The subcommittee adjourned until Wednesday without any announcement of progress on a proposal for a committee of supervision in Spain to insure observance of the non-intervention pact.

A new move in the British efforts to consolidate friendships and possibly alliances around the eastern Mediterranean was seen today in an announcement that Commander R. S. Lovatt has been loaned by the admiralty as director of studies in the Greek naval war academy.

CAPTURE OF GORE, '2D CAPITAL OF ETHIOPIA,' CLAIMED BY ITALIANS

ROME, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Italian government officially announced today that Gore, "Ethiopia's second capital," had fallen to an Italian flying column.

The official communique said that the Italians, commanded by Col. Malta, found Ras Imru and his followers "prisoners of the tribesmen of the region who were supposed to support Haile Selassie's so-called provisional government," which was centered at Gore, in western Ethiopia.

Gore, Ethiopian delegates declared at Geneva, was the seat of the Ethiopean government following Emperor Haile Selassie's flight and the fall of Addis Ababa.

The Italian troops, composed of Eritreans and Ethiopians, found the British consulate closed. Capt. E. W. Erskin, the British consul, was recalled by his government several weeks ago. The occupation gave the Italians possession of a vast, rich zone, which is famous for its gold, coffee, wax, and tropical products.

U. S. SECURITY 20 YEARS BEHIND, IS LADY ASTOR VIEW

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—"American social legislation, including social security, is twenty years behind that of England," Lady Astor, American born member of the British parliament, said today upon arriving in New York with Lord Astor aboard the Furness liner Monarch of Bermuda.

"Why, in England 3 out of every 5 pounds of a person's income goes to the government for social security," she said.

She scoffed at President Roosevelt's liberalism.

"If I were in this country very long," she said, "the newspapers would by comparison make President Roosevelt look like a Sunday school teacher."

Lady Astor also derided the power of the press in politics. "In all my experience," she said, "newspapers have never influenced anything. I say that, and my husband owns one in England. The press is always against me in England."

Woman Who Threw Iron at U. S. Embassy Enters Clinic

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Edwina Thompson, 32, who said she hurled a flatiron through a window at the United States embassy because she had an unexplained grudge against the British foreign office, went voluntarily to a hospital today for observation. She had been held by police since the window breaking incident a week ago.

FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH.

Sterling, Ill., Nov. 27.—(Special.)—Harry Wendell, 63, was found late today frozen to death at the edge of Rock river, where he evidently stumbled and fell last night.

FRANCE ACTS TO SETTLE STRIKES BY 'STRONG ARM'

Bill Makes Arbitration Compulsory.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Premier Leon Blum, his administration menaced by a fresh wave of strikes, tonight appealed to the chamber of deputies for "strong arm" legislation enabling him to cope with the industrial crisis.

After winning the support of his Popular Front cabinet in individual visits, the premier presented his bill for compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, which would place upon his government all responsibility for ensuing developments.

The lower house immediately sent the bill to the labor committee, which was expected to report it back to the chamber Monday.

20,000 Metal Workers Out.

The new wave of strikes spread after employers refused to meet with labor representatives so long as the strikers occupied their factories. In the Sambre basin, 20,000 metal workers struck, many occupying their plants.

Similar strikes were under consideration in the Valenciennes region, where there are 25,000 metal workers.

The strike of 8,000 metal workers at Lille, union officials said, might spread to include all 12,000 industrial workers in that area.

Dock workers in Le Havre continued their refusal to work cargo on American ships from American ports where there are strikes. The U. S. liner Washington sailed with its cargo still unloaded after the company abandoned its efforts to persuade the French sympathy strikers to reconsider their decision.

Fascists Lose Appeal.

Beset by internal political difficulties as well as the strikes, the Blum government was heartened by the decision of the council of state in rejecting the appeal of Col. Francois de la Rocque and other rightists against the government's disbanding of the old Fascist organization, Croix de Feu.

The rightists, who declared the Croix de Feu was abolished in fact as well as by decree, said they were fighting a government threat to dissolve their new French Social party.

PLANE AND SHIP PASSENGERS HIT BY STORM SAFE

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Storm weary airplane and ship passengers stretched their legs on firm ground today, glad to reach safety from gales and fogs.

Riding out a terrific storm in the Gulf of Alaska, the overdue motorship Kasilof reached Seward from Seldovia with an undetermined number of passengers. Airplane Pilot Chet Brown, his twelve passengers aboard the coast guard patrol boat Morris, landed his tri-motored ship at Juneau, ending a search that started Monday.

Coast guardsmen on the Morris found Brown's plane yesterday at Gull Cove, 75 miles from Juneau, where he waited out the storm. W. W. Stoll, one of his passengers, said the party spent three days on the beach with little to eat but raw clams.

RED PROSECUTOR STRIKES AT U. S. SUPREME COURT

Roasts Democracy and Constitution.

MOSCOW, Nov. 27.—(AP)—One of the highest soviet prosecutors today attacked the United States Supreme court, the American democracy and constitution, before the all union congress of soviets called to promulgate the new Russian constitution by Dictator Josef Stalin.

The attacks on the American legislative procedure came after the congress received reports of a new border incident in the far east, made public while 1,000 picked Russian soldiers paraded in the Kremlin where speakers denounced the enemies of the soviet union.

A. J. Vishinsky, noted prosecutor who handled the case against the now executed counterrevolutionaries Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kamenev, praised the soviet judicial system. Comparing it with the United States procedure, he said:

"Our judicial system is the backbone of democracy. In the United States the Supreme court appointed by the President is called upon to cover up the reactionary actions of the ruling minority.

Recalls Jefferson's Words.

"It was well described by Jefferson, who said 'the Supreme court is the hawk which soars over congress to keep the chickenyard in order.'

"In all bourgeois countries the courts protect the moneybags and the judges are usually rich politicians.

"The soviet constitution is the only true constitution in the world. The basis of bourgeois constitutions is the private property exploitation of man by man."

Vishinsky went on to similar criticisms of the Japanese, German, Italian, and Polish constitutions.

The prosecutor's indictments of the "capitalistic countries" was about the only act of the day's congress which was not concerned with the far eastern situation.

It was reported that Russian and Japanese-Manchukuan border patrols fought a battle in the second frontier incident charged by Russia in the last three days. The Kremlin protested a previous clash. Reports from Khabarovsk said a detachment of 50 Japanese Manchukuan soldiers crossed the frontier and were driven back after a clash in which many soldiers were killed on both sides.

Strengthen Border Guards.

It was reported tonight that the Russian far eastern command was reinforcing patrols all along the frontier.

Informed observers found great significance in the announcement that the first train had got through to Komsomolsk on the Soviet Great Northern to the Pacific, paralleling the trans-Siberian railroad. It was announced that the steel laying had been completed, but it was not made clear whether the steel into Komsomolsk was that of the new railroad or a spur from the Trans-Siberian.

At any rate, it meant that the soviets were nearing completion of the new road—called the most important military railway in the world—and now can speed up the construction from both termini. Indications were that the railroad would be ready for heavy traffic in 1937.

RUSSIA FINISHES MILITARY RAILWAY

The All-Union Congress of Soviets at Moscow yesterday received word that steel laying on the Soviet Great Northern railroad has been completed. Recognized as the most important military railway in the world, it extends from Taishet to Komsomolsk, near the Pacific ocean, and parallels the trans-Siberian railway. The new line will be opened for heavy traffic in 1937.

WAR DEBTS DUE U. S. ON DEC. 15, 13 NATIONS TOLD

Hints Some May Ask for Funding Pacts.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Formal notices that war debt payments will be due on Dec. 15 have been sent by the state department to thirteen foreign governments with indications that in the replies France, Italy, and possibly some other countries may make suggestions that will lead to a reopening of the debt question with the view of negotiating new funding agreements.

The basis for believing that since the widespread defaults began after the Hoover moratorium the prospect is developing of a resumption of payments coincident with perhaps some scaling down in the amounts owed the United States, rests upon press dispatches from Rome and Paris. No intimation to this effect, it was said by the state department today, has been received through official channels.

Seek Modified Basis.

Both Italy and France, according to foreign dispatches, are desirous of resuming payments on a modified basis, in order to escape from the ban of the Johnson act, which prevents their obtaining loans in this country because of their status as war debt defaulters.

Should they in reply to the notices of payments due on Dec. 15 make suggestions for reopening the entire debt question, these would be considered on their merits, it was said by state department spokesmen.

It was recalled in this connection that the United States since the general series of default began has repeatedly stated that, while it would not take the initiative in proposing new bases of payments it would be prepared to consider in good faith any offers the debtors might make. It has made clear that it would treat with debtor governments separately, and not on a group basis.

Matter for Congress.

In any event the question of method of debt negotiation, while it might be taken up first through diplomatic channels, is one for congress to determine. Officials professed today not to know whether congress would prefer itself to negotiate with the debtor, perhaps through a joint committee, to recreate the debt funding commission, or to instruct the President to treat with the debtors through ordinary diplomatic processes.

Notices of payments due were sent to Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Finland, France, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia. All have new amounts due except Jugo-Slavia.

TRIP TO GET NOBEL PEACE PRIZE PLANNED BY GERMAN PACIFIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Karl von Ossietzky, in the presence of high officials of the ministry of propaganda and the Gestapo [Nazi secret police], was allowed to give his first long interview today since the Norwegian committee awarded him the 1935 Nobel peace prize.

Officials expressed a conviction that the German government will allow the German pacifist, only recently freed from a Nazi concentration camp, to go to Oslo to collect the prize, valued at nearly $40,000, despite the official Nazi protest against the award, which was termed an "insult."

In the interview today Ossietzky, who is reported seriously ill, declared that when his health permits him to travel, he will go to Oslo to accept the prize.

"I will speak on pacifism and European common sense," he said. "I have remained a pacifist. I realize there are pacifists in Europe who have guns and armaments. But I know they are pacifists because I know they do not want war. Nobody will be able to resent what I will say at Oslo when the time comes for me to speak. I do not want to complicate relations between Germany and Norway because I am a good German."

ITALIANS ADMIT PACT WITH JAPAN IS BEING DRAWN

Rome Insists It Will Be Commercial Accord.

ROME, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A treaty between Italy and Japan providing for reciprocal recognition of Manchukuo and Ethiopia is under way, a well informed source said tonight.

The treaty, containing the recognition clauses, would be mainly a commercial accord between the two nations, this source said, emphasizing that the negotiations were begun before the German-Japanese alliance against communism was announced.

An informed person declared Germany and Japan had not intended to bring Italy into their accord. He added that Italy did not believe it necessary for her to adhere.

Pact Shut to Others.

The Japanese-German pact, it was said, was merely complementary to the anti-communist understanding which already exists between Italy and Germany.

The accord being negotiated between Italy and Japan, authoritative sources said, would be different from the Japanese-German agreement, because Italy would not, like Germany, hold the accord open to all states "whose domestic peace is threatened by destructive activities of the comintern [communist internationale]."

[Despite this, the newspaper Ashi, in Tokio, said the Italian-Japanese accord would be essentially the same as the German-Japanese pact and would also include trade and cultural agreements. A Japanese foreign office spokesman, however, said the contemplated agreement was in no way similar to the German-Japanese alliance.]

Rush Economic Alliance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Negotiations for a closer economic alliance between Germany and Japan are proceeding rapidly. Leading German industrialists are convinced the two nations will succeed in eliminating mutual trade rivalry in the far east.

South China railroads will figure as a test case for the budding economic alliance. The firm of Otto Wolf, supported by a number of other leading firms, hopes to obtain big railroad building concessions in South China with the help of the Japanese.

Meanwhile the Japanese embassy is being showered with telegrams and letters from prominent Germans expressing joy at the alliance. Julius Streicher, leading Nazi Jew baiter and apostle of race purity, was one of the first to congratulate the embassy. Only Gen. Erich Ludendorff, most famous of surviving German world war leaders, and his followers of the suppressed Tannenberg league continue to look with distrust at the representatives of the "yellow peril," whom most Germans are now describing as "Prussians of the east."

A large number of industrial organizations received a circular note from Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, advising them to "disregard political complications and continue economic relations with Russia."

Germany Reassures China.

NANKING, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Germany told China today the Berlin-Tokio pact against communism was not aimed at China. In a conference with Chinese Foreign Minister Chang Chun, the German ambassador, Oscar Trautmann, explained the significance of the pact. Chang Chun did not comment. Nanking officialdom was unanimous in agreeing there was no possibility that China would join the accord.

FRANCE TO ABANDON PLAN TO GIVE CHAPEL TO ROCKEFELLER JR.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The French government is understood to have abandoned its idea of making a gift of the fifteenth century gothic chapel at Chauvirey-Le-Chatel to John D. Rockefeller Jr.

This decision is expected to follow a resolution adopted today by the general council of the Haute Saone department opposing the export of artistic treasures, and expressly the removal of the chapel. Residents of Chauvirey also have protested demolition of the old building.

It was the idea of the French Beaux Arts ministry to send the chapel to be reconstructed in America as an expression of appreciation for Mr. Rockefeller's generosity in repairing the Versailles chateau, Rheims cathedral and Fountainebleau palace. The government will seek other appropriate means of expressing its gratitude.

JAP PLOT TO SET UP AN EMPIRE IN MONGOLIA BARED

Secret Plans Seized by Chinese Troops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 27.—A Japanese conspiracy to organize an Inner Mongolian puppet state to be known as the Great Yuan empire was alleged to have been revealed in secret documents seized following the recent capture by Suiyuan provincial troops of Pailingmiao, stronghold of the rebel Mongol prince, Tet Wang.

Reports of the conspiracy were contained in Chinese news dispatches from Kweisui, Suiyuan capital. The documents disclosed that Japanese plans to spend 440,000,000 Chinese dollars to establish a new state and has already given out 50,000,000 Chinese dollars. [A Chinese dollar is worth about 30 cents.]

Embraces Inner Mongolia.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China, and Gen. Yen. Si-shan, vice chairman of the military affairs commission of the Nanking central government, today issued a circular letter urging Mongol and Manchu irregulars to repent and join the government army. As an incentive the government offered cash rewards to deserters ranging from 50,000 Chinese dollars for desertion of a divisional commander to 10 Chinese dollars for an individual soldier, with appropriate rewards for intervening ranks.

Jap Army Ready to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 28 [Saturday].—The Japanese army in Manchukuo is preparing to take action in the fighting in Inner Mongolia a dispatch from Hsinking said today. Japanese army headquarters at Hsinking announced there is a likelihood that peace in areas adjoining Manchukuo may be disturbed by communists and in this event the Japanese army may be forced to take measures which it deems necessary.

FRANCE CAN TAKE CARE OF HERSELF, PREMIER BOASTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Declaring that the international situation has not been so grave and dangerous in the last three months as it is right now, Premier Leon Blum tonight protested against the feeling abroad that France is feeble and unable to take care of herself.

"France, whatever turn her politics may take, possesses the strongest military force on continental Europe, barring only Russia," he said at a Popular Front massmeeting.

Blum insisted that France is strong not only in a military way, "but also politically and diplomatically."

"They say abroad that France is weakened by internal struggles, and cannot any longer play her rôle in Europe," he cried. "That is not so."

'Year's Delight' Is Critic's View of 'Swinnerton'

Confrere Pens His Own Biography.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Swinnerton," an autobiography. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75].

JUST ten years ago this month there appeared for the first time on the book pages of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE the name of Frank Swinnerton as London literary correspondent. In those ten years "constant readers" of the book pages have come to know him as an unfailingly generous, kind, and always interesting chronicler of the London literary scene. They have—if they were fortunate—read at least four novels from his pen during those ten years, one volume of essays, and far and away the best comprehensive picture and criticism of English literature since the Victorians ["The Georgian Scene"] that has come from a contemporary's pen.

FRANK SWINNERTON.

Those readers have found a novelist with charm, with taste and with skill [and those three qualities are by no means common in combination these days]. They have found a literary critic and historian almost unique, for, while knowing all of the cults and the fads and the "movements," he has, never ostentatiously, but always successfully, avoided being either devotee or detractor. He has been that rarest of literary critics, welcome onlooker rather than unwelcome participator in feuds and fanfares.

Once when I was in London and mentioned Frank Swinnerton's name in a highly divergent and explosive literary group, to a man and woman every member declared "but there's a nice man!" while adjectives tore what is so elegantly termed the hide off practically every other critic mentioned.

Readers of "The Georgian Scene" had evidence of Frank Swinnerton's niceness in his sound, keen, but unbiased critical examination of the books of the period and even more obviously in his friendly evaluation of their authors, for it is much easier to keep one's perfectly balanced judgment about a work of art than it is about the author of that work of art if one knows him to be in his private life self-seeking, self-elated and self-fooled.

It is an axiom that genius is difficult beyond endurance for most people in daily contact. And rarely can genius contact genius without detonations which echo spite, malice, hatred.

To be sure malicious books about authors are often vastly amusing and many friendly ones are vapid. It takes a special kind of genius [and a rare one] to write as Frank Swinnerton wrote in "The Georgian Scene" and as he writes in "Swinnerton," sparklingly but kindly.

To me "Swinnerton" is one of the year's delights. Not only does it tell, with its author's most intriguing fictional skill, the story of a boy's conquest of poverty and ill health [he began supporting himself at 14]; not only does it vignette places, people, the period itself, but it is rich with humans whom Mr. Swinnerton has known [and you and I wish we had] and whom he sees humanly.

His two closest friends were Arnold Bennett and H. G. Wells, and the chapters in which he writes of them are infinitly illuminating not only of them but of the far younger man whom they both found it delightful to be with and for whom they both spent themselves generously.

When at 33 he wrote his now classic "Nocturne," Arnold Bennett, on whose yacht some of it was written, persuaded George Doran to publish it in America. H. G. Wells without telling Frank Swinnerton he was doing it wrote a preface to the American edition, thus making its introduction here propitious. Its beauty and charm won it an immediate and a strangely permanent place in the hearts of American readers for it still has a large yearly sale, almost twenty years after its publication.

The truth is that Frank Swinnerton is one of the nicest men in the world. Readers of his autobiography will envy [and rightly] those who call him friend.

They will not know him in the intimacy of most modern autobiographies, for Mr. Swinnerton is by nature and faith a modest man, but they will take delight in being with him through fifty years of the sort of intimacy which he permits them to have with him, for he has that rare genius of making a superbly good story not out of whole cloth but out of the truth.

Forgotten for 100 Years, a 'New' Sea Volume Is Ready

Republished after more than a century of neglect, "The Life and Adventures of John Nicol, Mariner" [Farrar & Rinehart, $4] reads with all the vigor and thrill of a modern masterpiece of the sea. Lovers of blue water literature may thank Alexander Laing, himself a well known writer, for bringing to life this quaint and entertaining volume—one of the first autobiographies of common seamen ever published.

While preparing to write "The Sea Witch" a few years ago, Laing read everything he could find relating to experiences of common seamen in the first half of the 19th century. He discovered a copy of "The Life and Adventures of John Nicol, Mariner," and felt before he had reached "the end of the first page that I was reading prose surpassed in its kind by none but that of Melville."

Laing's publisher shared his enthusiasm over his find and their sumptuous edition of this more than a century old biography makes it one of the most picturesque books of the sea.

John Nicol's life story is not only a fine piece of writing, it's a moving, stirring saga of sailing ship days; of thrilling action on merchantmen, whalers, convict ships, and naval craft; of storm and battle on the seven seas; a colorful picture of hardships before the mast a hundred years ago.

Alexander Laing's foreword on Nicol's autobiography and his epilog on nautical autobiography in general, add much to the value of this unusual volume. It is superbly illustrated by Gordon Grant.—A. C.

The Story of Gomez, Venezuela's Dictator, Sounds Promising

First of the great modern dictators to die, Gomez of Venezuela, whose career ended last December, reduced the world's total area of some 16,723,193 square miles under one or another form of dictatorial government by 393,874, an amateur statistician estimates at the risk of heated rebuttal. Gomez, without publicity or political ballyhoo, held absolute power of life and death over Venezuela's 3 million inhabitants, and was hardly heard of in the United States. He also fathered 97 children and never bothered to marry. His story is told by Thomas Rourke in "Gomez, Tyrant of the Andes" [Morrow, $3.50].

'Parody Party' Is Take Off on Many Famous

Authors Write in Style of Their Friends.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The new book of parodies, "Parody Party" [Hutchinson], is already stirring the minds of London readers; and it certainly will have a wide and appreciative public for many weeks to come. It contains fourteen parodies, the best of which are altogether exceptional; and while some of them will have smaller interest for American readers, since they deal with English authors who "travel" less well than some others, the book as a whole is a treasure.

Miss Rose Macaulay tells a story which Mr. Ernest Hemingway must have forgotten to record; Miss Rebecca West makes delicious fun of Mr. Charles Morgan; Miss G. B. Stern writes a little play in the manner of Sir James Barrie; Mr. Francis Iles covers the whole of Polchester in one comprehensive piece of absurdity at which Mr. Hugh Walpole will be the first to laugh; Mr. E. C. Bentley shows what he could do with Lord Peter Wimsey if Lord Peter were not the property of Miss Dorothy Sayers, and Mr. Cyril Connolly wickedly outdoes Mr. Aldous Huxley in a picture of smart decadence, a series of witticisms, and a profusion of learned allusions.

These, in my opinion, are the most amusing things in the book; but all the parodies are good natured as well as ribald, and "Parody Party" will be as popular with its victims as with the rest of the reading public.

The indefatigable Mr. Nigel Morland, who does so many things besides writing tales of his woman detective, has contributed to Messrs. Allen & Unwin's Practical Handbook series a small volume on "How to Write Detective Novels." It advises the tyro to do what he probably has done already: namely, to read as many different kinds of such novels as he can lay hands on, so that the methods of expert practioners may be studied and analysed; but it also very usefully names some English and foreign books of reference, adds a few "don'ts," and includes some interesting obiter dicta by Edgar Wallace, to whose kindly encouragement and advice the author of "The Moon Murders" and its successors owes so much.

The complete edition of Boswell's "Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides" [Heinemann] is just about to make its appearance here in limited form. It is amusing to realize that Dr. Johnson appropriated a large part of the original work, and that his more outspoken comments upon those whom he met were suppressed in the first edition.

Twice, of late, two authors have found themselves in unexpected competition when, after a considerable lapse of time, a new biography of a famous man has been planned. A couple of years ago the case was that of two lives of Sydney Smith, when Mr. Hezketh Pearson and Mr. Osbert Burdett were accidentally opposed; this season the conflict—only in the matter of subject—is between Mr. Oliver Warner and Mr. J. D. Griffith Davies, both of whom have written new biographies of the man who brought King Charles II. back to the English throne. Mr. Griffith Davies calls his book "Honest George Monck" [Lane], while Mr. Warner is much less ambiguous with the title [Jarrolds].

"Hero of the Restoration" [Jarrolds].

"The Nonsensibus," by D. B. Wyndham Lewis [Methuen], is an anthology, and not a new work by this remarkable humorist and historical biographer. It contains four hundred pages of nonsense, culled from a great variety of sources; and while readers who persist in taking too many pages at a single dose may begin to feel a trifle dizzy, those who keep their heads will find a treasure.

ELIZABETH AND HER PETS

One of the illustrations in "All the Dogs of My Life," by "Elizabeth." It pictures the author and the three current pets of her deliciously chronicled life sketch.

All About Dogs

All the Dogs of My Life, by Elizabeth. [Doubleday Doran, $2.]
"The Dear Dogs," by Ada Galsworthy. [Scribners, $1.]
Himself, written and illustrated by K. F. Barker. [Scribners, $2.75.]
Champion, written and illustrated by K. F. Barker. [Scribners, $3.]
Dogs, by Alfred W. Meyer, D. V. M. [Whittlesey House, $2.50.]
The Practical Puppy Book, by Dorothy K. L'Hommedieu. [Windward House, $2.50.]
Our Friend the Collie.
Our Friend the Pomeranian.
Our Friend the English Springer Spaniel.
Three of a series, "Our Friend the Dog," edited by Rowland Johns. [Dutton, $1 each.]

THESE books would seem to be the private property of those who feel about dogs the way that Kipling's hero felt about tobacco ["A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke"], or, as the ever-delicious Elizabeth says in the first sentence of "All the Dogs of My Life": "I would like, to begin with, to say that though parents, husbands, children, lovers, and friends are all very well, they are not dogs."

But any one who misses "All the Dogs of My Life" because it is about dogs will miss one of the season's major small joys. The author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden," of the incomparable "Fraulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther," of that delicious foolery, "Introduction to Sally," could write about a soggy soufflé and make a delight of her subject.

As a matter of fact, "All the Dogs of My Life" is a vignette of autobiography. In many of the years of her life dogs played major rôles, and it is impossible to write of the fourteen that were her companions without writing also of her bluff father, who wouldn't have them around; of her Pomeranian husband, whose consolation for a manifestation of her slight dissatisfaction with life was to give her another baby.

Certainly for every one is "All the Dogs of My Life." And also for more than mere lovers of dogs is "The Dear Dogs" by Ada Galsworthy, for it contains side and high lights on her husband, John Galsworthy, many in the way of photographs and some in words.

The two books written and illustrated by K. F. Barker are like those delightful Cecil Aldin books of a day just passed, filled with pencil sketches and words equally intriguing. "Himself" is about the author's own terrier. And "Champion" is about a bull terrier whose father was a collie [though his bull terrier mother's social background was unimpeachable] and who, therefore, had to prove his championship in other ways. They are two books for and by a dog lover.

The other books listed are for reference rather than reading. They all concentrate information for those who know too little about the dogs they would like to know more about. Dr. Meyer's book tells about the care, training and selection of all breeds of dogs and discusses many common diseases and their cure. "The Dog Owner's Handbook" discusses more at length the various breeds and their characteristics and points. "The Practical Puppy Book" is a guide to the care and raising of puppies. It tells about washing and feeding and keeping them well, and has a helpful chapter on "Choosing the Puppy."

The additions to the "Our Friend the Dog" series are small manuals with practical advice on each breed. There are to date nineteen volumes in the series.—F. B.

Le Clercq Finishes Rabelais Translation for Limited Club

Jacques Le Clercq has finished his translation of the works of Rabelais after three years of labor upon it. He was commissioned by the Limited Editions club to the job because of the belief of the directors that a new translation was needed.

The classic Urquhart-Le Motteux translation, done in Elizabethan time, is generally considered to embody the raciness which appeared in Rabelais' 16th century French; but it is also generally considered to be nearly as obsolete in English as Rabelais' French.

The five books of Rabelais in the new Le Clercq translation are published in five volumes by the Limited Editions club. This edition is designed and decorated by W. A. Dwiggins.

Drake Turns Out Another Thriller of Sea and Jungle

H. B. Drake, who several seasons ago attracted some notice with two well written adventure yarns, "Cursed Be the Treasure" and "The Schooner California," again has turned out a lively thriller of the sea and jungle, "The Captain of the Jehova" [Greenberg, $2]. This story of a slaver, ruled by a fantastic skipper, is a skillfully written, rousing recital of another day on the Guinea coast. Drake's new book is head and shoulders above the average sea yarn in plot, writing, and atmosphere.

A. F. OF L. SEEKS 30 HOUR WEEK BY U. S. EDICT

Votes Against Attack on Supreme Court.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—William Green was reelected to his thirteenth term as president of the American Federation of Labor today. The keynote of his speech of acceptance was a renewed plea to John L. Lewis and other insurgents backing the Committee on Industrial Organization to "come back to our home and fight the common foe."

Today was the first time that Lewis, whose union was suspended because of the C. I. O. split, was not present to nominate his fellow member of the United Mine Workers. The nomination was made by George M. Harrison, president of the railway clerks' union, and seconded by J. W. Williams, head of the A. F. of L. building trades department, who pronounced Green "the most outstanding labor leader in the world today."

Resolutions Adopted.

In its closing session today the annual convention of the A. F. of L. ground through those resolutions remaining from the mountain of proposals submitted last week. Its most important actions were these:

1. Refusal to concur in four resolutions attacking the Supreme court through adoption of a report empowering the executive council to act as it sees fit.

2. Instructions to the executive council to have a bill for the six hour day and five day week introduced in congress and declaring the 30 hour week to be the "paramount objective" of the A. F. of L.

3. Adoption of new and more stringent rules for the introduction of resolutions at conventions, over the strenuous objections of delegates from the small federal unions, who were responsible for most of the radical proposals made at the present and preceding conventions.

The delegates interrupted with cheers when President Green, in his acceptance speech, declared:

"Neither foe within nor foe without will stop us from going forward to our objectives."

Pleading for patience and tolerance, he told the delegates that he faces the coming year "with apprehension and concern."

"It is easy," he said, "to face the common foe, who opposes the labor movement for selfish reasons. It is not easy to battle members of labor's organized family.

"We shrink from that.

"In order to avoid it, I take advantage of this occasion to plead with those who should be here, to come back and sit with us, to come back to our home and fight the common foe."

Constitution Defended.

Action on the Supreme court report was taken after the delegates had listened for forty minutes to an eloquent defense of the constitution and the court by C. A. Weaver of Des Moines, a delegate from the musicians' union. An orator of the old school, Weaver has for years made an address to the annual convention.

Admitting that he was "a member of the minority party in the late Armageddon," he brought peals of laughter from the floor with his characterization of the "hallelujah chorus of New Dealers who have spoken at the convention, referring to "Mme. Perkins' contralto like that of the woodland thrush, and that distinguished triumvirate, Berry, Lilliendhal, and Altmeyer, bass, baritone, and tenor." He expressed surprise that the delegates had not responded with "Happy days are here again."

"In my opinion," said Weaver, "the proponents of these resolutions on the Supreme court are playing with fire and it will be the laboring man who is first burnt when the conflagration starts."

Presidential Vetoes Cited.

He told the delegates that some of the rights which labor prizes most highly, particularly collective bargaining, were affirmed by rulings of the Supreme court, and reminded them that eleven times as many acts of congress have been vetoed by Presidents as have been invalidated by the court.

"American constitutional government is the hope of the world," he declared. "Abandon it and where will you go? Less than two decades ago this nation joined a 'war to save democracy.' Where is European democracy today? It has succumbed to the swords of dictators.

"Who hears of a Supreme court in Russia, where Stalin sulks and issues his mandates?

"Who hears of a Supreme court in Italy, where Mussolini smites himself and bids the nation obey his whims?

"Who hears of a Supreme court in Germany? Ah, yes, we heard on the 30th of June, 1934. The beastly Hitler rose and smote himself on the breast and before some of the victims of the blood purge had been relieved of their agony by death, he said, 'For the last twenty-four hours I have been the Supreme court of Germany.'"

Stand for 30 Hour Week.

Action on the thirty hour week was taken in the face of a warning from William L. Hutcheson, conservative president of the carpenters' union, that "what congress can grant, congress can take away." If a six hour day may be established by law, so may a ten hour day, he asserted, urging that the proper way to win shorter hours is through exercise of the economic power of unions.

"The time is here for a major reduction in working hours," the report adopted by the convention stated.

"No valid objection can be raised against it. Expanding productive efficiency has created a new economic situation to which society must adapt itself as the price of survival.

"This mean that shorter working hours are no longer a matter of choice. They must come as the only answer to the machine age in which we live. It is the one and only way to insure economic health."

At the present convention some 260 resolutions, on a wide variety of subjects, were introduced, and the resolutions committee and other bodies to which they were referred complained that the volume made it impossible for them to give them proper consideration.

The amendment to the rules provided that the federal unions, which are responsible directly to the federation instead of to affiliated international unions shall hereafter submit their resolutions to the executive council, which shall be required only to report to the convention what disposition it has made of them.

Frank Morrison Reëlected.

A thirty day deadline was also established for resolutions from international unions and state federations of labor, unless they hold their annual conventions within thirty days before the A. F. of L. convention.

Along with President Green, the convention reëlected Frank Morrison, who is still a member of the typographical union in Chicago, to his forty-first term as secretary, and reelected all the fifteen vice presidents who constitute the powerful executive council.

The vice presidents and the unions they represent, in their order of precedence on the council, are Frank Duffy, carpenters; T. A. Rickert, United Garment Workers; Matthew Woll, photo engravers; John Coefield, plumbers; Arthur O. Wharton, machinists; Jos. N. Weber, musicians; G. M. Bugniazet, electricians; George M. Harrison, railway clerks; Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters; Harry C. Bates, bricklayers; Edward J. Gainor, letter carriers; W. D. Mahon, street car employés; Felix H. Knight, railway car men; George E. Browne, stage hands and motion picture operators, and Edward Flore, hotel and restaurant employés.

FREER DISCUSSION OF SEX IN CLASSROOMS URGED BY PROFESSOR

Boston, Mass., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—"A freer discussion of sex in school classrooms might enable many to discover that the subject can be lifted from the gutter and the theme become an element of life worthy of a significant place among human emotions," Prof. Charles S. Thomas of the Harvard Graduate School of Education today told the national council of teachers of English.

"Now that such matters are constantly brought up on the stage and on the screen," he said, "more freedom and discussion of sex should be allowed in the classroom.

"However, every wise teacher will recognize her own limitations and knowledge, and a sense of propriety which her particular community and student group instinctively impose."

"Young people of poor environment who have heard only the grosser manifestations of sex discussed," Prof. Thomas added, "might benefit from freer class discussions. Unguided, sex has wrecked human lives and ideals."

Circuit Judges Reappoint 18 Masters in Chancery

Judges of the Circuit court ratified yesterday the reappointment of eighteen masters in chancery to serve until 1938 and at the same time named Roy A. Massena, law partner of former United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, to succeed Master Harry A. Riley who is retiring. The judges failed to act on the reappointment of William R. Swissler as master in chancery to Judge Michael Feinberg, which means he will continue to serve until reappointed at a subsequent meeting or until a successor is named in his place.

Fall in Bathroom Fatal to Woman in South Bend

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—A hip fracture received Nov. 20 when she fell in her bathroom brought death today to Mrs. Anna Sahle, 78, of South Bend.

SAILORS READY TO UNLOAD SHIPS IN NEW WRANGLE

Plan Action as Reprisal in French Boycott.

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Joseph Curran, leader of the insurgent maritime strike, asserted today that striking seamen would volunteer to unload the French liner Champlain when it arrives here Wednesday, if Joseph P. Ryan, head of the International Longshoremen's association, persists in having longshoremen boycott the vessel in retaliation for the strike of French dock workers against American ships.

The French dock workers refused to unload the United States liner Washington and the freighter Collamer at Le Havre, and the freighter Meanticut at Marseilles. They took this action as a gesture of sympathy and support to the strike of seamen here, which has been outlawed by the International Seamen's union. The International Longshoremen's association has been supporting the I. S. U. in its opposition to the strike sponsored by the Curran faction.

Mexicans Call Strike.

A strike in sympathy with the insurgent walkout here also has been called against American ships by the Mexican confederation of workers. At Ensenada, according to dispatches today, Mexican chauffeurs refused to transport the passengers of the Grace liner Santa Elena until the Mexican government instructed them to do so.

A number of American ships have been unloading passengers at Mexican ports to avoid the strike locked Pacific ports of the United States.

Wage contracts affecting the personnel of two American lines in the coastwise service were signed today by representatives of four unions, three of which are on strike.

Grant Wage Increases.

Officials of the Prudential Steamship corporation and the Trans-Oceanic Steamship corporation agreed to recognize the unions as the spokesmen of their employés and to grant wages and working conditions demanded by Pacific coast strikers.

The union signatories to the contract were the seamen's strike strategy committee; the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association; National Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, and the American Radio Telegraphists' association.

The contracts marked the first break in the ranks of the Atlantic ship lines which have been holding out against the insurgent strikers nearly four weeks and against the engineers' and mates' unions a week.

To Sail in Defiance.

The International Mercantile Marine company announced today that two of its largest passenger ships will sail from this port in defiance of the strike next week. The Manhattan, it said, will depart Dec. 2, and the Panama-Pacific liner Pennsylvania will sail on Dec. 6.

R. J. Baker, president of the American Steamship Owners' association, today called upon French ship owners to make every effort to have French dock workers handle cargoes on American ships.

The American Steamship Owners' association reported that in the twenty-four hours ended at noon today, fifteen American flag ships left the port of New York with crews of 1,311 men. Since the outlaw strike began on Oct. 29, 475 American flag vessels have left this port with crews totaling 28,360 men," Baker said.

BOARD CLEARS WELFARE AID IN RABIES DEATH

The county civil service commission yesterday ordered the reinstatement of Miss Ruth Coleman, assistant director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare who was suspended on Oct. 29. The commission last week heard charges that Miss Coleman was tardy in approving free anti-rabies serum for Anthony Scharf Jr., 4 years old, 6541 South Oakley avenue, who died on July 22.

The commission held in its finding that the evidence indicated the Scharf family could afford the $18.75 charged for the serum, and thus Miss Coleman was justified in refusing at first to issue the poverty certificate.

16 MEN ARE INJURED IN BATTLE BETWEEN PICKETS AND GUARDS

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Sixteen men were injured, one seriously stabbed, today in a sharp clash between pickets and guards at the strike closed plant of the Celanese Corporation of America. The outbreak came on the eve of promised settlement of the two weeks old dispute.

Charles P. Thuss, a foreman, was reported gashed in the abdomen by a knife wielding antagonist as he attempted to leave a train at the plant. Thirteen men received hospital treatment for bruised or cut heads, one man requiring 20 stitches to close four wounds in his scalp.

Two Celanese policemen also received cuts in what seemed to be a wholesale wielding of clubs, bare knuckles and rocks at the big artificial silk factory.

The clash followed an attempt by pickets to halt a passenger train which sought to enter the plant grounds with office employés and maintenance crews reporting for work. These workers have been using the train to enter the plant since the strike began.

MIDLAND STEEL AT DETROIT IN STRIKE'S THROES

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Several hundred workers engaged in a "sit down" strike at the plant of the Midland Steel Products company remained in the building tonight after the company management announced a shutdown of operations.

Homer Martin, international president of the United Automobile Workers of America, said that 1,350 employés quit their work at 11:30 a. m. today after an "unacceptable" counter proposal was advanced by the company for the settlement of differences.

WARN FIREMEN IN 35 BUILDINGS TO ABATE SMOKE

Prosecution Threatened After Hearing.

Thirty-five engineers and janitors of Chicago apartment and office buildings were given hearings yesterday in the office of the department of smoke inspection and abatement in the city hall on charges of violating the city smoke ordinance. All of them were warned that if further violations occur they will be prosecuted.

"The major reason for smoke violations is poor operation by the janitors and engineers," said George R. Bullock, junior mechanical engineer who questioned most of the violators. "If these men knew how to operate the heating equipment in the buildings the violations would be substantially reduced. Of course, some of the violations are the result of poor equipment or of poor coal, but the human element is the principal cause."

All Are Given Instructions.

Each of yesterday's violators was given the following instructions:

"Never stir and mix ash, partly burned or green coal. This always forms bad clinkers and causes smoke. If the coal cakes, break it down, but never lift it up.

"Shake grates often to remove fine ash.

"Never cover a live, active fire or burning red coke with green coal. This is the worst sin of hand firing. Smoke is sure to result. A dangerous explosive gas is formed which is liable to backfire, causing injury and damage. Smoke and wasted fuel also result.

Clean Ash Pits Necessary.

"Never place small quantities of fresh coal on a fire not properly prepared to receive it. The thin ash around the sides permits cold air to be drawn through the boiler, cooling the water, and results in waste of fuel, no heat, smoke, and failure. Ash in the ash pit causes grates to warm and burn, resulting in damage and loss of time and money.

WOMAN'S SLAYER CONVICTED; GETS DEATH PENALTY

Swain Found Guilty of Trammell Killing.

Rufe Swain, 27 years old, once a student and athlete in two Arkansas Negro colleges, was found guilty last night of the murder of Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, and his punishment was fixed by a jury at death in the electric chair. The verdict was returned at 11:10 o'clock in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph Desort after less than two hours of deliberation. Judge Desort said he would hear arguments for a new trial on Dec. 7.

Mrs. Trammell, 24 years old, was choked and beaten to death last Aug. 16 in her room at the State hotel, 353 South State street. Her husband, Thomas, a dining car steward, found her body when he returned from one of his regular train runs.

Notebook Links Him to Crime.

Swain, a policy game operator, surrendered to the police after he learned he was being sought for the murder. Six hours later he signed a confession describing how he climbed a fire escape of the hotel and killed Mrs. Trammell. He was linked to the crime by a notebook dropped on the fire escape.

On the witness stand Swain repudiated his confession, declaring it was obtained by police brutality. His attorney, Jerry Brumfield, colored, pleaded with the jury for a verdict of acquittal, contending that the water pitcher exhibited by the state as the death weapon could not have made the deep wound in Mrs. Trammell's head which caused death.

The defense attorney also argued that Swain could not have climbed from the ground to the bottom step of the fire escape. In reply, Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers, who directed the prosecution, cited Swain's prowess as a college athlete as evidence that he was agile enough for the climb.

Two Other Women Slain.

The prosecutor argued that similar crimes would likely be committed in Chicago if Swain were set free. During the last six months three women have been slain in hotel rooms here.

Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, a night club hostess, was killed June 29 in her room at the Devonshire hotel, 19 East Ohio street, in much the same manner as was Mrs. Trammell. This murder never has been solved.

On May 29 Mrs. Lillian Guild, 59 years old, was beaten to death in her room in the former Y. W. C. A. hotel at 830 South Michigan avenue. Thomas Starr, 31 year old, a colored man of dull mentality, pleaded guilty to the crime and was sentenced to 199 years in the penitentiary.

17 COMPANIES FIGHT HOTEL FIRE IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Seventeen fire companies, working in relays because of dense smoke, battled a stubborn, three-alarm fire in the Hotel Gibson in the center of Cincinnati for two hours late today. Firemen, fighting the blaze from every floor, ran hose lines from the street through an eight story window and in instances had to break holes through walls and concrete flooring. Many guests deserted upper floor quarters.

THE ELECTRIC WEB OF INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT.

The reported secret agreement of the Nazi and Japanese governments to divide the commercial exploitation of the Dutch East Indies recalls the saying familiar in the nineties, "trade follows the flag." Only what causes concern in Holland and hardly less in Britain is the converse of that slogan of imperialism, "the flag follows trade." In other words, the reported arrangement suggests that an intensive penetration of the Dutch colonial territory is not likely to rest within the borders of economic control.

On the surface the reported protocol appears to be only a sensible agreement between the Japanese and Germans not to compete financially or commercially in certain regions of the east. That might be approved by all concerned, not only as a contribution to peaceful relations between Japan and Germany, and even to general peace. But neither Holland nor England can afford to indulge in complacency on that ground. Even if the protocol does not provide for mutual support with the consequent economic strengthening of both parties as against the enterprise of other nations in the rich territory involved, it implies it and more. An increasing penetration of the Dutch East Indies by two militant nations, both inspired by expansionist ambitions, implies serious friction threatening Dutch freedom and peace directly, as well as vital interests of the British empire.

The reported agreement, and there is too much reason to credit the report, throws an ominous light on the new born rapprochement of Nazi Germany and militarist Japan. It reminds us again and sharply of the dangerous interlocking of national ambitions and interests in our world of today. Holland is not what she was in the great days of Van Tromp, but both in Europe and the far east her independence concerns Great Britain and France. Neither can view without concern the penetration of her territories under coöperating pressure of Japan and Germany, the planting of German colonization schemes, and increased competition with her own colonial enterprise.

How this prospect can be shut off is another problem which British statesmanship must solve, with such aid as it can get from other governments less directly yet seriously concerned.

THE EIGHTEENTH THOUSAND.

Gettysburg, July 1-3, 1863—three days of slaughter. Every fiendish machine of destruction that had been devised by mankind was turned loose on two armies of massed humanity. An incessant stream of stretchers and ambulances worked night and day to bring the killed and wounded from front to rear. Men grew old overnight or were driven insane by the horror of the battle, yet from the final roll call the total casualties in the Union ranks numbered only 17,684 men. True, the figure is equal to the entire population of Jacksonville or Kewanee, Ill., and is nearly double that of Herrin, but it is still less than the motor vehicle toll on Chicago streets in 327 days of 1936. Despite the efforts of the police, the motor clubs, and the press, an all time high of 20,000 killed and injured will be reached before the end of the year.

Our judges and workers for safety are becoming discouraged, and why shouldn't they? In too many cases the disciplined driver leaves the court, not with a determination to be more careful in the future but merely "to keep a better lookout for police." The motor car has evolved an indefinable something in human nature that cannot be curbed by regulation or appeals to reason. There remains but one solution—to place the pedestrian beyond the reach of the motorist, and, in so far as is possible, the motorist beyond the reach of other drivers as well as obstructions.

Foolproof safety highways must be constructed, and where there is no other method the through avenue must be elevated or depressed. Engineers favor elevation and after careful study have planned a system that will eliminate 98 per cent of the death crossings. The cause is desperate and the remedy within reach. The party in power is unhampered by political opposition. For every day's delay it is adding to the toils, betraying the trust of the people, and earning an indictment for manslaughter.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

From time to time we receive letters upon some editorial discussion or proposal that by their number and similarity clearly indicate an organized or concerted effort to dominate our policy. The experience is familiar to editors.

The writers are not content with expressing disagreement, even with the indignation to which many differences of opinion give rise. Much less do they indulge in reasoned argument. Their protests are, in fact, merely threats, not intended to persuade us that we are wrong, but to frighten us into acting contrary to our conviction and in obedience to theirs.

We suggest to the participants, and especially to the inspirers of these enterprises, that their efforts are not only condemnable on moral grounds but, so far as conscientious editorship is concerned, are utterly futile. Editors of responsible newspapers are always glad to receive communications from their readers, including protests, criticisms, and corrections. But letters obviously inspired by a concerted purpose to dictate policy go into the waste basket.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE IN THE SUPREME COURT.

The United States Supreme court last week upheld the New York state unemployment insurance law. By the terms of the act, employers of more than 4 persons are required to pay into a state fund 1 per cent of their pay rolls in 1936, 2 per cent in 1937 and 3 per cent thereafter. The funds for all employers are to be pooled rather than segregated for each establishment as in the Wisconsin law. Benefits are to be paid to unemployed workers to the extent of 50 per cent of their wages but not less than $5 per week no more than $15 and for not more than 16 weeks in a year.

The point decided was a close one, as is evidenced by the fact that an equal number of judges voted for sustaining the law and for rejecting it, one member of the court, Justice Stone, taking no part because of illness. When the judges of the Supreme court are equally divided the lower court's findings prevail. And, since the New York Court of Appeals had sustained the statute, it is now ruled to be good law. The prestige of the law is aided by the rather widely held belief that had Justice Stone participated he would have given his vote in favor of the act.

In making its decision the court did not pass upon the constitutionality of the unemployment insurance provisions of the social security act. That act imposed a federal tax on employers, 90 per cent of which was to be remitted in the states which passed unemployment insurance laws satisfactory to the federal social security board. The Supreme court's decision on the social security law will determine the fate of unemployment insurance laws in a number of states. Five states which enacted unemployment insurance laws have served notice that they did so only because of coercion. These states have laws which provide for automatic repeal in the event that the federal tax is invalidated.

However, the importance of the decision on the New York act should not be lost sight of. An adverse decision on the New York law would have made the unemployment insurance provision of the social security act of no effect. The states would have been subject to the punitive tax, but the means laid out for avoiding the tax would have been unconstitutional. The New York decision means that states can have unemployment benefit laws if they want them. The court has yet to decide whether states can be made to have them, under penalty, if they don't want them. The decision in the New York case was an interpretation of the due process clause in the constitution. The federal employment insurance tax question involves the whole question of our system of government and of the relations of states and federal government.

OUR EUROPEAN DEBTORS.

America, having just about reconciled itself to hearing nothing more about the war debts except bad news, is not prepared to learn that Italy and France are tentatively considering sending something over on account. In a few days, if it has not already been done, the American government will send notes advising its debtors that there is a collection date next month, but with the same expectations a woodpecker has when hammering a tin downspout. There is some noise but no nutriment.

Great Britain's periodic response to these overtures from Washington has been the classic one. His majesty's government is unable to see where any improvement of the situation would arise from consideration of it at this time. The American creditor has never been able to field that one. It has always sailed over his head, over the wall, and out in the street.

America had come to regard the uncollected debt as a sort of insurance when coupled with the Johnson law which officially rates the delinquents as dead beats. No more money would go into the holes where the other disappeared. It is therefore with distrust that the rumors of renewed payments must be heard here.

What is going on in Spanish waters leads many people to fear that the boys will be in the trenches again by Christmas. That will require money and supplies. Europe might reason that a little off the debt now would put a great deal more on it later. Such a conclusion is, we trust, unjustified.

Most Americans have thought with Calvin Coolidge that "they hired the money" and ought to return it, but economists say it can't be paid except in things we do not wish to receive and will not receive. That was argued after the debts had been contracted and the settlement adjusted. If true as to debts now delinquent and unpaid, it would be true of other debts to be contracted. What we did not understand as to the past we can understand as to the future.

Editorial of the Day

PREVAILING CIGARS.

[New York Sun.]

The strange uses to which a government bureau may put figures is illustrated by an article in Domestic Commerce, published by the United States department of commerce. This article is intended to be a summary of data on retail stores. The opening passage is as follows:

"The kinds of stores to which customers go to spend their money apparently do not change much in relative importance from year to year, although they vary greatly between sections of the country. In competition with other outlets, drug stores are strong in the middle south, cigar stores and cigar stands prevail principally in the northeast and northwest, candy and confectionery have their greatest attraction in the industrial east and show weakness throughout the south, and variety stores do best east of the Mississippi river."

An analysis so brilliant as this of the country's retail trade might conceivably help to boom the tourist business. There are curious persons who may strike out for the northwest to see cigar stands prevailing, or detour through Alabama to witness the weakness of confectionery. It is still possible that a government bureau may some day issue a report which will reveal that, from year to year, customers spend their money in stores where they can buy what they want.

A VICIOUS CIRCLE.

Sad, what happens to him who tries to fathom the unfathomable. One of my friends, always regarded as uncommonly robust mentally and physically, began to act strangely. Under clinical examination he was heard to repeat and repeat: "If they keep tearing down buildings to make parking places for the people who work in the buildings to park in, they'll soon have to start putting up buildings for the people who use the parking places to work in. But the trouble is, there won't be any room for the new buildings because, as it is, they have to work day and night tearing down buildings to make room for parking places for the people who work in . . ." Let this be a warning to all of us.

DO NOT RISK PNEUMONIA.

ABOUT this time of the year we feel it our "bounden duty" to sound a note of warning relative to the prevalence and frequently fatal character of pneumonia. It is a curious disease—inflammation of the lungs—and too little progress has been made in its conquest. We know that a neglected cold, particularly if attended with an acute bronchitis, may become a pneumonia overnight or even within a few hours. It is not necessary that much of the lung be involved in order to produce serious symptoms. A diseased area as large as a silver dollar may give rise to fever, chills, and positive signs of illness.

The cause, as a rule, is some variety of the organism known as the pneumococcus. One reason why we have made so little advance against the infection—at least in the preparation of an antitoxin—is that there are so many strains of this particular bug. Of course, it is true that disease of the lungs may be brought on by other bacteria, but by and large the majority of cases may be blamed upon a special type of the pneumonia germ.

Most of us harbor pneumococci in our throats a good deal of the time. They will not cause difficulty just so long as we maintain body resistance at a reasonable level. But should we become chilled, overtired—with possibly a digestive upset—or allow an acute cold to drain our reserves, these designing microbes, which exhibit such a fondness for the delicate tissue of the lungs, may begin to grow. From the throat they wander to the bronchi and then to the air sacs.

The type of irritation which they set up brings about a great outpouring of cells from the blood vessels, with the result that the air spaces and the finer bronchi are plugged and, as long as the disease lasts, that portion of the lung which has been attacked is out of business. If, for example, half of the lung is affected, the remainder must do double duty. The rate of breathing increases in consequence and as soon as absorption begins the temperature will rise. In most cases there will be a cough which may be painful and the sputum will be streaked with blood.

Once pneumonia has developed there is no means of checking the disease. It will run its course despite anything and everything that is done. True enough, we may have a slight congestion without a pneumonia, and patients so afflicted may recover within 24 to 48 hours. But with unmistakable signs of what the physician calls "consolidation" the battle is on and the outcome depends on good nursing, common sense medical management, and the maintenance of the patient's strength.

The heart may need help, because the right side supplies blood to the lungs. This is a much thinner and less powerful chamber than the left, which pumps blood to the entire body except the lungs. If the muscle of the right side of the organ can sustain added pressure all is well. If it begins to fail because the circulation is obstructed, exhaustion may come on rapidly. Fortunately, the physician has at hand many drugs that will increase the heart output and tide over a few hours of danger.

As we would expect when the blood is not receiving sufficient oxygen because of the blocked lungs, cyanosis may develop and in oxygen gas we have a valuable remedy. This may be administered by nasal catheter or, better still, in a well equipped oxygen room or tent. Under its influence we often see the struggle for air abate and the color return to normal.

It is so much cheaper to avoid pneumonia than to fight it even though the battle is won with ease. The disease rarely assaults those who are accustomed to exposure but picks out for its victims stalwart men and women who have neglected physical exercise, who work and live in overheated rooms, and who stay up too late at night—in other words, those who travel on too narrow a reserve margin.

WANTS TO CHANGE JOB.

L. M. writes: I would like to be a window display designer, but I have been forced, for the last three years, to work in a factory. It is hard work and I hate it. I think about it so much that I become moody, depressed, exhausted, and sick all over. I tire easily and become discouraged. Is it possible that my state of health has been caused by this desire for something better and my constantly thinking about it?

REPLY.

What can't be cured must be endured. Your mental depression is probably the cause of your physical ills. If you can't change your occupation to one more agreeable, make it a point to get the most out of what you are doing. Thousands of people are square pegs in round holes all their lives. Cultivate friends. Quit thinking about how you hate your work. Hold fast to your ambition but do your present job so well that promotion may come and with it greater satisfaction.

MAY MEAN NOTHING.

J. S. J. writes: I am in good health, so far as I know, but I cannot eat sauerkraut, boiled cabbage, cauliflower, and turnips without gastric distress. I have been told that the reason I cannot eat these foods is a sure sign that I have gall bladder and liver trouble. Is there any truth in this?

REPLY.

The vegetables you name have a tendency to produce gas. If this symptom disappears with the elimination of these foods from your diet you need not worry about gall bladder or liver trouble. There is no special significance attached to your type of digestive rebellion. Sometimes the stomach appears to possess greater wisdom than its owner.

THERE IS DANGER.

Mrs. H. S. writes: My cousin, who has syphilis and gonorrhea, eats at our house occasionally. She is taking treatments. I have two children and I am fearful that she will pass these diseases on to us.

REPLY.

Syphilis is seldom acquired except by actual contact with infected persons. Kissing may spread it. Gonorrhea, however, is more likely to be transmitted by towels, soiled clothes or cloths, to the hands and so to the localities suitable for development. Your cousin's physician should instruct her in matters of personal hygiene so that she will not spread either disease. Boil thoroughly all eating utensils.

NOT IF IT IS FRESH.

REPLY.

CORNUCOPIA

From Across the Sea

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—British defense chiefs are busy on a "wire fence" to keep enemy bombers away from London in case of war. In spite of the laughs of skeptics, Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for coördination of defense, has revealed in parliament that this "fence" of steel wires suspended from balloons is a definite part of defense plans. Other cities are to be included in the scheme, with balloon fences of their own as soon as London's can be completed.

Details are being kept secret, but in general the plan is similar to others tried out here during the world war. Known technically as an "apron," the fence is made up of long steel wires hanging from a horizontal cable supported by balloons at frequent intervals.

It does not have to reach from the ground to be effective. The plan is understood to be that the balloons would be capable of rapid lowering or being let out with the aid of powerful winches on the ground. Bombers, it is believed, would not dare approach the city at low altitude, and it would be safe to let out cable until the bottom of the trailing fence was thousands of feet above the ground, with its top reaching up another quarter mile or more.

Defenders of the idea admit its balloons would merely be huge targets in daylight, but daylight air defense can depend on other means. In darkness, they say, the balloon barricade would be a formidable hazard for any one trying to fly over the city without knowing just how high it extended, and if they played safe they would be driven too high to bomb effectively.

Aside from any planes it destroyed, it is believed it would be a great help in shaking the morale of attackers.

During the world war such aprons were used on a small scale, and an official German report of March, 1918, has been quoted as saying: "The aprons have increased enormously and have added greatly to the difficulties of attack. If they were increased and improved much more, they would make a raid on London almost impossible."

At that time they extended more than 9,000 feet into the air and there were only ten short sections in use. Now, it is claimed, they can be made much higher, and the plan is to fence off London entirely.

Whether a plane capable of slashing through the wires could be developed remains to be seen. Advocates of the huge fence insist it could not. Any plane would be demolished when it crashed into the wires, they declare. In any case huge orders have been placed for the necessary materials and the scheme is being pushed ahead at full speed.

Paris is said here to have included a plan for similar aprons in its air-defense organization.

PUBLIC OPINION ON THE "L" DISASTER.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Perhaps, now that Chicago has witnessed one of the worst catastrophes in its history—that of the terrible "L" crash—you will find time to agitate for improved equipment and service by the Chicago Rapid Transit system. Your editorial of today, giving the various demerits of the suburban railroad service, is slightly "out of place." The Chicago Rapid Transit will have difficulty in convincing people that riding their antiquated equipment is safe, and as for the North Shore Line's reputation for SPEED, that is quite a laughing matter now. I feel definitly that it is up to the press of Chicago to do something constructive so that soon—and not twenty years from now—we can truly boast a fast, safe, and comfortable traction service.

MARGO LARM.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The first five planks of your platform are concerned with common sense transportation for Chicago; and your recent editorials on safety have shown a sharp foresight of Tuesday's unfortunate elevated tragedy. Now we are all faced with the absolute necessity of action that looks far ahead. Every man, woman, and child who uses the rickety "L" system or the noisy, outgrown street cars will appreciate demands that look beyond the mere purchase of new equipment for an old chassis.

Nothing that Chicagoans have suffered rivals the neglect shown in transportation. But humanity often requires a sudden, horrible calamity to reveal the outlines of what has been staring it in the face for decades. Now we need the unity of action that will settle our problems definitly and without further quibbling. While every citizen carries with him the graphic picture of what might happen to him tomorrow, every effort must be made to untangle the knotted strangle hold that decades of neglect have fostered. The ability of your newspaper to keep this problem alive until it is solved is invaluable in the growth and safety of Chicago.

KARL EITEL.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Your editorial of Nov. 26 relating to the accident on the "L" would be quite amusing were it not concerned with a tragic event. We who are in favor of central standard time find your remarks without logic; for, by the same line of reasoning and perhaps by analogy, should the accident have occurred at 6:20 a. m. under eastern time the argument could be advanced that, had central standard time prevailed, it would have been much lighter and, therefore, the accident would not have occurred. Perhaps our major premise is all wrong, namely, that darkness was the cause of the accident.

ARNOLD S. KABAKER.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—My wife was just entering the Granville station when that horrible crash came and saw the victims carried out. She did not sleep that night, nor did many others in our Rogers Park district.

Those 40 year old wooden cars on the "L" are finally starting the slaughter many Chicagoans have anticipated in dreadful fear for a long time. We who have to use them and have to intrust our children and wives to such flimsy antiques protest bitterly against this savage exploitation of helpless humans. I have seen passengers exchange worried glances and comments as these creaking shells careened dangerously on the abrupt curves of the north side rails. A few nights ago my wife and I noted the ironic inscription "B. C. 1171" on the transom of one car, obviously a routine number, but the implication was momentarily funny. Not now!

For some diabolic misreason these frail things are attached to the end of the trains and their rear red lights are so inadequate and fogged with antiquity as to be scarcely visible even on a clear night. "L" riders know this to be true. Somebody should stew in hell for such conditions.

H. L. ENGLE.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—It is to be regretted that it should take an accident such as happened on the north side last night to awaken the people of Chicago to the necessity of demanding service from the elevated lines commensurate with the rates of fare.

The condition of the equipment on the Lake street [Chicago and Oak Park] line is an insult to modern society. I do not believe it is within the recollection of any of the present patrons that any new equipment has been used on that line. Observation would lead one to believe that when equipment becomes too obsolete for use on other lines it is passed to Lake street. Old wooden cars with open platforms make up a very large share of the rolling stock in service. The utter apathy of the residents of Austin, Oak Park, and River Forest towards this service is simply inexplicable.

DISGUSTED.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Being one of the thousands of commuters who are forced to travel on the Evanston branch of the elevated and one of the many who narrowly escaped the horrible accident of the evening of Nov. 24, I wish to make a protest against the present equipment of the elevated lines.

After this massacre can it be possible that this transportation company will be permitted to continue using the thirty and forty year old wooden coaches, or death traps, as the one proved to be on the 24th? We all know that no change in equipment will be made until the public forces a change.

The readers of your paper as well as all elevated commuters demand that an investigation be instigated to determine why one of the largest and most important transportation companies in the city, collecting a 10 cent fare, one of the highest fares in the United States, is permitted to transport passengers in this antiquated, unsafe, wooden equipment.

G. C. LYNCH.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The elevated accident of last evening was a great shock to every one and much to be regretted, but how many days does it take in automobile accidents to equal that caused by the elevated? In other words, by eliminating all automobile accidents, how many elevated accidents of a similar nature can we provide for over a year's time?

I should think your Mr. Orr or some other good cartoonist would draw something of a comparative nature, not to belittle in the least the seriousness of the accident last night, but to set forth the enormity of the automobile accidents in Chicago over a year's period. Probably your editorial writers can draw a comparison in some way.

R. C. MCCROSKEY.

RIGHT TO DISINHERIT.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Could you tell me if either my adopted son or [2] my sister-in-law's son has any claim to my father-in-law's estate in Pennsylvania?

There were three children by [3] his first wife, one boy and two girls, one of whom was my wife [now deceased]. Her sister is also dead and she left a son.

4. The father died leaving all his estate to his stepchildren and his second wife, with the exception of $100 which he willed to his one son by his first wife.

5. Are the grandchildren entitled to any of this estate under Pennsylvania laws?

A. M.

1. In general, your adopted son would not be an heir of your other relatives.

2. Depends on whether he is related to the father-in-law and or whether your sister-in-law is still living.

3. The antecedent of this pronoun is not clear.

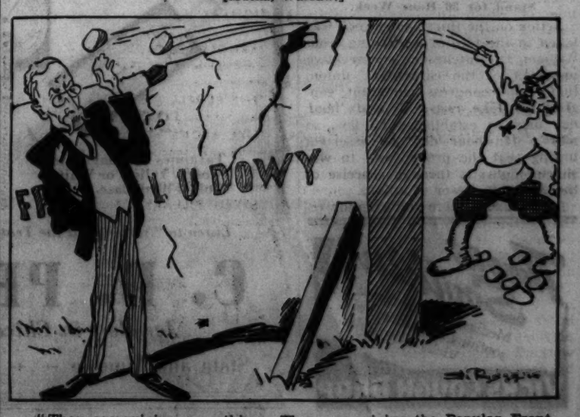

4. In general, his will would control unless set aside on proof of undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

5. A grandparent can disinherit his grandchildren by will, if that is what you mean to ask.

37TH LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION WILL OPEN HERE TODAY

30 States and Canada Send Entries.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Thirty states and three Canadian provinces are represented among the entries of live stock at the thirty-seventh annual International Live Stock exposition which opens at 7 o'clock this morning. The show will continue through all next week in the International amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets, closing Saturday, Dec. 5.

Three thousand candidates are here to compete for the grand champion beef animal award, the highest honor of the exposition. Boys, as well as men, have animals entered in this competition. Today judges will begin their preliminary work, leading up to the final selection of the grand champion the latter part of next week.

Purebreds More Popular.

Farmers' renewed interest in purebred animals is reflected in the entry list this year. Purebreds are strongly represented in the various divisions as follows: Cattle, 1,367 head; sheep, 1,045; barrows from purebred sires and dams, 744; draft horses, 642.

In addition there are more than 350 purebred animals entered in the light horse show, making a total of more than 1,000 purebred horses at the exposition, the greatest number since the 1919 show, according to B. H. Heide, general manager.

With a record breaking total entry of 14,653 animals, worth $5,000,000, it has been impossible to house all of them in the amphitheater, making it necessary to use adjoining buildings and pens for the overflow.

More than 6,000 cattle, 2,000 fat lambs, and 1,200 hogs have been entered in the car lot competition alone.

Late arrivals for the stock show yesterday included two trainloads of cattle, horses, and sheep from the Royal Winter fair which closed in Toronto, Ont., Wednesday night.

Wheat King Back Again.

Canada is also well represented in the eighteenth international grain and hay show, held as an annual feature of the exposition. Among the dominion exhibitors is Herman Trelle of Wemble, Alta., Canada, who has been declared wheat king four times at previous internationals. He is here with his rare samples to compete for the 1936 title. Trelle also was oat king of the 1926 and 1927 grain and hay show.

Thirty-seven states and five Canadian provinces have entered approximately 5,000 samples of grain and hay in the show.

Twenty-seven agricultural schools have teams entered in the annual intercollegiate live stock judging contest, which starts this morning soon after the show opens. There are a total of 135 students on the teams, the greatest number ever entered in any of these contests. One of the teams is from the Ontario Agricultural college of Guelph, Ontario.

TUNNEL UNDER MISSISSIPPI IS 2 STATE PLAN

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Rock Island, Ill., and Davenport, Ia., bridge and tunnel commissions today announced completion of a survey for a proposed vehicular tunnel under the Mississippi river between the two cities to be built at an estimated cost of 1½ million dollars.

It was decided to seek financing through federal aid road funds and the state road funds of both Illinois and Iowa.

The tunnel would be an effort towards solution of the tri-cities greatest trafic problem—elimination of the bottleneck between Rock Island and Davenport. Neither the Rock Island bridge, linking the two cities, nor the Illinois-Iowa Memorial bridge, opened last year and linking Moline and Bettendorf, Ia., can cope with the situation.

VALLEY FORGE TO BE RESTORED IN PARK AREA

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The restoration of Valley Forge to make it appear to twentieth century visitors just as it did while Washington and his army encamped there during the winter of 1777-'78 is to be undertaken by the Valley Forge park commission.

2 Sentenced in U. S. Court for Fraud in Bankruptcy

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday sentenced Lee Ornsteen, 40 years old, to a year in Leavenworth penitentiary and John W. McDonald, 40 years old, to seven months in the county jail on their pleas of guilty to a charge of concealing assets in the bankruptcy of the Clifford-Crosby company, 1379 Milwaukee avenue, of which they were officials. Henry Feinberg, president of the company, was recently sentenced to two years in Leavenworth on the same charge.

115 of Election Board Staf Sue for $203,000 Back Pay

Attorney James W. Breen filed a mandamus suit in the Superior court yesterday to compel the city council to restore $203,441 to 115 employés of the election commission. The council deducted this amount from the employés pay as an economy measure during the period from 1932 to 1936. The suit contends that the city is not empowered by law to fix the hours or the number of days of employment of election commission workers. The pay cuts were effected by designating certain payless days.

CUTS POLICEMAN'S ALIMONY.

Judge Joseph B. Hermes yesterday reduced from $60 to $40 a month the alimony payment of Policeman John English of the Wabash avenue station to his estranged wife, Christine, 41 years old, 6803 Parnell avenue.

Opening Program

This is the program for today, Chicago day, at the thirty-seventh annual International Live Stock exposition in the International amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets:

7 a. m.—Gates Open.

9 a. m.—Intercollegiate live stock judging contest between teams representing twenty-seven schools; start of judging in hay and grain division.

9:30 a. m.—Junior live stock feeding contest.

SABATH TELLS TASKS FACED BY NEXT CONGRESS

Balanced Budget Is Goal Set.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Congressman A. J. Sabath, Chicago Democrat who is slated to become head of the powerful rules committee of the house, according to Washington dispatches, declared yesterday that great tasks confronting the next congress will be to balance the budget and merge many departments and bureaus.

Mr. Sabath is dean of the house and has served nearly thirty years, the oldest member in point of service. He was reëlected Nov. 3 for his sixteenth consecutive term. He dwelt yesterday on the outlook in the next congress, which meets Jan. 5.

"We're going to try to put through all appropriation bills as speedily as possible and hold down the appropriations," said Mr. Sabath. "We hope to balance the budget.

Names Other Bills.

"We'll have to pass a neutrality bill and we'll have to extend the life of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. We must consider legislation to protect industries against imports from competing low wage, low living standard countries.

"Coördination of some of the departments is one important task. Many departments can be merged and should be.

"I've lived through the days when congress tried to bring coördination about under President Wilson. Then Mr. Hoover as secretary of commerce recommended a commission. This did not accomplish anything, and the matter was given over to the budget committee, which has not been able to do much.

Difficult to Reduce.

"My experience has shown me that it is easy to start new departments and bureaus but extremely hard to eliminate or reduce them. They feel their work is of great importance to the nation."

In contrast to Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Congressman Sabath holds that the great Democratic majorities in congress are not likely to produce conflict.

"Of course," he said, "when we have a tremendous majority it tends to create trouble, especially among newer members, because they have promised their districts to work for legislation which perhaps has not yet been considered."

OKLAHOMA BOY WINS 4-H STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

Iowans Are Champions in Team Event.

BY KAY HALL.

Robert Morford, 17 years old, of Amorita, Okla., was proclaimed the best young judge of live stock in the nation last night when he scored 567 out of a possible 600 points to win the 4-H club non-collegiate judging contest for individuals. Runners-up were Phil Hall, 16 years old, and Franz Taylor, 17, both of Weston, W. Va.

Championship teams of three members each participated in the contest, which was held in the arena of the International amphitheater at the stockyards, preliminary to the opening of the thirty-seventh annual International Live Stock exposition today.

Iowa's team placed first, with Michigan second, and North Dakota third. Members of the Iowa team are Winton Wilson, 17 years old, and Edwin Moffitt, 16, both of Newton, Ia., and Earl Stepp, 19 years old, of Kellogg, Ia.

Girl Competes on Team.

Of the sixty-three contestants on the twenty-one teams, one was a girl. She is Miss Jean Dell, 19 years old, of Colden, N. Y. Miss Dell explained that her elder brother preferred washing dishes, and she preferred working around the barn. "I have four steers now, and have made $500 from the sale of two," she said.

The judging continued all day, as the young experts appraised a steady parade of horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs. The winners were announced by B. H. Heide, manager of the exposition, at a dinner in the Saddle and Sirloin club of the Stockyards inn. Trophies will be given to the teams and college scholarships to the individuals.

The fifteenth annual National 4-H club congress, which is held in conjunction with the stock show, will open today. More than 1,200 farm boys and girls are expected to be here by tonight for a mass parade at the horse show in the amphitheater. Most of them are recipients of free trips awarded for their club achievements. Membership of the 4-H [head, hands, heart, and health] clubs is now estimated at 1,200,000, and their work projects cover fifty farm and recreational activities.

Announce Other Champions.

Other important championships announced by the 4-H clubs national committee were the national leadership and the national achievement champions. H. Clayton Fox, 19 years old, of Imbler, Ore., and Cora May Briggs, 20 years old, of Seward, Neb., were named the leadership champions.

Fox has been president of his club for six years, leader of nine clubs, superintendent of sheep at the Eastern Oregon stock show, has entered twenty-seven judging contests, and given eighty-two public live stock demonstrations. Miss Briggs has made eighty-five demonstrations, supervised eighteen club projects, in which 207 members engaged, won $543 in prizes, and her club projects are inventoried at $4,775.

Frederick Reichart, 19 years old, of Lafayette, Ind., who has completed thirty-eight club projects and earned $1,425, and Florence E. Erickson, 20 years old, of Tracy, Minn., who has earned $224 from baking, canning, gardening, and other projects, and carried on a broad club program, are the achievement winners. The winners will receive trophies.

Today 394 4-H contestants will exhibit 550 animals which they have fed and reared in the junior live stock feeding contest.

PLEA BY CHILDREN HALTS EXECUTION OF RUNAWAY BEAR

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Bruin, 350 pound bear with a propensity to escape and throw the neighborhood into consternation, aced execution today, but gained commutation through children's appeals for his life.

A prowler freed Bruin last night—the second time within a week.

Owner Jack Hutchens' ire was aroused, but Deputy Sheriff Jack Buzard convinced him the bear could be taken alive. After much rough handling Bruin was treed, roped, and caged.

In three days of freedom during his first escape the bear terrorized the neighborhood because Hutchens considered him dangerous if teased.

"I have decided not to kill him because so many children are fond of him," Hutchens said. "Perhaps he'll be more satisfied in his natural habitat, so I'll release him in the mountains."

COUNTY RUSHES WORK ON OLD AGE PENSION AWARDS

While a special staf of 230 employés under Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen labored to lay the groundwork of the social security's act system to pay old age benefits starting in 1942, Cook county officials yesterday reported marked progress in working out another provision of the federal law—the giving of assistance to needy aged of the present day.

There are now 15,069 persons in Cook county receiving assistance averaging $18.75 a month each, according to Miss Anna J. Bigus, director of the old age pension division of the county bureau of public welfare. Last month there were slightly less than 10,000 on the county pension list, showing the result of speeding up pension procedures.

"We are now investigating applications at the rate of 2,300 a week, so that within a month we expect to have completed work on the 63,000 that have been filed here," Miss Bigus said. "We have recommended payment of assistance in 25,635 cases in our reports to Springfield, and have rejected 12,355 applications."

The new temporary employés at the postoffice were tabulating and copying employés' applications for old age benefit account numbers, preparatory to completing the registration of an estimated 850,000 Chicago workers.

GERMANY GAGS LITERARY, STAGE AND MUSIC CRITIC

Goebbels Forbids Hostile Comment on Arts.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—Hostile criticism of arts was forbidden in Germany by decree today. The decree was issued by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda. He ordered critics to become, if they are able, authors or playwrights.

Goebbels announced his decree at a solemn session marking the third anniversary of the proclamation of the national chamber of culture, of which he is president. It will apply to the stage, motion pictures, music, and literary works.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and all leading Nazis listened to Goebbels as he explained the reasons for the new "verboten" decree and why he wants "contemplation or description" to replace criticism.

Goebbels Criticizes Critics.

"We have spared no effort to direct criticism back to the contemplation of art," he said. "One has the impression that critics are trying to get rid of their complexes by writing about an art in which they failed. Criticism still carries features of the liberalistic Jewish era which we are trying to overcome. Arrogant wiseacres holding up progress through their eternal grumblings are merely descendants of Jewish art critics.

"Art will not suffer through the disappearance of the critic. Counterfeit greatness usually fails in less than a year, even if it is not killed by a critic. The real masters, however, will in this way be assured of creative freedom and the inviolability of their artistic honor."

"We do not live in a Franciscan monastery," Goebbels sneered as he alluded to members of Catholic orders who have been sentenced to prison for alleged moral offenses. "A whole some era demands a wholesome attitude toward delicate problems."

Persons who have tried to prove themselves more Nazi than the Nazis themselves came in for their share of derision, including pseudo-historians who, Goebbels said, revive old tales "blaming the Free Masons for the death of Mozart and accusing the Free Mason Goethe of poisoning Schiller."

"Such assertions are worthy of a detective novel and lack character," he added.

He said the government would provide jobs and orders for artists besides helping to discover new talent. He asserted writers must obtain a government permit to work and prove they are trained for the job.

To show the reich's great interest in international art Goebbels is planning to donate 300,000 marks [about $120,000] for an annual international prize in literature.

N. Y. JUSTICE-ELECT HIRES GUIDES TO GIVE HIM VIEW OF N. Y.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Lee Parsons Davis, Supreme court justice-elect, and his family were "embarrassed," he said at his law office here today, on their recent European trip to find themselves unable to answer questions by Europeans about New York.

Ashamed of their "ignorance" of America's premier city, of which they are suburban residents, Mr. Davis, his wife, and two daughters have arranged for guides to take them on a two day sightseeing tour of New York.

Headquarters for the "tour" have been engaged at the Plaza hotel for the family. Guides provided by a tourist service will conduct the party to the aquarium, Rockefeller Center, Metropolitan Museum of Art, American Museum of Natural History, Hayden planetarium, Central park zoo, Empire State building, public library, stock exchange, museum of the city of New York, and other points of interest.

English Union Hears Typical Oxford Debate

Prominents in Audience Enjoy Repartee.

For two hours last evening members of the English Speaking union sat in on a typical Thursday evening debate at the Oxford union. A Balliol man, Samuel Rinaker, their president, in a few words transported them from the Drake ballroom to the galleries of the union hall with its busts of union presidents, Gladstone and Asquith. Two other Balliol men, Richard Kay-Shuttleworth, Conservative, and Arthur Greenwood, Laborite, also former union officers, then discussed the pros and cons of British policy with a moderation strange to ears accustomed to the charges and countercharges of the late campaign.

Lloyd George was "a cross between a black sheep and a white elephant," said Mr. Greenwood. Mr. Greenwood was "like the Empire State building—he towered over his fellows, but was scantily furnished in the upper stories," said Mr. Kay-Shuttleworth. Such was the extent of the personal vituperation. If Mr. Greenwood accused the National government, with polite circumlocation, of cowardice in its recent foreign policy, he also admitted the failure of the Labor policy to meet the unemployment relief situation. And Mr. Kay-Shuttleworth, with equal frankness, admitted that his own party's course of action in Ethiopia had been a mistake.

In one respect, however, the young politicians did not differ from American political orators. Both exceeded their allotted time.

Mrs. Rinaker struck a colorful note at the speakers' table in a frock of dubonnet taffeta with a becoming bouquet of contrasting pink in her hair and a twin nosegay at the V-neck of her gown. Also particularly charming in a lavender gown and a sable cape was Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, whose "dove party" included Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. John A. Chapman, and Miss Elinor Chapman.

Youngest of the audience were Miss Julie Follansbee and Miss Mary and Miss Kay Wood, who came with Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee and Mitchell Follansbee Jr. Mrs. Follansbee's sister-in-law, Mrs. William B. Hale, looked particularly lovely in grey velvet with gloves of the color of her gown, Miss Louise Chandler, just back from abroad, was in Ulrich Buesch's party, as were the Walter S. Brewsters, Miss Raimund Baumann, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Robert Hall McCormick, the Walter Lichtensteins, and Howard Tracy.

Critic Praises Art Exhibition Opening Today

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There has never been a more beautiful exhibition arranged in the Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue, than the one which opens today and shows in one large room the flower paintings of Harriet B. Krawiec and the landscapes of John Stoltenberg. Like Topsy, the surprisingly fresh beauty of this exhibit "just grew." It was not planned.

Mrs. Krawiec has long been known to most lovers of Chicago art for her work in still life arrangements. Her canvases have a shimmer and inner life that make them noticeable in any company. They glow with vitality. If one had to settle upon one feature of her technique which is more important than another, probably one would choose quality; Mrs. Krawiec never fails to give us that in even her smallest sketch. It is an intangible element of painting, but its presence is obvious to the most untutored eye. These paintings please repeatedly on that score.

John Stoltenberg paints with a good palette and a vigorous belief in his own powers. His landscapes are interesting and effective. The water in "Fish Creek" is like an opal and the thunder clouds in "Gill's Rock, Before the Storm," are like rich velvet drapes harboring tragedy.

His most beautiful landscape is "Along the Roadside"; but there is beauty and charm in several of the smaller paintings. The "Wood Interior" and "Across the Valley" are extremely well done. In conjunction with Mrs. Krawiec's flower paintings the landscapes are perfect. Each sets off the other.

Among the arrangements by Harriet B. Krawiec, do not miss "The Broken Vase," "The Red Bowl," "Iris," "The Vase from Tunisia," and "The Madonna." If you are really clever, you will miss very few of the others either.

In the second room are water colors by Marie Blanke. These are studies of sprays of flowers—morning glories, hollyhocks, and dahlias. Many of them are white flowers, but an occasional blue or pink or red blossom gives color and character to the show. Miss Blanke is evolving a new and delightful technique. She shows four flower paintings done with thin oil on veneer board; the effect is Japanesy and highly intriguing.

The exhibition will continue through December.

Women of the Moose.

The Women of the Moose representing Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Ohio units will attend a two day conference today and tomorrow at the Moose club.

Shirtwaist for the Matron

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Those who wear miss' sizes are going to be jealous of those who don't, because this dashing shirtwaist frock is styled only for heavier silhouettes, in spite of its obviously youthful lines. We don't have to tell you about the usefulness of the shirtwaist type of dress. Every one has at least one such frock in her wardrobe for wear when shopping, attending club meetings, and going to business.

The model presented today, the original of which is created in black satin-back crêpe, has all the latest style points, including a broad and straight shoulder yoke, puffed sleeves, Peter Pan collar, voluminous neckline bow, lavish use of smart buttons, a flared skirt, and a softly gathered bodice. And every line of the dress expresses genuine comfort and wearability.

Thin woolens, nubby crêpe silks, rayon novelty weaves, and velveteen all are appropriate and practical mediums for this frock.

Style No. 2970 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of 4 inch ribbon for the bow.

If You Must Cross Legs, Be Graceful

Be Certain That the Line Is Symmetrical.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In public conveyances there's a jingle to the effect that men's crossing of their legs in street cars is not pleasant for women, since skirts often are soiled thereby. Well, riding in one the other day a masculine companion suggested that something might be done about women crossing their legs and doing damage to the esthetic masculine eye.

The reminder is timely, since skirts are shorter this year and women have to be reëducated in the matter of sitting posture. For a time the skirt took care of itself, falling into folds, if not graceful, at least coveruppishly. We've been wrestling with a skirt ourselves lately that doesn't seem quite equal to the coverage demand. When they're tight along with being short, believe us, it takes practice to assume a sitting pose at which your Aunt Ellen wouldn't snort. But if we're pleading that the men keep their legs to themselves, we might consider doing them a return favor by not reverting to the ugly knee exposure of a few years back.

You remember it, of course, if you cast a vote this year. Remember it as the ugliest era known. So, if the skirt is shorter than you've been wearing, just remind yourself, from time to time, that it won't just fall into line. It must be trained by neater leg postures. You can't be jumping up and down, another distressing feature of the era just mentioned, to jerk and haul and pull. It's not being done this year, as poise and calm are begged of the lady beautiful or she doesn't pass for such.

This has been talked about a lot, yet women are infinitely more conscious about the appeal or effect they're making with the new chapeau or the new eye shadow or anything from the chin up. Not that that isn't important. But there's that other extreme and there's nothing truer than that a hint of attractive leg silhouette is more persuasive than a bold exposure.

If legs must be crossed, and they must, say you and I, let the crossing be done above the knee a bit, otherwise you get that spread of flesh due to the pressure of the under leg. In public conveyances, naturally, you won't be crossing the legs. You'll be sitting like a little lady and, perhaps, a bit primly, too.

Colleen Moore Doll House to Be Shown Here an Extra Week

The Colleen Moore doll house, which has been on display at the Fair store, will be held over an additional week, until Jan. 2, D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, announced yesterday. During this last week the exhibition is to be sponsored by the American Legion. George Sugarman, chairman of activities for the Legion week, explained that many children of veterans are patients in ten hospitals for crippled children included in the list of beneficiaries of the display. Miss Moore will speak at a meeting of the Cook county council of the Legion at 8 p. m. Dec. 2 in the council chambers of the city hall.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

REBIDDABLE SUITS.

A five card suit headed by both the ace and king or by any three honors [ten or higher] may be bid and then rebid once, even if partner has not shown support by raising. This type is called a rebiddable suit.

Examples: AK432, QJ1032, KJ1032, AQ1032.

Any six card suit is rebiddable and may be bid a second time without waiting for support from partner. This includes suits such as 976432.

No suit of fewer than five cards is rebiddable, but the following five card suits are on the borderline between biddable and rebiddable suits:

AQ743 or AJ965 or KQ974.

Such suits should not be rebid when another safe bid is available, but when the player's hand warants a second bid, or when a rebid is forced by the bidding situation, the above suits may be bid a second time in a pinch.

TODAY'S HAND.

East dealer.

NORTH
♥ A Q 9 4 3
♦ Q 6 4
♣ 8 7 3

WEST
♥ K J 10
♦ 9 2

EAST
♠ K 10 8
♥ 8 5 2

SOUTH
♠ 5 4 3 2
♥ 7 6
♦ A 8 5 3
♣ A 10 6

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 heart
Pass	1 no trump	Pass	Pass
Double	Redouble	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding was reasonably sound. North's fourth hand opening was pretty light, it is true, but not unconscionably so. South's no trump response was eminently correct. East's secondary double, after his two previous passes, was a good tactical measure. South's redouble was warranted on the strength of his two aces, the fact that he could have made a negative no trump on considerably less, and the further fact that there was a good opportunity to go game at one no trump redoubled if the contract were allowed to play there. West, with strength in three suits, was perfectly willing to "shoot the works." While East's double was technically of the penalty variety, the situation itself [again I must stress East's two previous passes] called for strong cooperative treatment and, therefore, when the bidding returned to East he had every right to feel that West would not have passed unless prepared to assist materially in the defense against such a dangerous contract.

West opened the spade six and, when dummy appeared, the declarer felt far from happy. The jack was taken by East's king and the spade ten was returned. Now there was no certain side entry for dummy's heart suit, even if it could be established. Declarer despairingly led to his diamond ace and took the heart finesse, which succeeded, but after that he never was able to make more than his other ace, and the contract went down two tricks, 1,000 points.

Declarer had missed a great opportunity. With dummy's only certain side entry gone after the opening lead, and with the queen of diamonds appearing in a vulnerable position, since the king probably was held by East, the sole hope of the contract rested on the possibility of bringing home four heart tricks. In only one way could this be done: the spade ace should have been followed by the lead of a low heart from dummy's long suit. Later, when declarer regained the lead with one of his aces, he should have risked everything on a successful heart finesse and break. It is true that this might have cost him an extra trick, but, considering the mess he was already in, it was by far the shrewdest plan. Since he would have been lucky enough to find the heart king on side and the adverse hearts breaking 3-3, this correct play would have made the enormous difference of a fulfilled contract, game, and rubber.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the correct opening lead against a four spade contract [no other bidding around the table] with ♠ K 9 ♥ J 8 7 6 ♦ K 10 3 ♣ A T 8 3?

Answer: The heart six.

Alpine Jackets Are Copied by U. S. Designers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The heart decorated waistcoat jacket and sweaters, imported from the Tyrolean Alps, have taken the town. Because such blazing beauties are anything but a passing fancy, it didn't take long for the American designers to send in their ideas for similar sweaters and sleeveless waistcoats.

These homemade products have the added attraction of surprisingly low price tags. While the imports are hand made, and the new arrivals, not, the home products are just as colorful, though not as lavishly festooned with the red hearts, quaint figures of Alpine yodlers and the like.

There's a clear yellow sleeveless affair of knitted fabric, with a pair of chest pockets in the shape of a small heart. These are sewed to the chest sections with contrasting yarn thread. The buttons are red and round and thick.

Another fireman red knitted waistcoat, also without sleeves, has four slit pockets, each outlined with a vine pattern in vivid green yarn. The outside edges are of dark green, and the funny little green buttons are tiny dark green flower pots with bright green foliage plants for contrast.

A white long sleeved sweater with a decidedly peasant knitted pattern has a round yoke of trafic light red and green, tied at the front with demure yarn tassels. Other smooth knits with long sleeves come in black with the entire chest covered with flowers and figures. The color combines are wild and gawdy but are unexpectedly easy to look at and wear after the first shock is over. Bright greens, yellow like sunshine, pinks, and all kinds of strong scarlets are available. Everybody likes them and the price marks.

WEDDINGS

Miss Martha Frances Purnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Purnell of 1616 Judson avenue, Evanston, will be married to Merrill William MacNamee, son of Mr. and Mrs. William MacNamee of 940 Forest avenue, at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Second Presbyterian church of Evanston. Dr. Frank M. Silsley will read the service. A reception will follow at the Orrington hotel ballrooms. Mr. MacNamee and his bride will make their home at 822½ Forest avenue, Evanston.

News has been received here of the marriage in New York on Nov. 11 of Miss Rita Rend Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, to George Adam Rentschler, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rentschler of Hamilton, O. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Martin F. Fahy of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Tuxeda, N. Y., officiated in the presence of the two families. The couple dispensed with attendants. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with old point lace and a tulle veil. She carried a white prayer book in lieu of a bouquet.

BY MARY MEADE.

Go about the neighborhood borrowing percolators, drip coffee makers, and glass coffee making devices, and your problem of making coffee for the crowd still isn't solved, thinks one of our request corner readers. How, she wants to know, can fifty cups of good coffee be made at once without the bother of lining up an array of the best coffee making utensils and carefully measuring out coffee and water for each?

First of all, we'd like to insist that good coffee may be made in quantity by the old simple methods, if care is used. For home use, of course, we prefer our newer coffee brewers to the antiquated coffee pot, but to make fifty or a hundred cups at a time the big old coffee pot or kettle can be made to do nicely.

Here are a few general facts about making coffee in large quantities which may be of help:

1. To figure the amount of coffee needed for any number of people, including refills, multiply the number of noses [or mouths] by 1½. If you are going to serve thirty coffee drinking people, you'll want to prepare forty-five cups of coffee.

2. One pound of coffee will make from 2 to 2½ gallons and will fill fifty cups.

3. A pound of coffee measures approximately five cups of raw coffee.

4. A quart of coffee cream will serve about thirty people, and a pound of cube sugar contains about 120 cubes.

Authorities differ in opinion as to the best method of preparing coffee in quantity, but two widely used ways of preparing good coffee are suggested here. It is well to remember that strong coffee is preferred by some persons and weaker coffee by others. The amounts given in these recipes are aimed to strike the happy medium of flavorful but not overly strong brew.

Boiled Coffee.
[Fifty cups.]
1 pound [5 cups] coffee
2½ gallons water

Tie the coffee in a cloth bag which is large enough to allow for swelling. A salt sack may be used. Place the bag of coffee in the pot or covered kettle of cold water and bring it slowly to the boiling point. As soon as the water has come to a rolling boil, turn down the flame and hold it below the boiling point for 15 minutes. Then, if the coffee is not to be served at once, remove the bag and leave the pot over low heat.

Coffee Boiled with Egg.
[Fifty cups.]
1 pound [5 cups] coffee
2 whole eggs
2 cups cold water
2½ gallons boiling water

Mix the coffee with the eggs [including shell] and cold water. When the water in the pot or kettle is rapidly boiling, add this mixture and allow it to continue boiling three minutes, no longer. Allow coffee to stand just below the boiling point for 15 minutes. The coffee-egg mixture will settle out. Pour the brew off the grounds if it must stand for longer than 15 minutes.

Makes Bow at Tea

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Ellen Adair Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Orr, was introduced to society yesterday afternoon at a tea given at home, 1244 Stone street, by her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Wheaton Augur. From 4 until 7 o'clock friends of the family gathered to greet the debutante.

Mrs. Augur, Mrs. Orr, and the bud received before the fireplace in the living room. The debutante wore a becoming frock of aquamarine satin made very simply with little cap sleeves and a full skirt and she carried fragile rubrum lilies. Mrs. Orr wore a dark green crêpe and orchids.

The young women who assisted Miss Orr were Miss Sylvia Peter, Miss Anne Jay Bryant, Miss Mary Macdonald, Miss Betty Keith, Miss Annie May Henry, Miss Jane Swift, Miss Anne Winston, Miss Narcissa Thorne, Miss Margot Reid, and Miss Anne Rickcords. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney gave a small dinner last night for Miss Orr and Miss Henry. The Orrs and Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Swift will give a supper-dance at the Blackstone Dec. 26 for Miss Orr and Miss Swift.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. McWilliams and their debutante daughter, Miss Jean McWilliams, will be at home today between 4 and 7 p. m. in their apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive. Two cousins of the debutante will be among her assistants. They are Miss Pamela Fisher of London, who is staying with her aunt, Mrs. Donald McWilliams, this winter, and Miss La Vaughn Bell. Miss Peggy Kipp, who was abroad with Miss McWilliams and her mother last summer, has come for the party, to be here a week.

Also assisting will be Miss Valeria Harris, Miss Elizabeth Dewes, Miss Joan Smith, Miss Florence Hermes, Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly, Miss Margery Nicols, Miss Lucia Dixon, and Miss Josephine and Miss Caroline Castle, who are students at Vassar, where Miss McWilliams also has studied.

After the tea Mrs. Florian Wallace will give a cocktail party for the debutante, her assistants, and their escorts, and later Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams will take the group to the Congress hotel for dinner and dancing.

Paul Whiteman Leads Stokowski Orchestra; Uses Bagpipes, Banjos

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Augmenting the Philadelphia orchestra with twenty-four of his own musicians, including banjoists and four bagpipers—kilts and all—Paul Whiteman invaded the Academy of Music today with a program of modern and jaz music strange to the ears of most regular academy listeners.

It was a musical milestone inasmuch as Whiteman's baton led the famed Philadelphia organization for the first time in a "regular" season concert. The program was filled with innovations—for the academy.

[Opera by Giuseppe Verdi. The libretto by Arrigo Boito after Shakespeare's "Othello." Presented by the Chicago City Opera company in the Civic Opera house, Friday, Nov. 27, 1936.]

THE CAST.

Otello.....Giovanni Martinelli
Desdemona.....Edith Mason
Iago.....Lawrence Tibbett
Emilia.....Mari Barova
Cassio.....Giuseppe Cavadore
Roderigo.....Lodovico Oliviero
Lodovico.....Nino Ruisi
Montano.....George Cehanovsky
Herald.....Teodor Lovich
Conductor, Roberto Moranzoni.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

This is certainly the morning for the big bad critic to relax and enjoy the luxury of a half column rave. In this whole review of the Chicago City Opera company's remarkable "Otello" of last night there will not be the slightest mention of such things as the too wayward chorus singing of the opening scene, the effect of early rather than late Verdi which Mason and Martinelli achieved once or twice during the "Venga la Morte," and the brasses that started out to take over the show five minutes after the parting of the first curtain.

But, before the panegyrics start in earnest, one must comply with that obscure city ordinance which requires that a critique of any Chicago "Otello" include a comparison of the work of the current Moor with Charles Marshall's handling of the part.

Marshall, as I remember him, went in for towering rages. The madder he got, the fuller and more resonant his voice became. Martinelli is a very Latin Otello, with a southern excitability about his enactment of the rôle. He willingly breaks the vocal line if doing so will give greater credibility to the Moor's despair.

Now for the rave, with the space half gone already. Histrionically, musically, scenically, last night's "Otello" was of a magnificence that would glorify any season of opera. The principal rôles were in the hands of Edith Mason, Giovanni Martinelli, and Lawrence Tibbett, people of such instinctive feel for the theater that there was hardly a moment from 8 to 11:30 p. m. that was not charged, in some degree, with contagious emotion.

Desdemona's love was moving in its sincerity and fervor; the despair of Otello's disillusionment would shake the composure of an idol. Calmly bitter and determined Iago, a difficult part to motivate properly and make credible, gained intensity from the incongruous poise and mastery of Lawrence Tibbett.

And these three voices, supported by a competent cast and by Roberto Moranzoni's eloquent orchestra, provided a performance of the Verdi masterpiece in which the composer would doubtless delight. The chorus did some exquisite work in the second act, and provided a sonorous background for the prodigious bit of skilful theater which closes the third.

The "Otello" sets are among the most eye-filling in the company's collection. Medieval Cyprus was not a bad place for the story, for the combination of Italian and Byzantine magnificence which such a locale provides adds immensely to the effectiveness of the piece as a whole.

A huge audience was extremely enthusiastic, heaping honors on principals, supporting cast, conductor, and technical director. This last by implication, for the sets and lighting were vigorously applauded.

This afternoon "Die Walküre," with a cast which Bayreuthers will spend the whole day envying. Tonight "Lakmé," revived for Lily Pons.

Abbie J. Jaques Becomes Bride Today in Arabia

Illinois Couple Will Wed in Thrilling Setting.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"A HONEYMOON in the Garden of Aden" would fittingly describe the romantic setting in which Miss Abbie Jane Jaques, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tallmadge Jaques, and Claude Burnett Chipperfield will spend the first few days after their wedding today in Arabia. Mr. and Mrs. Jaques had a cable from the bride yesterday telling them that the marriage would take place at 4 o'clock in the Union club in Aden.

Capt. Chappey, who will serve the bridegroom as best man, is lending them his bungalow, ten miles from Aden, for as long as they care to stay there. According to description of the house received in a letter a few days ago, the "bungalow," as homes are called locally, is beautifully furnished, with a private swimming pool, and it is situated in the midst of the finest gardens in that part of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Jaques are deeply disappointed not to be present at the ceremony, but he is convalescing from an illness, and she had influenza when the bride and her sister, Miss Anna Ri Jaques, sailed a few weeks ago. The sisters went to England and boarded the P. and O. liner Rajputana for Arabia. The voyage south was accomplished in some of the worst storms of the season.

Reception to Follow Wedding at Club.

The bride took with her as part of her trousseau a white satin gown and a lovely new suit of gray and green, and her mother thinks that she will choose the latter costume for the ceremony today. Mr. Chipperfield, who is in the American diplomatic service, has reserved one whole floor at the club. The wedding will be quite small, with Miss Anna Ri as her sister's only attendant, but there will be a reception afterward for about a hundred guests.

Aden sometimes is called the Gibraltar of the east, and it should be a romantic city for any young girl to visit. The British army, navy, and air forces have their headquarters there, and mingled with the drab dress of the town's 50,000 population are the trim uniforms of the military. Mr. and Mrs. Jaques fear that Miss Anna Ri will not return to Chicago for Christmas because of the diversions offered in Aden, but it is hoped that she will sail home Dec. 9 in the Queen Mary with her sister and brother-in-law, the Peter Gyala Sandor Meros, who live in London. The former Lois Jaques and Mr. Mero, who were married here last winter, are not going to Aden for the wedding because it would mean a month of travel.

Stimulating Life Ahead for Bride.

Miss Jaques' new life in Arabia will be different and stimulating, for as the wife of the American consul she will take a prominent part in the social life of the city. Her future home will be in one of the bungalows, already furnished. She will return to Chicago next summer, when the heat becomes intense in Aden.

Mr. Chipperfield, whose home was in Canton, Ill., is a graduate of the University of Illinois. His bride was presented to society in the winter of 1931 at a tea-dance at the Woman's Good Morning!

An acquaintance remarked that he didn't care for "Born to Dance" because it "tried to be too Ziegfeldian."

My reply to that is that it IS Ziegfeldian. Meaning that it's smooth, sparkling, peppy, gorgeously caparisoned, and beautifully executed.

Besides glamor and speed the picture boasts an ingratiating cast headed by two refreshing and clever young people—Eleanor Powell and James Stewart. [No, I don't think he looks like Robert Taylor, but some folks do.]

Situations that are definitly unique develop to the accompaniment of brilliant dancing, catchy tunes, and intriguing dialog. A battleship in the bay and a Lonely Hearts club in the city background much of the action.

Interest centers around the romance of a country girl who arrives in the big city afire with ambition to become a famous dancer, and a bashful, noncommissioned navy officer. Nora and Ted meet in the Lonely Hearts club, where Nora's girl friend, Jenny Saks, works.

Jenny is the wife of a gob on Ted's ship. She had met and married him four years before during a marathon dance. And "Gunny" Saks is unaware that he is the father of a girl child—he having been on a cruise starting shortly after the marathon ended.

The tender love story and the comical one evolve amid a myriad of side issues. One of these is a fake love affair, framed and ballyhooed for publicity purposes, between a temperamental stage star and young Mr. Barker by the lady's producer.

This causes heartaches and misunderstandings that culminate with Nora in the star's shoes and everybody happy who deserves to be.

Miss Powell's dancing, as usual, sets you aquiver with admiration. Buddy Ebsen, as a member of the crew, who can't find the Brooklyn navy yard, contributes some of his grand eccentric dancing, worming his way into your affections the while with his disarming smile and winning personality. Raymond Walburn is delightfully droll as the ship captain. Frances Langford's singing has charm. Una Merkel and Sid Silvers as Mr. and Mrs. "Gunny" Saks are a heap of fun.

You'll love James Stewart with his puzzled, St. Bernard puppy dog expression and get a great kick out of his earnest and difficulty beset courtship. And you'll be equally fond of that delightful, clean cut Miss Powell.

"Born to Dance" is high class entertainment, yowsah!—with a warm, human touch that's sure to endear it to everybody.

An array of beautiful new compacts, not expensive, but with the important features of good execution and high style, will simplify your Christmas shopping. For the sisters, cousins, aunts and best girls they're sure-fire gift hits.

It's the smart people who do their Christmas shopping early and their tribe is increasing every year. Did you know that the toy departments have been busy as anything for a full week? It just goes to show.

The beauty departments have been busy, too, so you'd better give thought to your own shopping list. If it's beauty gifts you're after [and you can't miss on these where women are concerned] let us suggest that you start with a good look at the compacts. There's nothing nicer to be found in the Christmas stocking than a good one of nice size, nice shape, and nice fashion points.

One house is offering five stunners. The best designer they could find gave them pointers as to colors and designs and they're beautifully executed. What's more, they're bargains. You're getting plenty for your money.

One of these models is a double affair, slender and longish, an aristocratic bit to be tucked in any woman's purse. It's for loose powder, which is what most women seem to prefer. This you can have in red, green, or ivory enamel with gold trim. It's brand new this year.

Another new one is a flat square, quite thin, with one of the best seals we've ever seen on the loose powder compartment. Slight pressure on a button beside the powder reservoir clicks it open; dip in your puff for as much as you want. It's neat but not gadgety, this internal arrangement, and the outer case, in green, ivory, or red, is impressively handsome. This is a double vanity but it isn't bulky.

There are two others of the same general shape in different designs with a definite costume jewelry touch in their pronounced gold accents. These are in the same enamels as the others and also in black. The blacks, we thought, were especially slick.

The fifth of this array of compact offerings isn't new this year but it's offered again by popular request. It is oblong in shape, in goldtone finish with colored trim. A love of an evening vanity, this, and can be single or double, as you wish.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

JOHN R. WINTERBOTHAM tells, with some satisfaction because of his enthusiasm for the Boy Scouts, of an incident that occurred two weeks ago when a driver lost control of his automobile at Kilbourne and Fullerton and crashed into a safety island, seriously injuring a middle aged woman. As she lay in the street with a broken leg and a severed artery a coal truck drove up, and the burly, smudgy faced driver jumped from the seat and pushed his way through the crowd. He quickly applied a tourniquet, using his handkerchief, and stopped the flow of blood. Then, with some small boards kicked out of the bottom of a box brought from a nearby store at his order, and with strips of bandage made out of the victim's underslip, he set the leg in temporary splints.

When an ambulance arrived the doctor in charge complimented the worker on his fine job, saying he probably had saved the woman's life, and had given excellent first aid.

"How did you know what to do?" he inquired.

"Aw, hell, that's the first time I ever had a chance to use what I learned about first aid when I was a Boy Scout," responded the truck driver, as he started back to his truck.

SATURDAY Notes from the Friday Cuff. The book about Mrs. Simpson which was to have been called "From Baltimore to Balmoral," to be out shortly, has been changed to "Her Name Was Wallis Warfield." Carolyn Marx, New York book columnist, says that the pseudonym of the author conceals the identity of two women, one of whom knows well Baltimore social circles and the annals of Mrs. Simpson's family. . . . And that is probably the last mention that will be made of Mrs. S. in this column. . . . They now have peppermint flavored toothpicks. . . . Lois Long is expected to arrive in Chicago today to spend the weekend. . . . Miss Long and Sheila Barrett, now appearing at the Drake, share an apartment in New York. . . . Christopher Morley spent his one evening in town going to the caged bird show at the Sherman with another man named Morley [no relation]. . . . Florence Edney, who plays the talkative Cockney cook in "Call It a Day," played her first part with Ben Greet in a pantomime. Although she changed into six pairs of tights in the course of the performance, she had only one line to speak and she remembers it still. "Her Royal Highness the Princess approaches, and all her loyal subjects will grovel in the customary manner." . . . Perhaps you heard about the Democratic inn keeper who refused to have roast Vermont turkey on his menu this year. He called it roast Massachusetts turkey. . . . There's a little dog at the North Side Animal Shelter named Badio. When Dorothy Eagles, founder and president of the shelter, returned after making a radio appeal in behalf of the dogs at the shelter waiting for homes, she found him waiting outside the door, hopeful of a bed and a meal. . . . The Man on the Blue

By Luke Short

SYNOPSIS.

Fleeing the law Shamrock Ireland, arrogant young westerner, reaches Arizona on his Blue, and saves the life of Sherif Lobell, who is about to be shot by a girl, Nancy Hyatt. The Hyatts—Nancy and her brother, Mayo—have lost their ranch, the Double Diamond, to the bank. Mayo, recently paroled, has threatened to kill any man who serves him with a dispossess. Because Shamrock believes it was Mayo who betrayed the man who brought him up he accepts the dangerous task of serving the papers. A reward is out for Shamrock for shooting a town marshal in self-defense over a card game. Shamrock confronts Mayo Hyatt at his ranch and is shot by Nancy. When he regains consciousness he learns he has misjudged Hyatt, but Nancy scorns him. She tried to shoot Lobell to save her brother, paroled on good behavior, from killing him.

INSTALMENT XII.

THE NEW DEPUTY.

"I've got three thousand on my head in this territory," Shamrock said slowly. "It wouldn't help much if I was to side with you, would it?"

"That would give him one more excuse for saltin' us down."

"It's hard lines," Shamrock said.

"Thanks anyway."

Shamrock started to walk away, then paused. "If it looks like I'm buyin' in this fight, don't get me wrong, will you?"

Hyatt frowned, puzzled.

"Just remember that. Don't get me wrong."

Saddling Blue, he knew the wise thing to do. There was a three thousand dollar reward on his head, and the chances were that Lobell, now that the paper was served and Shamrock was useless to him, would gun him for the bounty. Wisdom dictated leaving the country as swiftly and quietly as possible.

But a man is not always wise, Shamrock thought, as he mounted Blue and rode out of the corral lot. Grimly, cynically, he reflected that curiosity is an excellent antidote for wisdom, and right now he was curious about many things. Lobell, for instance. It was possible that Lobell was so eager to see justice done that he was willing to pay Shamrock a thousand dollars for serving the paper. It was possible that Lobell's grudge against the Hyatts was so strong that he would sit by and watch them rustled to ruin.

"And it's also possible," Shamrock mused, "that he don't give a damn about justice, and that there's a little more than a grudge behind his feelin's toward the Hyatts. Nancy thinks so. I could tell it even without her sayin' so, because she ain't the kind to kill a man because he hates her brother."

He stroked Blue's neck thoughtfully, feeling the cool wind of evening in his face. He was thinking of Nancy and the wild, unprincipled fight she was making for what she loved.

"She ain't my kind of folks, Blue," Shamrock murmured, "but I reckon she won't mind my bein' curious."

The sun was fading out of the flatlands below when he laughed softly. "I think I like this deputy's job."

He was headed back to Malpais Springs.

When Shamrock looped Blue's reins over the hitchrack in front of the sherif's office, then turned and looked at the lighted window, there was a quiet gleam of amusement in his eyes. It died as he crossed the sidewalk. He would be about as welcome to the sherif here in town as an epidemic of Texas fever, and he didn't doubt Lobell would use the same measures to rid himself of both.

A man was seated at the sherif's roll-top desk as Shamrock opened the door. He had his feet cocked up, and was deep in a saddle catalog. Except for a pair of predatory black eyes, the man looked like the usual puncher—range clothes, no shave, battered Stetson, worn six-guns. Shamrock saw the badge on his vest, felt the surly air of petty authority about him, and guessed the man was the jailer whom he had not seen that morning when Lobell gave him the papers.

"A man gen'rally knocks when he comes in here," the jailer said heavily.

"That's fine," Shamrock said amiably, looking around him. "What does he do when he goes out?"

The jailer scowled darkly and laid down his catalog. Shamrock cuffed the Stetson off his forehead and put his hands on his hips.

"What do you want?"

"That's better," Shamrock said pleasantly. "Where's Lobell?"

"He ain't in."

"I can see that. Where is he?"

"Anything you got to say to him you can say to me," the man said importantly.

"I reckon I could, but I won't," Shamrock replied.

"Wise jasper," he sneered.

"No. Just patient," Shamrock said softly, and something in his voice made the jailer's eyes alert. "I asked you where Lobell was. I heard you say he was out. Where?"

The jailer suddenly sat upright in his chair. "Say, you ain't—you couldn't be——"

"The new deputy," Shamrock said.

The jailer's mouth slacked open a little, then he closed it and jumped out of the chair. He laughed uncomfortably. "Well, now—I—uh"—he rubbed his open palm on his pants leg with an uneasy motion—"I didn't think you'd—uh—be back." He paused, then added hastily: "So soon."

Shamrock watched him narrowly, his expression unchanging.

"My name's Coyne—Ed Coyne."

Still Shamrock said nothing.

"Yours is Ire—" The man stopped talking, bogged down, then tried a quick recovery. "Ireland, I heard that danged Soholt say last night."

"Let it go," Shamrock said coldly. He walked over to the desk, took the man's chair and sat down in it and leaned back.

"I reckon I better——"

"Where's Lobell?" Shamrock cut in.

"I don't know and that's a fact," Coyne said earnestly. "He left just a little before supper and never said where to nor how long he'd be gone."

Nor who he was hunting, Shamrock thought grimly. He looked around the room at the windows. The office was on a corner, a window on each street side; but the desk was behind the door in the corner, so that a man sitting behind it could not be seen from the street. There were a dozen flyspecked reward posters tacked up on the plank walls whose whitewash had long since peeled off. In the west wall a steel door led into the dobie-walled jail. A made-up cot near it, three straight armchairs, two spittoons, a loaded gunrack, made up the rest of the furniture.

"I reckon I'll step out a minute," the jailer said after a few seconds' wait. "I'm out of the makin's."

Shamrock said carelessly, "You better stay." He flipped his tobacco sack to the jailer, then picked up the deck of cards lying on the desk. He shuffled them carelessly, while the jailer backed up to one of the wall chairs and sat down. His hands were trembling so that he made three attempts to build a smoke before he succeeded. Shamrock pretended not to notice.

His game was solitaire and for two hours he dealt it, the jailer watching in utter quiet. Shamrock did not even look at him again. Only once did he move, and that was to get up and open the door a few inches with the comment: "It's hot."

He didn't know how much time had passed when he heard the sound of several horses being ridden up to the rack.

The jailer made a motion to get up, but Shamrock looked up from his cards and the man sat down again.

The jumble of voices and the creak of saddle leather were all Shamrock could hear, then the talk suddenly stopped.

Illinois Couple Will Wed in Thrilling Setting.

William Onderdonk Wed in Detroit Tonight.

Mrs. J. Lawrence Onderdonk is another mother to be absent from a wedding of prime interest in her family today. She is at the Evanston hospital recovering from an operation performed last week, while Mr. Onderdonk and their daughter, Miss Gretchen, are in Detroit for the ceremony which will unite in marriage William Onderdonk and Miss Ernestine Richter, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Theodore J. Richter. The ceremony will be at 8:30 o'clock at Christ church there.

The Richters will give a reception afterward at the Colony club. Miss Onderdonk is to be one of the bridesmaids for her future sister-in-law. Mrs. Onderdonk expects to be well enough after the first of the year to help her son's bride settle the apartment in Hinman avenue, Evanston, where they will make their home.

Miss Mary Ryerson Frost, who will become the bride in Dover, Conn., today of Austin Branch Osgood, will have many of her family and relatives at the quiet home ceremony. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay Frost. The Joseph T. Ryersons, the junior Edward L. Ryersons and their daughter, Miss Nancy Ryerson, will be present. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Osgood of Hopedale and Mount Pleasant, S. C.

Miss Marjorie Adelaide Mills and Lambert Arundel Hopkins Jr. are fortunate, too, in having most of their families and relatives present for their wedding at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Mills who will give a reception at the Evanston Country club following the service. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. Arundel Hopkins of Pasadena, former Evanstonians.

Among the bride's out of town relatives who have come for the occasion are her grandmother, Mrs. Archer Brown, and Miss Constance Brown of Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. Alan Chidsey of Pawling, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. William H. McMaster of Alliance, O., whose daughter, Miss Janet McMaster, will be maid of honor for her cousin; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Mills of Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Thorburn Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Thorburn of Cleveland, O.

Thayer Hopkins has come from Williams to serve his brother as best man, and their sister, Mrs. David Hellyer, has come from Tacoma, Wash., to attend as maid of honor. Another sister, Miss Anne Hopkins, will be among the six bridesmaids, and the bride's brothers, James H. and Edwin Mills Jr., also Williams students, will be among the ushers. Mrs. Charles Stinchfield of Pasadena, the bridegroom's grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stinchfield Jr., Miss Diane Stinchfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stinchfield Van Dyke, all of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Constant Hopkins of Woodstock are among those who will be seated on the bridegroom's side of the church. The Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle, an old family friend, will officiate, and another old friend, Herbert Hyde, will play the organ.

Miss Janet Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gordon, and George C. Getgood will be married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Christ church, Winnetka, with a reception afterward at the Gordon home in Lincoln avenue, Winnetka. The bride will be attended by her sisters, Miss Margaret Gordon of Pueblo, Colo., and Miss Nancy Gordon, a student at Smith college. Their brothers, John W. Gordon of Milwaukee and Sheldon Gordon of Wilmington, Del., will serve as ushers for the bridegroom whose best man will be his brother, John Getgood.

St. Andrew Society Cuts the Haggis Tonight.

Among the most interesting events on tonight's calendar will be the Illinois St. Andrew society's 91st annual dinner, which will muster most of the leading Scots of the city at the Palmer house for the picturesque ceremony of piping in the haggis, imported from Scotland for the occasion.

James B. Forgan, president, will cut the haggis, which will be borne in on the shoulders of four Highlanders in the royal Stuart tartans to the music of kilted pipers and trumpeters. William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company will speak on "The Land We Left," and Dr. J. W. G. Ward of the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park on "The Land We Live In." The program will be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup from 10 to 10:15 o'clock.

Many of the guests at the St. Andrew's society dinner will go on to the Drake hotel, where the artists' Van Gogh period ball is being held for the benefit of the Art Institute school.

Near by, at the Lake Shore Athletic club, the annual Thanksgiving formal dance of the Oak Park Infant Welfare circle will take place, and down at the Stevens hotel members of the executive board of Misericordia Hospital and Infants' home will dance at a Crystal ball, the fifteenth anniversary supper-dance of that organization. The Hinsdale Junior Infant Welfare organization is bringing together another gay crowd for its charity ball at the Palmer house. Out on the north shore the Skokie Country club is opening its winter season with a Thanksgiving dinner-dance.

Interruptions During Meals Bad for Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Well, well, well! So that long-winded political speaker we had to listen to before election got that way because one day when he was a baby the telephone rang a couple of times while his mother was feeding him, and mother stopped the operation while she answered the call, and he was hungry and didn't like having to wait during a long confab for the next spoonful of delicious vegetable soup, and he showed his anger, and she got cross and scolded him, and so he developed a negativism [connected with the mouth] that made him an excessive talker! At least so said a prominent psychiatrist in a recent address, reported by the press.

Far fetched? Yes, when it's put like that in a newspaper account. And perhaps far fetched, anyhow.

But some of the other things this man did say were more plausible and tie up with the advice we so often have given in this column about the prevention of troublesome mealtime behavior in children, or the cure of it once it has developed.

This psychiatrist dwelt upon the effect interruptions during meals had upon babies and small children who have to be fed by hand. Every housewife knows what these may be. Just as you settle down and get the baby started on a nice warm meal the grocer comes and you have to hunt up money or make out a check, or the man comes to read the meter and you have to ask him about an overcharge, or the telephone rings two or three times and, naturally, you answer it. By the time you finally get back to the job of feeding the baby he probably won't eat and his food is cold, and you get cross.

Lovely Star Block Has Special Type of Quilt Charm

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

St. Louis Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

There is undeniable charm in every star pattern in the quilt realm, but "St. Louis Star" is one of the outstanding blocks which require superlatives in exclamation of their beauty. Its background is placed in an unquestionably historic spot, but its designer and its age are obscure. It is one of the larger pieced blocks, measuring 15 inches square, and only 36 pieced blocks are required for a coverlet measuring 90 by 90 inches when completed.

Former Consuelo Vanderbilt Wed on Luxury Yacht

Miama, Fla., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Consuelo Vanderbilt's marriage to Henry Gassaway Davis III. was solemnized aboard the palatial yacht, Alva, belonging to the bride's father, Commodore William K. Vanderbilt, at 1:30 p. m. today.

The ring ceremony, performed by Judge W. Frank Blanton of the Dade County court, and witnessed only by a few members of each family, took place in the luxurious, high-ceilinged main salon of the Alva, which is docked at the Vanderbilt estate on Terminal Island, Miami Beach.

The room is paneled in French oak and the ceremony was performed before a white stone fireplace which was banked with quantities of white and yellow chrysanthemums and pink briarcliff roses. A handsome landscape in oils hangs above the fireplace. Another detail of the salon's contents is the pictorial log of the Alva's world cruise.

In addition to Commodore and Mrs. Vanderbilt, wedding guests included the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Armistead Davis of Washington, D. C., and Col. and Mme. Louis Jacques Balsan of Paris. Mme. Balsan, for whom the bride was named, is the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, sister of Commodore Vanderbilt.

Before the ceremony, the bride posed for photographers with other members of the wedding party in the beautiful gardens of the estate.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

While Mischa Elman fiddled over one radio channel on a Stradavarius that Napoleon gave to a girl friend, Lotte Lehmann and Bob Burns sang songs and talked quaint English on a second, and Guy Lombardo played "I Love You From Coast to Coast" on a third, still another outlet was occupied Thursday with America's Town Meeting of the Air, considering the question, "What Does America Want in Music?"

Dr. Frank Black, NBC musical chief, and Fred Waring upheld radio's treatment of music, and got a helping hand from I. A. Hirshman, a department store executive, who pleaded the case for chamber music. Olga Samaroff Stokowsky argued for greater public participation in music, and Albert Stoessel, conductor, clamored for opera in English. Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale refereed, making some pretty snappy retorts to questioners from the audience.

If the question of what the public wants was not completely answered Dr. Black at least made clear what it is getting through radio. Of all airfare about 65 per cent is music, he explained; 3 per cent is operatic music, 20 per cent classical, 25 per cent dance music, and the remainder divided between light opera, musical comedy, folk music, old favorites, and miscellaneous. Fan mail and listener surveys indicate that radio reflects rather accurately public demand and taste and that radio dishes up various types of music about the same proportion as the public gets it through the sum total of other mediums, Dr. Black said.

Dr. Black took a crack at musical snobs. These have no idea of what the public wants, he maintained.

$65

If the overcoat you're wearing has reached the point in its well worn career where its warmth doesn't make up for its aged appearance you probably are going to do something about it. And if like most of us, you have more good taste than money, we, knowing our imported coatings, urgently recommend that you drop in here and see these coats, whose fleece is notable even among the most exalted coatings. Woven of the finest Scotch wools obtainable, it has not only the insulative qualities to keep you warm, but a sturdiness that equals its supple luxury. Put into the hands of craftsmen with a flair for fine coat making, and you have coats like these that drape from the shoulders with custom-like fitness and whose good looks are irrefutable.

Neckties of All Silk Fabrics Rich in Color and Quality

$1

The continent hasn't, by any means, a corner on talented weavers of fine fabrics. Nothing we've seen for some time testifies to that more emphatically than the silk of which these ties are hand tailored. In richness of texture and distinctiveness of weave, they are the equal of imported silks that uphold the quality tradition of foreign looms. Another custom shop qualification of these ties is their all wool lining.

All-Silk Mogadors Ties also $1

Fur and Wool Lined Cape and Suede Capeskin Glove

$1.95 Pr.

Up to now you've had no use for gloves with the efficient warmth giving qualities these have. It's a safe bet, however, that you will before the winter is over, and you'd do well in this case to let price take precedent over temperature. At $1.95 a pair, these flawlessly tailored gloves are an outstandingly fine value, and not one that's easily duplicated.

Brushed Wool Sweater Jackets and the Sleeveless Slip-Overs That Are Worn with Them

Both for $6.95

Mixing style interest with gift ideas that settle quickly and successfully the gift problems of ladies subject to "list jitters" is another thing we get into about this time. A good example of this are these twin sweater sets, whose jackets embody the best of the advanced style ideas, until now confined to sport shirts as well as coats. There are two styles of jackets—the Gaucho collar as shown and V neck with sport back. In blue, grey, brown and plaids.

Higher Priced Shoes Reduced

To $4.95 Pair

Take time out from your Christmas shopping to buy yourself a pair of shoes—and save enough to buy a gift. Hundreds of pairs of higher priced shoes reduced. Styles for every occasion—for street, for afternoon, for evening. In the group, black and brown suede; black, brown and blue kid; black and white satin; silver and gold kid. Every size in the group, but not in every style.

Shoe Section, Third Floor.

$5

We bow to the berets—they keep their place on the smartest heads season after season—with distinctive new types ever appearing. This pancake style is sliced open on one side, and a quill is inserted in the opening. Of felt.

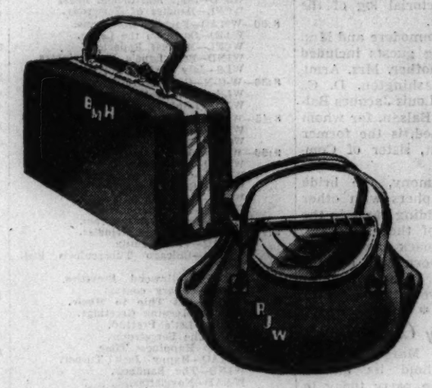

Millinery, Fifth Floor.

$2.50 Pair

Real kid gloves lend a hand to Christmas shoppers. They're from Europe, where the making of fine gloves is a tradition. They're of silky-soft kidskin, beautifully cut to fit beautifully. Plain and novelty styles in black, brown, gray, British tan, green, beige, and white.

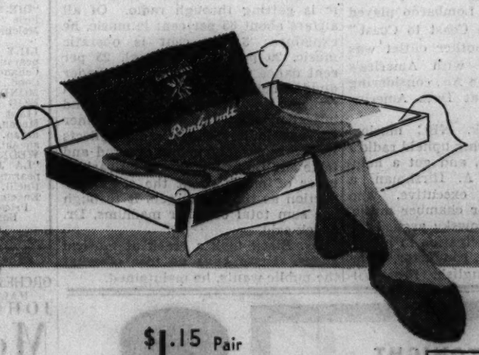

Gloves, First Floor.

$3

"Stand-up" bags—and we'll wager they'll stand up with any gift she receives. They're small enough to be dressy, yet large enough to carry all those things a girl likes to carry in her bag. They're copies of higher priced bags, and look higher priced. In the group, suede and rough leather. Initials extra, 3 for $1.

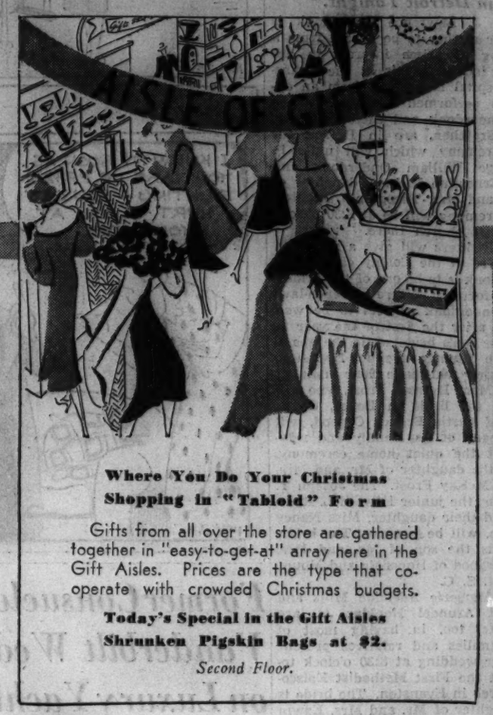

Handbags, First Floor.

$1.15 Pair

Pointed heel stockings and she'll know that you are up on your fashion. She'll adore the way they emphasize her lovely ankles. Three thread chiffons in a lovely high-twisted silk that will give a surprising amount of wear. They are sheer and clear and beautiful. Beautiful winter shades.

Hosiery, First Floor.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A crowd of 70,000, if the folks turn out as expected.

The place: Soldiers' field at 1:30 p. m. today.

The forecast is for warmer weather, a happy prospect in itself, and the weather man may be wrong about some blustery stuff he sees coming in with the warmer temperatures. Just the same, the prediction is 70,000 attendance and, whether that crowd shows up or not, the last checkup of receipts yesterday showed a total of $87,500 in the till. Nice weather at noon and a total of $100,000, with a probable 75,000 attendance, would not be a surprise, say the lads in the counting room.

Coaches in Blues Duet.

The coaches, Bill Heiland of Austin and Tony Lawless of Fenwick, were singing the blues just enough to hold their cards in the coaches' union. Privately, each indicated he was well satisfied with his team's prospects. Austin has been upset some by injuries and ineligibility in recent weeks, but has an edge of about 16 pounds a man on its adversary. Fenwick talks a lot about that weight difference, but in moments of relaxation admits that the team's best showings this year have been against Leo and several other teams that outweighed them just as much as Austin does.

Will Please Customers.

The game is sure to present prep football at its best, and of the type that pleases customers. Each team has a repertoire of intricate scrimmage and pass plays. While both casts carry youths who can run like everything, they do not follow the old type of high school play which called for more attempts to run the ends than any other maneuver. The lads assigned to run the teams know when to call for kicks and have fellows who can boot the ball far places.

The Fenwicks and Austins all know their blocking assignments and block hard. Fenwick is reputed to be a better blocking outfit than Austin, but Austin scoffs at the thought.

Fenwick Looks to Kruger.

Don Kruger, Fenwick's brilliant triple threat left half back is the young man whom Catholic league partisans are counting on to make the Austin youths sorry they are so heavy, especially when he elects to toss a pass to Frank Doody.

The playing of the game, which will be under the sponsorship of Chicago's own Christmas benefit committee, headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, immediately will release the proceeds for charitable expenditure. The committee has contracted for $200,000 worth of clothing for Chicago's underprivileged children and purchases will begin as soon as the game is staged.

Cards to Give Demonstration.

The game itself is expected to be a colorful spectacle, but augmenting its entertainment features will be an extensive supplemental program, including music and drills by Austin's girl band. Between halves the Chicago Cardinal squad, divided into two teams, will demonstrate various football maneuvers at normal speed and in slow motion. This clinic will be accompanied by explanations over the public address system.

THE GUMPS—SALESMANSHIP

WHEN WEST MEETS WEST

Go South, Young Man, for Best College Football Bid

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on the commercial aspects of college football, problems connected with proselyting and subsidizing, scholastic requirements in midwestern universities, and other angles of the game.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Where should you, a high school football player, go to college to receive the most financial help?

The answer is: Go south, young man, go south.

Unless you are an exceptional player, an outstanding star, or you have a personal "angel" who is willing to pay your expenses, the Western conference cannot help you in any other way than to try to find a job for you, and you'll have to work at it. Possibly your Big Ten university will be able to offer you a scholarship, or a loan, if you can qualify on the same basis as your fellow students.

Doesn't Say It with Cash.

Of course, there are and have been exceptions, but in the main the Big Ten plays fairly under its own code of rules.

The Big Ten doesn't say it with cash.

The Western conference still believes that an athlete, no matter how proficient he may be at running with a football, or blocking for the runner, has entered the university to obtain an education. In view of what the Southeastern conference proposes to do, this is archaic, as outmoded as the split skirt.

Certainly the Western conference recruits athletes. Coaches have followings in various sections of the country, sometimes because of previous employment, sometimes through their assistant coaches. Frequently influential alumni offer positions for summer employment for athletes. But the salaried player has no place in the conference.

Made Attractive Offer.

The Southeastern conference has voted for subsidization. Board, room, tuition, and incidental spending money will be paid—if, you are accepted. A Gary [Ind.] High school boy last summer wrote a letter to a mid-western university [which we saw] regretting he could not enroll as he had planned because of the splendid offer he had received from a Southeastern conference school.

Another Southeastern conference coach told us: "We play fair with our boys. Since the freshmen intercollegiate games [two are played each fall and it now is proposed to extend the schedule to four] count as a season's competition if the boy leaves our university and matriculates elsewhere. We complete our agreement to send him to school for four years if he plays in these freshmen games. Of course, you may be certain we don't use freshmen in these games unless we believe they will be good material for the varsity."

Cash Offered in East.

One of the leading eastern universities offers a cash payment which, however, so far as we know, never has exceeded $85 a month. Generally it is less. Freshmen are called to summer practice for tryouts. Other eastern universities with high entrance requirements pay for the high school athletes' preparatory years in private schools so they may matriculate at their universities.

It's only been seven years since several midwestern high school boys went west to play football. And came back shortly afterward. The coach lost his job.

Salaries of coaches generally are higher in the major universities outside of the Big Ten. Bonuses have

GRIMM DROPS IN ALL DRESSED UP; MINUS FIELDER

Still Looking for Man to Play Center.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. Charles Grimm, Cub manager, came in off the farm yesterday wearing among other items a deep blue shirt and a pair of shoes just off the store shelf. The appearance wasn't devised as a scheme to display sartorial splendor. It was merely part of a little act which the Cub chief hopes will reach its climax next week in the capture of a player deemed sufficiently skilled to play center field with the Wrigley field forces next season.

Grimm is stopping off here until Monday when, in the company of Vice President John Seys and Business Manager Charles [Boots] Weber, he'll start for Montreal where the minor leaguers are slated to hold their annual roundup. While there Grimm hopes to do business with one or another of certain National league managers who have been stalling him off for the last couple of months. And if he doesn't succeed in cornering them there he'll try it again the following week at New York, where all the big timers of baseball will be assembled.

Nothing New to Divulge.

"I can't tell you any more about trades than I told when I was here recently," said Grimm in reply to the question all big league managers grow weary of answering during the off season.

"I do know though, that the first thing I am going after is that center fielder. Bill Terry [manager of the champion Giants] has told us he'll be glad to talk shop about Hank Leiber. What he wants for the fellow I don't know, but I'll find out. I believe we can spare the man he is going to ask for."

Terry is reported to be mad at Leiber for one reason or another and Leiber is supposed to be peeved at his present boss because he was sort of sidetracked in favor of young Jim Ripple during the recent campaign.

"If Terry asks too much or doesn't want to deal," continued Grimm, "I will find Bill McKechnie [pilot of the Boston Bees] and try to get him to set a price on Wally Berger, his center fielder."

Sox Seek Higgins.

While at Montreal Grimm also will endeavor to parcel out for purposes of development some of the fifteen youths the Cubs gathered in from various minor league points late last summer. He considers only four or five of them sufficiently advanced at this time to warant a big league training trip. One or two of them might go to the Cubs' cousin team, the Los Angeles Angels. Oscar Reichow, business manager of the latter, was in conference with Grimm yesterday.

The White Sox will be represented at the Montreal convention by Owner J. Louis Comiskey, Secretary Joe Barry, and Manager Jim Dykes. Vice President Harry Grabiner will join them for the big meetings in New York. Dykes will be in the market at both places for a good outfielder and Pinky Higgins, the Athletics' third baseman. Dykes' original plan was to give Pitcher John Whitehead in a swap, but it is reported he has changed his mind. The Boston Red Sox also are seeking Higgins.

John Barry, Former Major League Player, Is Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27—(AP)—John C. Barry one-time major league baseball player, died today in a sanitarium after a three months' illness. A native of Newberg, N. Y., Barry, 58, was grauduated from Holy Cross and played with the Washington Senators, New York Giants and Philadelphia Nationals.

Army Battles Navy Today in 37th Game Before 102,000

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Army and Navy meet here for the thirty-seventh time tomorrow and the largest crowd ever to witness a football game east of Chicago will pay close to half a million dollars to see this gridiron spectacle. The kickoff at 1:30 p. m. will be preceded by parades of 1,600 West Point cadets and the Navy corps of 2,300 midshipmen.

The show this year has been transferred from Pennsylvania's Franklin field to Philadelphia's Municipal stadium at the south end of the city, scene of the first Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney fight in 1926. Although the huge enclosure will accommodate 102,000 spectators, 22,000 more than have ever seen a football game in the east, tickets are as scarce as ever.

Every seat has long since been sold and thousands of applications have had to be rejected. It is the same old Army-Navy success story, with jammed hotels, restaurants, theaters, night clubs, and railroads, taxicabs, and filling stations sharing in the million dollar overflow from prosperous purses.

Scalpers Are Squelched.

There is this one exception to the story, however. For the first time in memory scalpers appear to be licked on an Army-Navy game. The scandals arising in past years from the hawking of tickets for as high as $100 a pair appear to have been eliminated. Not a single scalping establishment was in evidence tonight along Broad street.

The explanation for this eradication of the scalping evil lies in the newly adopted policy of rejecting any ticket at the stadium gates which bears the government stamp required on all tickets sold at a price in excess of the face value. It is reported that Rear Admiral David F. Seller, superintendent of the United States Naval academy, nettled by the criticism arising annually from the scalping evil, is responsible for the new procedure.

The vanguard of the great army of fans started pouring into Philadelphia yesterday for the Penn-Cornell game and tonight the festooned streets were thronged with Army and Navy people.

Warmer Weather Forecast.

The usual galaxy of notables will be among the 102,000 expected to see the game, the largest crowd to watch Army play Navy since the game in 1926 before 110,000 at Soldiers' field in Chicago.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is cloudy and warmer, with little likelihood of rain. The temperature tonight is around freezing and is expected to drop to 24 by morning, with a rising setting in before noon.

The two teams went through their Silver Football.

As soon as nominations of their most valuable players for the season of 1936 are completed by players of Big Ten elevens, ballots will go to the 23 members of the board of award to pick their choice for recipient of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S thirteenth annual Silver Football. All ten candidates will receive the white gold footballs, watch fob size, given as tokens.

The contest this year promises to be the most wide open in a number of seasons, but, of course, the actual balloting will prove whether or not that advance estimate is true. Announcement of the winner will be made as soon as the result of the contest is assured.

Such announcement usually is made in time to be a Christmas present for the honored winner. Actual presentation, however, is reserved until early in January when the undergraduate body may share in the celebration. Athletic directors, in the past, have set the time between halves of a home basketball contest.

Army-Navy Notes.

Among the eleven cadets playing their last game for Army are Capt. Woody Stromberg of Chicago and Lake View H. S., and the great "Monk" Meyer, who prepped at Allentown, Pa.

Undergraduate bodies of both West Point and Annapolis will march over the field to take their places in the stands of Philadelphia's municipal stadium where more than 100,000 spectators are expected to assemble.

To a Soul.

Oh soul, despairing, everlasting—cease
To climb so high, to heights unknown to man.
We cannot hope to follow after you
On all your wildest flights, then back again—
You, changing, restless soul of our desire,
And yet the soul of man, the world entire.
But neither let us sink into the gloom
Of dark despair, forlorn of hope and love—
Your frailty scarce endures the death of these,
And yet your strength, derived from that above,
Is greater far than ours. Oh soul, remain
In this plain world of ours till life is through,
Enjoying placid peace and dull content—
You answer no, for this you cannot do!

HOPPE DEFEATS DENTON IN FIRST GAME OF TOURNEY

Three Cushion Champion Wins, 50-32.

Today's Schedule

1:30—Thurnblad vs. Hall.
3:00—Matsuyama vs. Layton.
8:00—Bozeman vs. Lookabaugh.
9:30—Cochran vs. Reiselt.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There are streaks of graying hair on the head of the one time boy wizard of the cue, Willie Hoppe, but when he made a difficult across the table shot in the Grand Ball room of the La Salle hotel shortly before 11 o'clock last night he appeared to be on his way to another world's billiard championship.

That across the table shot, one of the greatest puzzlers of the game in which the cue ball has to take orders direct from headquarters and travel across the table and back twice, sent him on to victory in the opening match of the world's three cushion tournament. His opponent was Tiff Denton of Kansas City.

Ends It in 45th Inning.

The final score was Hoppe 50, Denton 32. Hoppe's thrilling shot which brought him a noisy round of applause from 500 spectators came in the 45th inning.

He had been the complete master of Denton from the time he got a cluster of three points in the second inning until he finally finished Denton in the 45th round.

It was the way the crowd wanted it to go, for Hoppe ever will be the hero of billiard enthusiasts regardless of where they congregate. His play indicated definitly that he has mastered the difficult three cushion game and is as skilful at it as he was at balkline billiards when he was the boy wonder of the world.

Denton Puts Up Fight.

Hoppe is the defending champion in this tournament, which found him getting away to a flying start. About a year ago Welker Cochran of San Francisco won in the championship tournament play. Ninety days later Hoppe challenged Cochran.

The rules of billiards give the runner-up the right to challenge. In the match that followed Hoppe gave Cochran a sound beating.

Denton, who comes from Kansas City and is one of the old guard of three cushions, made last night's match just as tough as he possibly could for the master of the ivories. Denton played one safety shot after another in an effort to bewilder Hoppe. Usually Hoppe came out of those difficult spots with a remarkable shot which clicked a point.

When Denton made it too difficult for him Hoppe also resorted to a safety shot here and there. It was most evident, however, that he didn't care for that sort of a game. Hoppe prefers a wide open game. The wily Denton wouldn't give him that sort of a match.

Loser Has High Run.

The tournament opening brought most of the billiard notables of the country into the amphitheater. Hoppe was the topheavy favorite to beat Denton because the latter had finished far down in the standing a year ago. Denton played better billiards last night than he did in the last tournament. He rolled up the high run of eight in the 33d inning. Hoppe scored seven in the 23d inning.

Hoppe and Denton will rest today while the eight other challengers for the title go into action in afternoon and night games.

Score by innings:

HOPPE —	0	3	1	0	0	4	3	0	0	0	0 2

CHICAGO BOXER RETAINS TITLE IN SLOW MATCH

Officials' Verdict Is Unanimous.

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The welterweight crown rests as securely on Barney Ross' head tonight as it ever did. The black haired champion from Chicago risked his title in a 15 round bout with Izzy Jannazzo at Madison Square Garden, and experienced no trouble in protecting it from the bid made by the New York fighter.

Ross soundly trounced his eastern challenger to gain the unanimous decision of Referee McAvoy and Judges Lynch and Munro. Few of the ringside critics gave Jannazzo three rounds. Some of them credited Ross with winning every round, and yet when the decision was announced it was roundly greeted by a prolonged session of jeers, boos, and catcalls.

Fight a Dull One.

It would be impossible to explain this reaction of the crowd of 8,484 fans, were it not for the fact that the fight was a dull one, and the onlookers were forced to register disapproval out of sheer boredom.

Ross was the 9 to 1 betting favorite, and he justified the odds by the steady, workmanlike manner in which he handled his rival.

Jannazzo, tense almost to the point of rigidity as the bout started, relaxed as time wore on and earnestly tried to make a good showing against the champion, but Ross carried too many guns for him, forced the challenger to fight exactly as he wanted him to, and then proceeded to handle him as a master does a pupil.

Ross Sets the Pace.

All through the fight the pace was set by Ross, who had to lead to the New Yorker at every turn. Jannazzo realized that his best chance of winning lay in holding Barney off with his long right, and avoiding as much as possible Ross' crushing two fisted fire at close quarters.

But the challenger could find no way to keep the Chicago fighter away from him. Ross unhesitatingly took Jannazzo's sweeping lefts to the face and advanced continuously. Once inside, the champ would belabor Jannazzo about the head and body with both hands, and there was little the latter could do about it. He tried to fight back, but Ross outpunched him by a ratio of 4 to 1.

Jannazzo on Floor.

One round was the same as another as the title holder followed his set plan of battle and made Jannazzo play into his hands. The only semblance of a knockdown occurred in the second when Ross, catching his rival off balance, clipped him with a right to the jaw and sent him to the floor. Jannazzo rose without a count and gave as well as he took for the rest of the round.

The New Yorker, aside from his left jabs, rarely could hit Ross effectively and the greater part of his offensive armament was a long right hand to the kidneys.

Baby Casanova, Mexican lightweight, defeated Eddie Brink of Scranton in the eighth round semifinal. Casanova dropped the Pennsylvanian twice in the second round with rights to the jaw, for counts of nine. The weights were 130¼ for Casanova and 134¾ for Brink.

Grass Is Dyed Green for Army and Navy Game

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The frost has been on the pumpkin a long time hereabout, but the grass'll be a midsummer green for the Army-Navy game tomorrow.

Men from the department of public works sprayed every inch of the withered grass in Municipal stadium today with a special chemical dye that turned it bright and green once more. Martin J. McLaughlin, director, who ordered the dye, said it is a harmless coloring which will not cause infection in any players who may be cut and bruised.

Army and navy officials expressed hearty approval when they saw it.

BEARS BACK TO MEET CARDS; KEEP EYES ON DETROIT

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Silent and sober but with no alibi, the Bears took their heads out of their hands yesterday and hopefully entrusted their pennant chances to the unfriendly Detroit Lions.

Before Thursday's frustration at Detroit, the Bears were masters of their own destinies in the fight for the western division championship in the National league. Now what remains of their chances is entirely dependent upon the Lions' deportment against the Green Bay Packers tomorrow, while the Bears themselves are closing out their regular season against the energetic Cardinals at Wrigley field.

It All Depends On——

The Bears expect to beat the Cardinals, in which case a Lion victory over the Packers would leave Coach George Halas' squad in relatively the same advantageous position it occupied before it cracked up before Detroit's iron man line. Such a situation also would leave it up to the Cardinals next week to say whether Green Bay, which closes its season at Wrigley field, shall engage the Bears in a playoff or whether the championship comes to Chicago without overtime.

Under these circumstances, the Bears, for the first time in history, are giving the Lions, with whom they enjoy a mutual dislike, whole hearted support against Green Bay.

Bear chances of victory against the Cardinals depend to a great extent upon their ability to bounce back from a beating as severe as that the inspired Lions meted out Thursday. They came out of the game weary and bruised.

Karr Still Absent.

Bill Karr's absence at right end, indicated by his inability to play against Detroit Thursday, will further handicap the Bears recovery program. The Lions reversed and spun their way around the right side of the Chicago line for 215 of their 361 yards gained by rushing.

Karr's presence would have kept down this total. It is doubtful, however, whether it would have made any difference in the result. The Lions were on Thursday and the Bears were experiencing one of those periodical letdowns that plague all teams. The combination of the two was insurmountable.

Playing what the Green Bay Packers, who occupied grand stand seats, and the Lions themselves opine was its greatest game, Detroit at no time appeared in distress. It allowed the Bears only two advances and one of these extended 72 yards only because of a combination of fumbles by Presnell and Peterson on Molesworth's punt, which resulted in Hewitt's recovery on the Lions' 34 yard line. Molesworth had kicked from the Bears' 23 yard line on fourth down with 33 yards to go.

Spoil Scoring Chance.

A 24 yard pass, Doehring to Masterson, moved the Bears down to the eight yard line. Here a combination of Bear ineptness and Lion alertness ruined the Chicagoans' best scoring chance. Molesworth's first down pass to Masterson in the end zone went direct toward its mark, but even before Molesworth threw, three Lions had surrounded Masterson and were awaiting the ball. Then on fourth down, the last play of the half, Nagurski's short pass over the line intended for Hewitt, who appeared to be open in flat, sailed to the right into Frank Christensen's arms while Hewitt was looking for the ball on the left.

The other march had extended 51 yards to the Lions' 18 yard line when Joe Kopcha, one of the iron men and a former Bear, intercepted Masterson's pass on the 19 yard line.

Green Bay hopes to thwart the combined forces of Bears' good wishes and Detroit strength with its pass attack. It also expects the Lions to be a trifle slower and less energetic after Thursday's demonstration. Detroit suffered no serious injuries, but the sixteen men who saw service all come out full of bumps and bruises.

All Lions Ready.

All of the Lions will be able to play tomorrow, however. Several who opposed the Bears may not play long, but they are ready and eager to whip the Packers, as much as they prefer doing anything but a favor for the Bears.

Their eagerness is motivated by a desire to avenge a previous whipping by the Packers and a desperate effort to horn in on the championship by forcing a playoff. This again hinges on the Cardinals, who must beat the Bears and Green Bay to do the Lions any good even if Dutch Clark and the iron men go on to their sixth consecutive victory tomorrow and next Sunday.

IOWA TO "SELL" UNIVERSITY TO PREP STUDENTS

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 27.—(AP)—University of Iowa alumni intend to push a state-wide drive for a compact alumni organization to "sell" the State University of Iowa to high school students.

Plans already are under way to several Iowa cities to promote the organization whose objectives include the founding of a permanent employment bureau for students in Iowa City.

The movement follows closely the drive to band the university "I" men into a group to promote athletics at Iowa.

University lettermen have stated plans to entertain high school football stars at an Iowa night banquet in Des Moines late in December.

END FOOTBALL SEASON.

Go South for Best College Football Bid

been paid for successful seasons. The conference actually underpays its football coaches. Would you accept the responsibility and the criticism incidental to directing a football team for a salary of $6,000? That has been paid a Big Ten coach when he led his team to a championship.

Proposes Athletic Purity.

The Southern conference has proposed to return to athletic purity by eliminating any help not available to all other students, in the plan sponsored by Dr. Frank Graham of the University of North Carolina. It now seems that the Southeastern conference will make it possible for disgruntled members of the Southern conference to shift allegiance.

The Graham plan may be called drastic. It does not differ from the policies under which the Western conference always has operated.

Moreover, the Big Ten has two restrictions of which you may not know. A student who leaves one university with incompleted work for that year, must remain out of competition in all Big Ten schools for two years after his matriculation. And when the Big Ten hires a coach, his former players, if they matriculate at the university which has hired this coach, are ineligible. They never can play because it is presumed they followed their former coach and have been influenced or subsidized by him.

Strict Eligibility Rules.

If the Big Ten will adopt the rule which Notre Dame already has inserted in its code and bars an athlete from competition after his class has been graduated, no university or association of universities will have more strict eligibility rules.

Comment on recruiting and subsidization is occasioned by a score of the 1,000 institutions above high school rank which have football teams. And the charge of big business rests on the fact that only 50 or 60 of these 1,000 institutions make football pay.

The underpaid athlete has brought tears to the eyes of professional critics. He should have a share of the tremendous profits he helps create, they say. But in 90 per cent of the universities and colleges playing football, after the legitimate expenses are paid, there is nothing left to divide. In the comparatively few universities where football is more than self-sustaining, the profits go to help out other intercollegiate sports, for physical equipment, and for intramural sport.

Plan for Pro Football.

The educators, even in the Southeastern conference, presume that a boy attends college for the study which he thinks will be of most value to him in later life. But aside from the educational or the idealistic view points, the materialistis angle should keep universities from turning football into a professional game.

Professional football has a definite place in American football. Some colleges might compete. Many could not. Alumni interest and undergraduate interest, the spirit of loyalty which produces support for teams which actually are inferior and cannot arouse nonpartisan fans, precludes the change. For that matter, no board of regents could long justify maintenance of a troup of paid entertainers.

It also is significant that current criticism and complaints are not coming from the players.

What Official Says.

A prominent Western conference official has this to say:

"The Big Ten insists that an athlete is entitled to the same consideration at the hands of the scholarship committees, the board that administers the loan funds, and the employment bureau officials as non-athletes. If an athlete is helped by the loan fund committee, this is legitimate.

"Athletes often are given 'breaks' by local townspeople in employment. Athletes still have a difficult time when they play football two hours a day, carry their full scholastic load and earn their way as 75 per cent of Big Ten athletes do, at least in part. However, they are not the ones complaining. Rather it is the people who for the most part never went through the same experience."

What becomes of the football receipts in the Big Ten will be discussed tomorrow.

Indiana Receipts and Attendance at Home Games Low

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Despite an increase in the total attendance and receipts for all Indiana football games of the 1936 season, figures for the Hoosiers' three home contests showed a decrease from last year, it was disclosed today.

The total home attendance this season was 28,275, with gate receipts totaling $22,917. Last year's total attendance of 48,800 at home contests brought receipts of $45,500. The annual Purdue game, played in Bloomington last year and at La Fayette this season, accounted for much of the difference in attendance and receipts. Ohio State, rated as a possible national champion when it came here last season, also boosted the 1935 figures considerably. Although complete data on Indiana's away from home contests was not available, the total figures for the season are nearly certain to exceed those of 1935.

Official figures for the 1936 home games follow: Centre game [attendance], 10,393; [gate receipts], $3,842. Iowa game [attendance], 10,787; [receipts], $13,500. Syracuse game [attendance], 6,095; [receipts], $5,575.

Figures for the 1935 season follow: Centre game [attendance], 8,800; [receipts], $3,500; Ohio State [attendance], 16,000; [receipts], $15,000. Purdue game [attendance], 24,000; [receipts], $27,000.

1936 Football Season Nears Final Curtain

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Its major objectives mainly realized, the college football season steps a bit closer to the final fadeout tomorrow with a slender series of games topped by the thirty-seventh clash between Army and Navy.

With Washington's Huskies definitely selected to carry the far western banner in the Rose Bowl, interest will center tomorrow on Louisiana State's game with Tulane at Baton Rouge, Texas Christian's battle with Southern Methodist, and such other major engagements as those involving Stanford and Columbia, Nebraska and Oregon State, Boston college and Holy Cross, and Georgia and Georgia Tech.

L. S. U. Seeks Title.

Meanwhile Louisiana State, still hoping for an invitation to oppose Washington's Pacific coast champions in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena New Year's day, will try to clinch the Southeastern conference crown in its traditional meeting with Tulane. Held to an early season draw by Texas, Louisiana State is undefeated and untied within the conference and holds a slight edge over Alabama, undefeated but tied by Tennessee within the league.

Whatever the outcome of L. S. U.'s final test, however, the impression still is rather generally held that Alabama will get the Rose Bowl bid.

Texas Christian, now tied with Arkansas for the Southwest conference lead, can assure itself of no worse than a tie by beating Southern Methodist at Dallas. If Christian wins, Arkansas will have to beat Texas Dec. 5 to gain a share of the crown.

Favor Nebraska, Stanford.

The two big intersectional contests of the day find Nebraska and Stanford slight favorites. Nebraska, the Big Six champion, will need to watch its step, however, for Oregon State musters real scoring power. Stanford, too, will have no walkover, for Columbia's tricky attack conceivably might overbalance the invaders' big advantage in weight and power.

Otherwise Holy Cross is favored over Boston college in the other eastern fixture tomorrow and Georgia Tech probably is entitled to a slight edge over Georgia. Completing the major program will be the Southeastern conference engagement between Auburn and Florida and the Southwest conference duel between Rice and Baylor.

CAGE LEAGUE TO OPEN.

The Windy City Basketball league will open its schedule Tuesday night at St. Philip's gymnasium, Jackson and Kedzie avenues.

Snow Forces Notre Dame to Drill Indoors

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—His plans balked by a heavy snowfall which blanketed Cartier field, Elmer Layden was forced to take the Notre Dame football squad indoors for a lengthy workout this afternoon as preparations for the Southern California game in Los Angeles were resumed.

Their spirit revived by a three day layoff, the Ramblers are in fine shape for the final game of the season. Frank Kopczak, who injured his leg in the Navy game, is ready for action again, thus taking a big worry off Layden's shoulders.

With both Kopczak and Alex Shellogg on the sidelines with injuries, Layden was forced to use Art Cronin at right tackle for 50 minutes against Army and for 57 minutes against Northwestern. Now that Kopczak is ready to play, Layden will have at least two right tackles ready to throw against the Trojans.

Offensive maneuvers to be employed in Los Angeles were given a lengthy review by Layden this afternoon. Scouts who covered the U. C. L. A. game are expected back tomorrow with complete information on the latest Trojan maneuvers.

MAJ. GRIFFITH TO SPEAK AT BADGER BANQUET DEC. 10

Madison, Wis., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Big Ten, has accepted an invitation to speak at the testimonial banquet to be given Coach Harry Stuhldreher and the University of Wisconsin varsity and freshman football squads in the fieldhouse the night of Dec. 10, it was announced today.

Others who have accepted invitations to date are Coaches Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Clark Shaughnessey of Chicago, and Frank Murray of Marquette. All of the Western conference football coaches have been invited, according to Ed Schmitz, chairman of the program committee. Layden, who played with Stuhldreher in the Four Horsemen back field at Notre Dame, is listed among the speakers.

Preparations are being made for 1,000 guests, the largest football banquet in the history of the university, despite a season in which the Badgers won only two out of eight games. Duane Bowman of Madison is general chairman. Adjt. Gen. Ralph M. Immell will be toastmaster.

CHURCH LEAGUE BANQUETS.

The Church Athletic Association of Chicago will hold its annual baseball banquet Saturday evening, Dec. 5, at Austin Y. M. C. A., 501 North Central avenue.

PRAGERS TO ROLL ST. LOUIS TEAM SIX MORE GAMES

Prager Beers of the Classic Bowling league and the Budweisers of the St. Louis Classic league will roll the remaining six games of their intercity match tonight and tomorrow afternoon at the White City alleys, 6330 South parkway. Tonight's block begins at 8:30 and tomorrow's at 2 o'clock. The St. Louis team leads by 304 pins. The lineups:

Ask $175,000, 7 Pirates for Dizzy Dean

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said tonight it learned the St. Louis Cardinals are demanding $175,000 in cash and seven players from the Pittsburgh Pirates for Dizzy Dean, baseball's celebrated pitcher.

And, the newspaper asserted, Pie Traynor, Pirate manager, said:

"The door is still open. I consider the deal still on the fire."

The newspaper quoted Traynor as saying:

"Sam Breadon [owner of the Cards] told me when I first approached him in quest of Dean that he could get in cash between $400,000 and $500,000 for Dizzy. But he prefers playing material with which to replenish the Cards and his minor league farms. That is why his demands for so much playing material, major and minor, are so heavy."

The seven Pirate players listed in the deal were:

Also these Pirate minor leaguers: Bernie Cobb, outfielder and first baseman at Tulsa last season; Kenneth Heintzelman, southpaw pitcher with Jeannette [Pennsylvania association] last season, and Proctor Richmond, Hutchison, Kas. [Western association] shortstop.

The newspaper said Traynor asserted he and Pirate officials would discuss the deal further Monday in Pittsburgh, and that Traynor added:

"If we could talk the Cardinals out of the Vaughan angle we could swing the deal. The cash consideration is not the drawback."

Order Contracts for Title Battle Filed by Dec. 11

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The Madison Square Garden corporation and the Twentieth Century Sporting club, who are jointly to promote the heavyweight championship match between James J. Braddock and Max Schmeling on June 3, 1937, today were ordered by the state athletic commission to file contracts for the contest with the boxing board by Dec. 11. The challenger, Schmeling, is also required to be present on that date or be represented by an authorized agent.

Braddock was examined by three commission doctors today and pronounced fully recovered from the attack of arthritis which prevented his boxing Schmeling last September. What effect all this will have on the proposed Braddock-Louis bout next February in Atlantic City was still guesswork.

Mike Jacobs said the Braddock-Louis fight will be staged "provided the champion stands up." To which Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, had this to say: "If the money is there, $300,000, as guaranteed, Braddock, the champion, will be there."

INDIANA CROSS COUNTRY TEAM OFF FOR MEET

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Bidding for the National A. A. U. cross country championship, the Indiana university harrier team and Coach E. C. Hayes left this morning for Newark, N. J., where the national run will be held Sunday.

Leading the Indiana squad will be Don Lash, two-time winner of the individual National A. A. U. title and member of the United States Olympic track team.

HUSKIES NAMED AS ROSE BOWL FOOTBALL TEAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The University of Washington's Huskies were unanimously named to represent the Pacific Coast conference in the annual Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena on New Year's day. The announcement was made this afternoon by Prof. Hugh C. Willett, president of the conference.

Name Opponents in Two Weeks.

Washington, undefeated in conference competition, was assured of a place in the game when it overwhelmed Washington State, 40 to 0, yesterday. The Huskies suffered only one defeat, losing to Minnesota, 14 to 7, in the last quarter. It will be Washington's first appearance in the bowl since 1926, when it played Alabama and lost, 20 to 19.

The Huskies will name their opponents within the next two weeks. Among the teams considered to represent the east are Alabama and Louisiana State. Alabama, which defeated Stanford in the 1935 Rose Bowl contest, is unbeaten this season but was tied by Tennessee.

Has Impressive Record.

Louisiana State also is undefeated, but was tied by Texas. Louisiana will end its schedule against Tulane tomorrow. If L. S. U. wins from Tulane, it will capture the Southeastern conference championship.

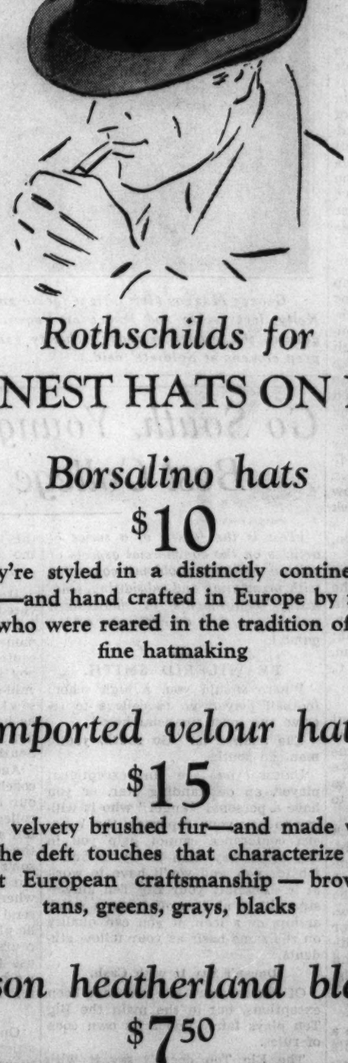

Washingtons' record for the 1936 season follows:

7	Minnesota 14	7	Oregon 0
22	Idaho 0	14	Stanford 14
14	UCLA 0	12	So. California . 0
19	Oregon State . 7	40	Wash. State .. 0
13	California 0

Manero and Horton Smith Shoot 70s.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Par figures staggered against the concerted attack of 214 golf campaigners today and when the field of battle was cleared Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., paced the touring professionals with a 69 in the first round af the 72 hole $5,000 Augusta open tournament.

Horton Smith Has 70.

Touring the same course with Picard, Tony Manero of Greensboro, N. C., national open champion, and Horton Smith of Chicago, twice winner of the Augusta national tournament, lopped a stroke from the par with cards of 70.

Jimmy Hines of Garden City, Long Island, and Al Watrous of Detroit gave par a lacing on the Country club course—a more difficult layout under present conditions. With cards of 71, one under par, they were deadlocked with five other shotmakers who equaled par 71 on the Forest Hills battleground.

Those five were Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.; Les Madison of Los Angeles, Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J.; John Bulla of Chicago, and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J.

Shute Takes a 72.

Densmore Shute of Boston, recent winner of the National P. G. A. championship at Pinehurst, N. C., was one over par on the Forest Hills course with a 72 and was grouped there with four others—Cliff Spencer of Baltimore, Md.; Clarence Doser of Rochester, N. Y.; Ed Burke of Newport, R. I., and Johnny Revolta of Chicago.

Thirty-six players scored 75 or under. Only four of the better known professionals were in danger of not qualifying tomorrow with the 60 low scorers who will make up the field for the final 36 holes on Sunday.

Abe Espinosa Makes a 73.

Those with 73s were Abe Espinosa of Chicago, Joe Brown, Des Moines, Ia.; Jim Turnesa, Providence, R. I.; Sam Sneed, Hot Springs, Va.; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.; Bill Hienlien, Indianapolis; Leo Walper, Washington; George Picard, Charleston, S. C.; Mortie Dutra, Detroit; Willie Klein, Williston, N. Y.; Herman Keiser, Springfield, Mo.; Willie Macfarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Hack Lowery, Birmingham, Ala.

Two major league baseball stars were among the competitors. Sammy Byrd of Birmingham, Ala., Cincinnati outfielder playing as a professional, was well up with a 74. Wesley Ferrell, star Boston Red Sox hurler, playing as an amateur from Guilford, N. C., had an 84.

In the field were three young brothers of well known professionals. Ed Burke of Newport, R. I., brother of Billy, stroked his way into the top flight with a 72. George Picard of Charleston, S. C., had a 73, but Ange Manero of Greensboro, N. C., brother of National Champion Tony, was far down the list with an 82.

Three Players Released by Cleveland Falcons

Cleveland, O., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Owner Al Sutphin of the Cleveland Falcon hocky team announced today the unconditional release of Ken Doraty, Alvin [Speedy] Groh and Lloyd Gross, all wings and all veterans. Sutphin said Maxie Bennett, right wing who played for the Montreal Canadiens last year, had been bought by the Falcons and would report soon.

Thirty-two C. Y. O. Fighters Start Training for Final Bouts

The thirty-two representatives of the Chicago archdiocese started training yesterday at C. Y. O. center for the sixteen amateur boxing championships to be awarded by the Catholic Youth organization at Chicago Stadium next Wednesday.

These lads, who won their spurs in the semi-finals Monday and Tuesday, were given a layoff Wednesday and Thursday, their first respite since the tournament opened a month ago with a starting field of approximately 2,000.

The rest period did the finalists a lot of good for they trained yesterday with vigor and vim that boded ill for rivals. Several knockdowns were registered during the sparring drills and on several occasions Coach Paddy Kane had to call a halt to prevent injuries which would force withdrawal from a chance at the coveted goal.

Spar Two Rounds Daily.

Starting this afternoon every member of the group will be required to spar two rounds daily until Tuesday when only light loosening up exercises will be on the program. On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the qualifiers will weigh in and undergo a physical examination. There is only a pound allowance over the division limit in every class except the heavyweight. Those exceeding the stipulation will be substituted by his victim in the semi-finals.

However, the coaches, who include Johnny Brown, member of the American Olympic Golden Gloves team, do not expect any of the boxers to experience difficulty making the required weight. Nearly all of the lads were within easy reach of the desired poundage after they had worked out.

Maksymiec Drops Hempstead.

Andy Scrivani, United States Olympic Golden Gloves lightweight champion, sparred three rounds with Joe Du Pont, featherweight representative from St. Margaret Mary parish. Du Pont is paired with Alex Maksymiec, St. Nicholas color bearer, at the Stadium.

Maksymiec then boxed two rounds with Ted Hempstead, Lady of Mount Carmel lightweight, and stirred the gathering by dropping his novice division partner with a well timed right to the jaw. Savior Canadeo and William Goldsmith, colored 135 pounder from Corpus Christi church, boxed. So did Florentino Arreguin, All Saints' middleweight, and Albert Urlich; Sammy Sferas, Presentation bantamweight, and Tony Motisi, St. Margaret Mary; Johnny Noto, flyweight standard bearer from Presentation, and his young brother, Al Noto, who also is representing Presentation at 112 pounds in the novice class.

Goldsmith, who was floored in the first round, clashes with Motisi next week, while Hempstead is paired with Jimmy O'Malley, St. Charles; Arreguin with Cornelius Young, St. Cecelia; Sferas with Frank Kainrath, St. Mary's, Riverdale; John Noto with Walter Cavlieri, Holy Rosary, and Al Noto with Philip Carey, Visitation.

Guests of Bishop Sheil.

Jake Lampkins, Holy Family welterweight, worked out in the morning and then went to the C. Y. O. colored gymnasium at 4918 Indiana avenue, where he is employed as an instructor. Harry Meyers, his rival from Presentation, did not report at the C. Y. O. until late in the afternoon. Neither did Cornelius Young and Joe Howe, both of whom are students at Loyola university, and Kainrath, who is employed by a lumber company in Riverdale. Howe fights Clarence Brown, hard hitting colored 195 pounder from Evanston, for the open class heavyweight crown.

After the workout the boxers assembled in the dining room, just below the gymnasium on the second floor, and were dinner guests of the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, head of the C. Y. O. The bishop made a short talk on the boys' welfare. He said Mayor Kelly will be in the assemblage at the Stadium, an assemblage which likely will exceed 20,000. It was reported that only 5,000 tickets remain unsold.—F. M.

Strickland, Winston Will Battle Dec. 9

Edward [Unknown] Winston, colored heavyweight boxer from Hartford, Conn., yesterday was signed to meet Maurice Strickland in one of four bouts at ten rounds at Chicago Stadium Dec. 9. Other matches previously announced involve Frankie Klick and Joey Connolly, lightweights, and Patrick Michael Barry and Buddy Baer, heavyweights. Eddie Pierce, middleweight champion of South Africa, will appear in the remaining contest at ten rounds, against an opponent to be announced Monday. Winston whipped Harry Thomas and his opponent from New Zealand defeated Max Marek in their Chicago debuts a few weeks ago.

Charley Belanger, Winnipeg, Man., heavyweight, will arrive today to to finish preparations for a ten round headliner with Harry Thomas at Marigold Gardens Monday. Ritchie Howell, Danville featherweight, likely will oppose Walter Matthys for four rounds in one of five supporting matches. Andy Scrivani clashes with Davey Ross at four rounds, and Gene Higgins hooks up with Tony Cianciola at five rounds. . . . Stanley Buresch will be the antagonist of Jose Manuel in the semi-final to the windup, involving Frankie Hart and Mike Kolonis, at White City Monday.

Joe Louis opened training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for a ten round heavyweight scrap with Johnny Risko at Cleveland Dec. 14. The former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, who will initiate boxing drills today, expects to leave for Cleveland next Wednesday. Harry Thomas will appear in the ten round semi-final against Jack Trammell, while Johnny Erjavec will clash with Tony Lamareto in an eight round preliminary. Erjavec and Thomas also are scheduled to head a program at Buffalo Dec. 7. . . . Joe Schweitzer, Milwaukee matchmaker, was in town yesterday seeking a match between Frankie Sagilio, Cicero welterweight, and Billy Miller, Milwaukee, for his card next Friday. He also is in quest of opponents for Oscar Rankin and Gorilla Jones. . . . Bill Daly of Paterson, N. J., manager of Maurice. Strickland, Patrick Michael Barry, Eddie Pierce, and Joe Connolly, has departed for home upon information that his 7 year old son is ill. F. M.

Ruth to Meet Albany Owner, but Spurns Job

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Babe Ruth said tonight officials of the Albany International league club will visit him tomorrow, but that at present he is not interested in the proposal that he manage their team next season.

"They told me they were coming down tomorrow morning," he said. "I don't know what they have in mind, but as matters stand now I won't take the managership of a minor league club."

Word that the Albany interests, headed by the club owner, Joe Cambria, wanted the Babe as manager went the rounds early this week, but at that time it was reported Mrs. Ruth would not want the Babe to pilot a minor league club. Ruth himself has said he is interested only in a major league berth.

FIND SPONGE IN FOURTH HORSE AT BOWIE TRACK

Guard Entries in Today's Final Handicap.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The disclosure that a horse had raced here with one nostril plugged with a sponge spurred Bowie's stewards today to stern measures to end vicious tampering with the racers.

The Maryland fall season has but one more day to go, but the officials wanted to make sure everything is above board, especially in tomorrow's closing day fixture, the Bryan and O'Hara Memorial handicap, in which Elwood Sachsenmaier's Roman Soldier, the best handicap horse now in training, is entered.

The stewards took two drastic steps to halt the tampering, attributed tentatively to a gambling ring working under the cover of darkness to control the running of key horses and clean up in betting.

Hold Trainers Responsible.

One preventative step was the examination of every horse running in a race to determine if it had been sponged. The other was a curt notice to all trainers that they would be held responsible for seeing that their charges entered the paddock in a fit condition to run.

Tonight B. F. Christmas, whose Dutch Uncle performed poorly in the last race of the day's program, called on Dr. W. P. Collins, Washington veterinarian, to probe for a sponge. Christmas said Dutch Uncle, a 23 to 1 shot, finished the race discharging from the nostril and bleeding slightly.

Dr. Collins said he could find no sponge or other impediment, but said that the horse, if sponged, might have ejected the sponge during the race.

The discovery of three spongings in less than a week already had prompted the stewards to post armed guards at the track and sound a warning to night prowlers in the vicinity of the stables.

So far as is known only one horse actually ran in a race with a sponge in his nose. That one was J. B. J. Townsend's Chatmoss, which, performing suspiciously, finished last in the Marboro Claiming stakes yesterday and was found today to have the obstruction in its nose.

Cases All Similar.

The sponge was similar to those discovered and removed during the week from the noses of Edward Bruner's Aneroid; Trubadora, two year old filly stablemate of Aneroid, and Eddie Kane's Moon Side.

Both Aneroid and Moon Side are likely starters tomorrow in the $5,000 added Bryan and O'Hara handicap, richest stake of the 15-day meeting. The former may attract considerable backing, while some fear the mile and three-sixteenths may be too much distance for him.

Despite the fact Roman Soldier will be asked to carry 128 pounds and give away nine pounds to Memory Book, second in the weight, the five year old black son of Cohort-Miamba doubtless will go to post favorite. Memory Book is the likely second choice, and Walter M. Jeffords' Jean Bart, erratic son of Man O'War, third.

Hawks Return Home for Rest; Eye Canadiens

The Blackhawks returned yesterday and as a result of the hard games in Boston and Detroit, Manager Clem Loughlin excused the team from practice. All players were in a happy frame of mind following the Chicago sextet's first victory of the National Hocky league season, a 2 to 0 decision over the champion Red Wings Thursday at Detroit.

While most of the players rested Trainer Froelich was busy trying to rub the soreness out of the limbs of four Hawks. Andy Blair and Alex Levinsky needed attention because of charley horses. Mush March was treated for a sore left leg, and the torn ligament in Art Wiebe's right hip required hot applications.

All four will undergo treatment again today while the rest of the team indulges in a two hour scrimmage in preparation for tomorrow night's contest at the Stadium with the Montreal Canadiens, who have Howie Morenz cavorting again between the famous Aurel Joliat and Johnny Gagnon.

Funeral Services Monday for Anton Stehno, Ex-Bowler

Funeral services will be held Monday at the Chicago Turner hall, 2345 South Kedzie avenue, for Anton Stehno, formerly a well known bowler and in recent years general manager of the Windy City Bowling association in Cicero. Mr. Stehno, who was 57 years old, died Thursday of a heart attack. About twenty years ago Mr. Stehno, with Anton Karlicek, formed what was rated as the best doubles bowling team in Chicago. The body will be at the undertaking parlor at 6239 West Cermak road, Berwyn, today and tomorrow.

Benefit Ball Game Nets $56,697 for City Firemen

A check for $56,697 was given to Nicholas D. Murray, secretary of the Firemen's Mutual Aid and Benefit association, yesterday by Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan. The money was the association's portion of the proceeds of a baseball game played at Wrigley field last September by teams of Chicago and New York City firemen.

Army Battles Navy Today in 37th of Series

final workouts today. Army practiced at the Green Hill Farms in the suburbs, while Lieut. Tom Hamilton brought the Navy squad into the city from the Valley Forge Military academy to reherse its plays in the Municipal stadium.

The two rivals were rated even favorites. Betting commissioners are quoting 6 to 5 and take your pick.

A year ago, Army administered the midshipmen a 28 to 6 defeat, the worst they have known in this series since 1903. It is pretty much the same Navy team that the cadets have to reckon with, bolstered all along the line by the added year of experience save at center, and it should be all the more dangerous because of its keen desire for vindication.

Injuries Add to Troubles.

Army, on the other hand, has suffered big losses, particularly in the back field, and injuries and sickness have added to the troubles of Coach Gar Davidson. Nevertheless, the Cadets are expected to rise to their usual heights against their traditional rival and play their best game of a disappointing season.

Monk Meyer, who caused the midshipmen so much anguish a year ago, is again leading the Army attack and this 146 pound son of an army colonel is the chief reason why Army is rated an even bet. His passing, kicking and running are the West Pointers' main offensive threat.

Mrs. Roosevelt Expected.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is expected to be among those present, as also are Admiral William H. Stanley, chief of naval operations; Admiral A. J. Hepburn, commander of the United States fleet, and Senator David I. Welsh of Massachusetts, chairman of the naval affairs committee. Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, who is recuperating from a lengthy illness, does not plan to attend, but Mrs. Swanson and several guests will occupy the secretary's box.

Army's distinguished followers will include Senator Morris Sheppard, chairman military affairs committee; Representative Tillman Parks, military committee of appropriation; Representative Lester Hill, chairman military affairs committee; Gen. Peyton C. March, retired, former chief of staf, and the following major generals: Oscar Westover, chief of air corps; Frederick W. Boschen, chief of finance; William Tschappat, chief of ordnance; James B. Allison, chief of signal corps, and John H. Hughes, assistant chief of staf.

Three Peoria Teams Bowl in Midwest Meet Tonight

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The first heavy shift of out-of-state bowlers will compete here tomorrow night in the twenty-ninth annual mid-west bowling tournament. Among the star combinations to shoot will be the Pabst Blue Ribbon team of Peoria, Ill., rated as one of the favorites for the crown. Two other teams from Peoria also will roll.

Hunters Rush to Get In Last Shooting Days

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago will see a big migration of duck hunters today. With only Sunday and Monday left to hunt waterfowl in the state of Illinois every day shooting place and every club in the Illinois river valley is getting ready to entertain a record breaking crowd of shotgun users all of whom want one final fling before the season ends, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

From reports that we have received there are such heavy reservations at all of the day shooting places that hunters who have made no preparations in advance may have difficulty in finding a blind. We also have had word from the Cairo district where the wild goose hunters congregate. The report was that the geese were decoying much better and a big crowd of hunters was expected over the week-end.

Being Shoved Around.

On our recent trip to Saidora we had an experience in a duck blind that was unlike anything we have seen in recent years. Accustomed as we are to seeing big flocks of birds in the marshes because we haven't forgotten the wonderful days in the years 1927 and 1928, the behavior of huge flocks of mallards and pintails on our recent trip nevertheless had us speechless.

On this particular morning a few days ago we moved into a blind with Buck Ansortz of Green Bay exactly at 7 o'clock. We could hear the Beardstown whistle giving us the time signal. From that time until 18 minutes after 7 we didn't fire a shot. It wasn't because of a shortage of birds. On the contrary, there were so many thousands milling around our head, and so many more thousands shoving them around that we didn't shoot.

Shooed Them Away.

We just stood in the blind enjoying this remarkable show and thrilling to a sight that will not soon be forgotten. At 7:18 the sky had cleared of big flocks. So we dropped a couple of drakes. These shots stirred up another big flock of birds that had slid into the willows and reeds around us. So we stood by watching mallards, waving a handkerchief at ducks, and trying to shoo them away for another 12 minutes.

The birds did not want to leave and it was difficult to scare away these countless thousands of ducks that wanted to come right into our decoys or drop into the marsh around us. We have to go back many years to remember a picture such as this early morning flight gave us on that bright November morning.

Musto, I. N. G. Champion, Knocks Out James Snell

Tony Musto, heavyweight champion of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, knocked out James Snell, Wilberforce university, Dayton, O., in the third round of a scheduled five round amateur bout at Madison Athletic club last night. Earl Gibson, Coulon gymnasium featherweight, whipped Ernie Ferrand in five rounds in the semi-final. Other results:

Robert Taylor beat Lloyd Nolan [3].
Jesse Robinson beat Ed Lander [3].
Clyde Davis knocked out Joe Conrad [1].
Clifton Foy stopped Clyde Sutton [2].
Pete Ferrand beat Dave Schimmel [3].

HORSE SHOW TO OPEN TONIGHT AT STOCKYARDS

The international horse show, which will be held in conjunction with the annual live stock exposition, will open tonight at the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets. While leading owners of the country will display their horses during the meeting only exhibitors residing in Chicago and suburbs will be eligible for this evening's competition.

Cowboy Stunts on Program.

One of the features on the program tonight will be a class for stockyards cowboys. Other features listed for the meeting include stunt riding, sheep dog herding demonstration, driving of six horse teams with each horse weighing a ton or more, and a polo contest between the 124th Field artillery gunners and the 122d Field artillery squad.

There will be events each night during the live stock exposition with matinees scheduled for Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, and the final day, Saturday.

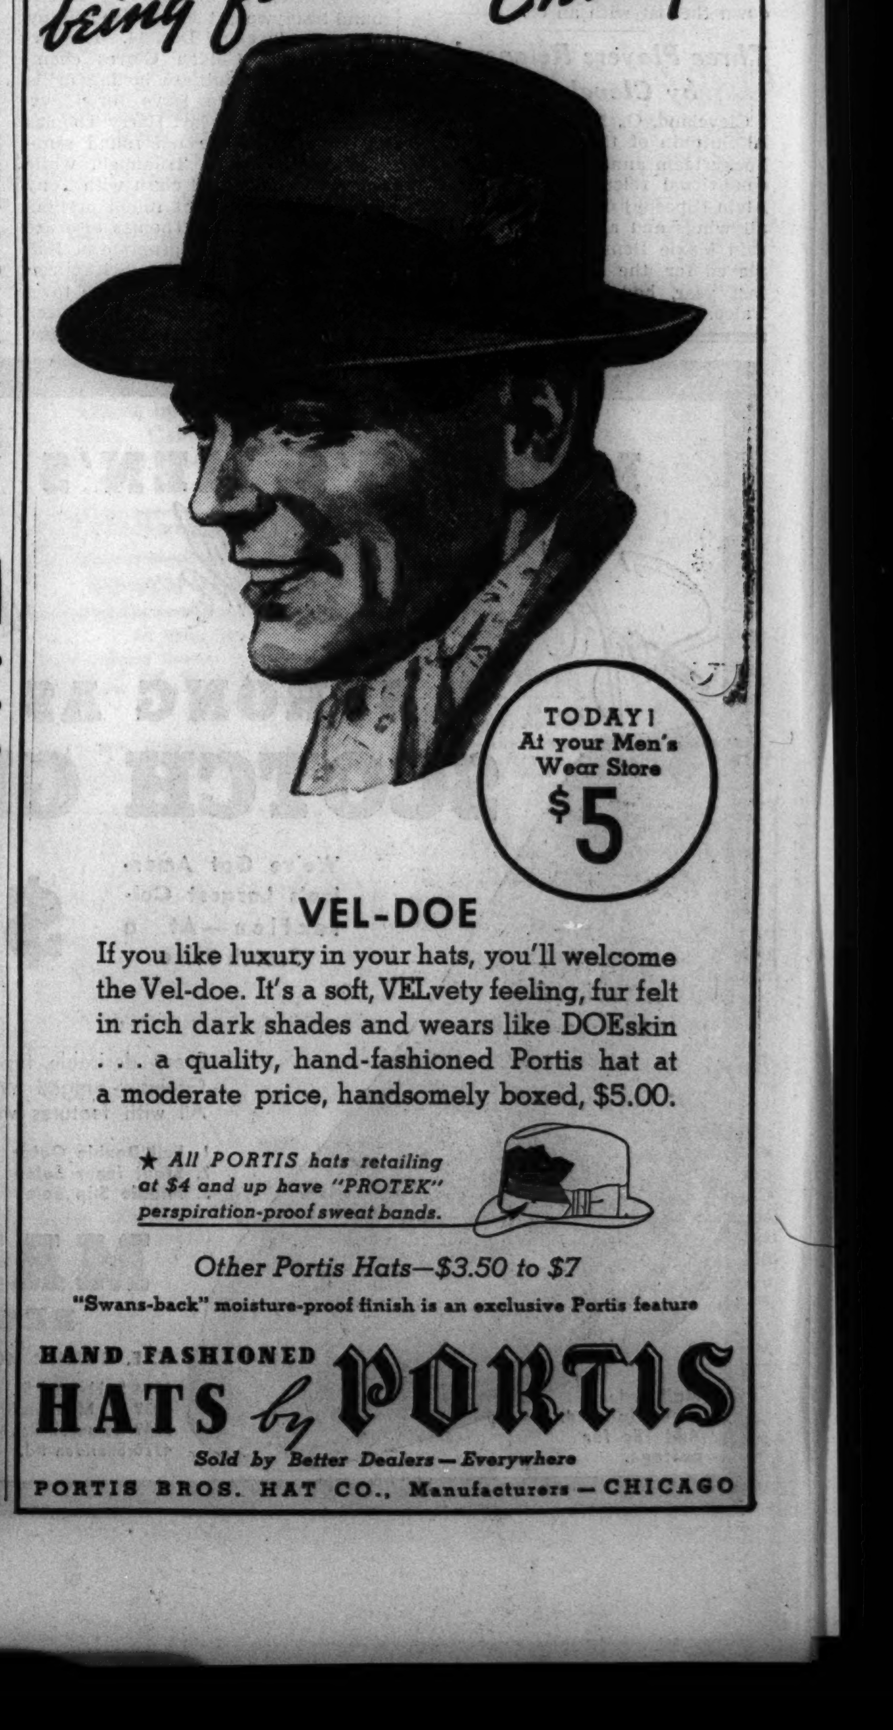

Local Owners Exhibit.

Among the Chicago district contenders in tonight's classes, who later will compete against the outstanding exhibitors of the United States are: Melvin N. Rothchild's Nan-Su farm, H. S. Silberman's Delaine farm, Happy Way farm, H. Leslie Atlass, Irving S. Florsheim's Red Top farm, Denison B. Hull, Miss Hope Landis, Stanley Luke, the Misses Betty, Frances, Josephine, Julia and Mary McGuire, Mills brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burke, W. P. Rogovsky, Miss Margaret Krull, C. G. Speidel, John H. Victor, Wallace S. Wakem, Col. E. N. Wentworth, and Mrs. Ethel Kendall Weil.

Red Burman Knocks Out Ketchell in First Round

A NORMAL LIFE IS PROMISED TO SURVIVING TWIN

Separation from Dead Brother a Success.

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Surgeons told Simplicio Godino, 28 year old surviving Siamese twin, that he had excellent chances of living as a healthy, normal man. The patient smiled broadly at the news delivered to him in York hospital.

Surgeon Is Identified.

Hospital authorities revealed today for the first time the identity of the surgeon who parted the healthy twin from the body of his brother immediately after death by cutting through a connection 25 inches in circumference.

He is Dr. Hippolyte Marcus Wertheim, assistant surgeon at the Bellevue hospital psychiatric department. He was aided by Dr. Leonard Winter, superintendent of York hospital, and Dr. Benjamin Febricant, who treated Lucio when he entered the hospital Nov. 7.

Operation Call Not Unique.

"The operation itself was not so unique," said Dr. Iago Galdston of the New York Academy of Medicine. "A great deal of the success lies in the patient and the situation, not in the operation itself."

Although surgeons did not have to contend with joint circulatory or nervous systems in the Godino case, they did perform a feat in plastic surgery in correcting an anatomical defect after parting Simplicio from the body of his dead brother.

PROF. C. J. WILSON DIES; NORTH PARK COLLEGE OFFICIAL

Prof. Charles J. Wilson, 66 years old, vice president of North Park college, 3225 Foster avenue, a member of the college staf for more than 41 years, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday from the North Park Covenant church, Christiana and Berwyn avenues, and burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Prof. Wilson was educated at Bethany college in Kansas and Stetson university in Florida. He took postgraduate work at the University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

He is survived by his widow, Jennie C. Wilson, a son, Stanley R. of New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Bernice Snetiage of Chicago. Prof. Wilson lived at 5061 North Bernard street.

SLAIN POLICEMAN BURIED WITHOUT RITES IN CHURCH

Policeman Martin J. Condon, who was shot to death in a love triangle Monday night, was buried yesterday in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Funeral services planned at St. Leo's Catholic church were disallowed because Condon was a divorced man, but simple services were held in the home of his former wife, Mrs. Gertrude Condon, at 8130 Princeton avenue.

Condon was killed in the hallway of his home at 5301 Kimbark avenue by Harry Obinger, 1547 East 67th street, who resented his attentions to his wife, Tillie. He is being held on a charge of murder. He was arraigned yesterday in Felony court, but the case was continued to Dec. 4 to allow action by a coroner's jury.

CHICAGO NUN FOR 50 YEARS DEAD OF PNEUMONIA

Sister Mary Cecilia McQuaid, a Catholic nun in Chicago for more than half a century, died of pneumonia in the Mercy hospital yesterday. She belonged to the Mercy order. Sister Mary was born and educated in Chicago and at the time of her death was attached to Mercy High school, 8130 Prairie avenue.

Previously, for more than three decades, she had taught music at St. James school, Wabash avenue and 29th street. She is survived by two sisters, also nuns, Sister Mary Cherubina and Sister Mary Benigna. Funeral services will be held in the Mercy High school chapel at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

James H. Meehan, Veteran of La Salle Street, Is Dead

James H. Meehan, for more than half a century secretary of Howard, Bartels & Co., publishers of the Daily Trade Bulletin, died on Thursday in his home at 1408 North Park avenue, after a long illness. He was 75 years old. Mr. Meehan was well known along La Salle street as a reporter for the Daily Trade Bulletin. His particular interest was the cash grain trade. He was a life long resident of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in the Immaculate Conception church, 1417 North Park avenue. Burial will be Calvary cemetery.

Boy, 9, Falls Into 6 Feet of Oats and Smothers

Edward Banker, 9 years old, smothered yesterday when he fell into an oat bin on the farm of his father, Charles, on the County Line road south of Naperville in Du Page county. The boy was at the top of the bin pushing oats down a chute into a wagon which his father was filling. Banker heard his son cry out as he fell. Neighbors were summoned, but the boy was dead when dug out of the 6 foot pile of oats.

AX SLAYER DIES ON GALLOWS.

PHYSICIST TELLS DESTRUCTION OF MATTER BY RAYS

The discovery of the "positron" by a process which destroys matter was described yesterday by Dr. Carl D. Anderson of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena as he rested between sessions of the American Physical society at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Anderson, now 31 years old, chanced upon the positron four years ago. He has stopped off in Chicago on his way to Stockholm, Sweden, when on Dec. 10 he is to receive formal recognition of his work by being awarded the Nobel prize in the physical sciences. He shares that honor this year with Dr. V. F. Hess of Innsbruck, Austria, pioneer student of cosmic rays.

Preliminary acclaim came to Dr. Anderson last night at a dinner of the society at International house on the University of Chicago campus. The dinner was attended by most of the 250 scientists who are reading and listening to papers during the Physical society's two day session. Among them was the University of Chicago's Nobel prize winner, Dr. Arthur H. Compton.

Working on Cosmic Ray.

"I was not looking for the positron when I found it," said Dr. Anderson over a cup of tea in Eckhart hall. "There were some mathematical indications of its existence, but I came upon it in the course of a systematic study of cosmic rays that I was carrying on at Pasadena under a Carnegie Foundation grant."

The positron, a positively charged twin of the negative electron, was discovered by the use of a "cloud chamber" in which incoming cosmic rays hit a thin sheet of lead, producing "bursts" as the rays hit the nucleus of the lead atom.

The path of the "bursts," photographed by the trail produced in the vapor of the chamber, showed that some trails were identical in all respects with those of the electron, but instead of being deflected like electrons by the magnet in which the chamber was placed, they were deflected in the opposite direction, leading to the conclusion that they were positively charged.

Rather Curtailed Existence.

"The life of a positron is only one billionth of a second under the best laboratory conditions," explained Dr. Anderson. "The matter is completely destroyed, but, of course, radiations remain.

"There is every reason to believe that positrons would exist indefinitly in free space, and that this earth does not have a very complete set of samples of all the things the universe is made of.

"We are interested in the cosmic ray as a tool. It is a means of disintegrating the atom and giving us a deeper insight into the fundamental structure of matter. While mechanical devices for disintregating the into the fundamental structure of atom produce charges as high as 5,000,000 volts, the charges of cosmic rays have billions of volts."

Dr. Compton Reassures Force.

Dr. Compton, in his report to the society, announced that cosmic ray energies as high as 15,000,000,000 volts have been measured. Most of his recent experimental work has been conducted on shipboard between Vancouver, B. C., and New Zealand and Austria.

Dr. K. K. Darrow of the American Telephone and Telegraph company spoke at the dinner last night.

Hold Rites for May Brown, Leader in South Side Clubs

Funeral services for Mrs. May Vreeland Brown, 65 years old, 7307 Princeton avenue, south side club woman who died in her home on Monday, were held yesterday in the chapel at 415 West 63d street. Mrs. Brown was past president of the Englewood Woman's club and of the Lake City Woman's club. She is survived by her husband, Freeman E. Brown, and two daughters, Helen E. Brown and Mrs. Louise Brown Loughlin.

Cameraman Chester Lyons Is Fatally Stricken on Set

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Chester Lyons, 51, veteran motion picture cameraman, suffered a fatal heart attack on the movie set where Betty Furness, Juliuse Tannen, and J. Edward Bromberg were shooting a scene in "Murder in Paradise Canyon" late this afternoon.

Mrs. J. L. Moss' Condition Serious After Operation

Mrs. Jesse L. Moss, 75 years old, 320 North Mayflower avenue, Lake Forest, wife of the secretary of the Newberry library, was reported in a serious condition at St. Luke's hospital yesterday after an operation on Thursday. She is under the care of Dr. H. E. Jones of the hospital staf.

Mrs. W. H. Parrish Is Dead; Cartoonist's Grandmother

Mount Pleasant, Tenn., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. W. H. Parrish, grandmother of Joe Parrish, CHICAGO TRIBUNE cartoonist, died here today. She was 83.

KENTUCKY CORONER FILES OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH OF BEAUTY

New Castle, Ky., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—A formal verdict finding that Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, socially prominent La Grange widow, died of a gunshot wound in the heart, but fixing no blame for the death, was filed in the Circuit court clerk's office here today by Coroner D. L. Ricketts.

Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, veteran soldier and politician, is being held in jail at Louisville awaiting action of the Henry county grand jury on a charge of murdering Mrs. Taylor, who was his fiancée.

The state charges the general shot the woman, who was twenty years his junior, when she sought to break their engagement. Her bullet-pierced body was found in a ditch near the entrance to Denhardt's big estate. The general's revolver lay beside the body. He contends she committed suicide.

CHICAGO WOMAN FACES PASSPORT FRAUD SENTENCE

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Tauchar, Chicago divorcée who once claimed a $1,500,000 fortune in Italy, will be taken into federal court Monday for sentencing on two counts—making false statements in applying for a passport and using the passport.

Assistant United States Attorney Francis E. Mahoney, who disclosed this today, said Mrs. Tauchar was arrested Oct. 8 when she returned from Europe. She pleaded guilty to the indictment, Mahoney said.

Mrs. Tauchar gained considerable publicity in 1932 when she announced she was heiress to the fortune of an Italian spaghetti maker. She was regally entertained here, and in turn entertained lavishly. But the fortune claim came to nothing.

In March, 1934, she was arrested in Chicago on a charge of making out a worthless check for $650 on the Bank of America, Los Angeles, Mahoney said. She was taken to Los Angeles, released in bail, and vanished, he added.

A few days later her clothes and a "suicide" note were found on a California beach, Mahoney said.

BARONESS TINTY HERE FOR BURIAL OF EX-HUSBAND

The Baroness Tinity, the former Catherine Jackson of New York, arrived in Chicago late yesterday to make final funeral arrangements for her husband, Baron Karl Ferdinand Tinty, who died Wednesday in the Alexian Brothers hospital. She registered at the Drake hotel. She and the baron separated soon after their marriage in 1931.

Baron Tinty spent the last year of his life here in a vain effort to enlist aid to establish an international seat of scientific culture at his ancestral estate at Schallaburg, Austria. He spent almost all his fortune in this undertaking. Just when and where the baron will be buried, the baroness was unable to say last night.

MINA RUDOLPH, ONCE A STAR, DIES IN LEAP

Police Lieutenant B. E. Magee reported the death a suicide, and said she tried twice previously to end her life.

He reported finding a letter addressed to Jefferson James Graves, who, he said he was informed, was the former husband of Mrs. Graves, He now resides in Ross Valley, near Fresno, Cal.

Police said friends identified Mrs. Graves as the star of "San Toy," a musical comedy that toured the country in 1904.

Grace McKinstry, Painter, Is Dead in Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Miss Grace E. McKinstry, internationally known painter, died late yesterday. Born in Fredonia, N. Y., she came to Minnesota with her parents when she was a child. Much of Miss McKinstry's early painting was done in Spain, and her work has been exhibited in Paris museums.

SEVEN BUSINESS LEADERS DEFEND GROSS' SOBRIETY

Deny Drinking Charge of His Wife.

Seven men active in Chicago business and social life testified before Judge John C. Lewe in the Superior court yesterday that Henry R. Gross, president of the Unity Manufacturing company, is not an habitual drinker as charged by his wife, Elina Orr Gross, former show girl.

Mrs. Gross is suing for divorce on that ground. Gross asks that the decree be awarded to him on his cross bill, which alleges desertion. Taking of testimony began on Nov. 4. It was interrupted four days later by negotiations toward a settlement, and was resumed on Nov. 16 when the settlement plans fell through. It is expected that the evidence will end today.

Schoolmate on Stand.

The first witness called yesterday was Hayes McFarland, 1245 Astor street, head of his own advertising agency at 333 North Michigan avenue. He testified under the questioning of Gross' attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., that he met Gross when they were students at the University of Chicago 25 years ago, that they served in the army together, and that he had never seen Gross intoxicated. He declared that Gross was always courteous and kind toward Mrs. Gross.

MacFarland was cross-examined by W. T. Alden, counsel for Mrs. Gross, who asked if McFarland had seen Gross frequently with a drink in his hand.

Gross' Banker Describes Client.

MacFarland was followed to the stand by Lawrence B. Robbins, a vice president of the Northern Trust company. He testified that his bank always investigated the personal habits of its big borrowers, and that on occasion Gross had borrowed as much as $50,000 from the bank with only his signature as security.

"I know that Mr. Gross is not an excessive drinker," Robbins said.

Attorney Walter B. Wolf, 209 Lake Shore drive, the third witness, testified that in the 15 years of his acquaintance with Gross he had never seen him drink to excess.

Attorney Alden remarked that Attorney Wolf had spoken to him about the present case, apparently to infer that Wolf and Gross had been attorney and client.

"I talked to you," the witness replied, "because I thought it absolutely unfit for you to bring this case to court."

Manufacturer Testifies.

Joseph C. Belden, president of the Belden Manufacturing company, and W. E. Stanley, a partner in the Mitchell-Hutchins company, investment bankers, testified that, throughout long business and social relationships with Gross they had never seen him intoxicated.

Gray Lindamood, 210 East Pearson street, vice president of the Unity Manufacturing company, and Dr. Oliver E. Van Alyea, 1512 North Dearborn street, were the final witnesses. The latter testified that he had been the Gross' physician since 1925 and had never seen him drink to excess.

Undertaker Is Ruled Out Within 100 Ft. of Saloon

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes held yesterday that the state law which prohibits a tavern within 100 feet of an undertaking establishment also applies in reverse. Therefore he recommended denial of the application of Albert J. Michalik for a license to operate as an undertaker at 1056 West Chicago avenue, which is within 100 feet of the tavern of Peter Sakas at 1064 Chicago avenue, despite the fact that Sakas approved the application.

Acetylene Torch Blast Burns 2 in Welding Shop

Two men were burned severely last evening when an acetylene torch exploded in a welding shop at the rear of 1351 West Madison street. The victims were Thomas Cummings, 62 years old, 662½ North Clark street, who was demonstrating the torch, and Thomas V. Welshirre, 35, of 114 Loomis street, owner of the shop. Both were taken to the county hospital. Firemen put out a blaze which followed the explosion.

WARBURTON'S GUN IS FOUND BROKEN; HIS DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

Doylestown, Pa., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The hand made shotgun with which Barclay H. Warburton Jr., accidentally killed himself was found today.

The $400 weapon, a double barreled 12 gauge gun made to Warburton's order at Liege, Belgium, was discovered by Walter A. Groman, superintendent at the National Farm school here.

It was lying in a tangle of weeds in a marshy section of the 300 acre Warburton farm, about 250 yards from the main house. Its stock was broken near the triggers. Both barrels were discharged.

The Montgomery county coroner, W. J. Rushong, promised a final decision on the case tomorrow. Rushong had said that, although convinced the death was accidental, he would not issue a death certificate until the gun was found.

MORTGAGE DUE, TRIES TO GET $50 FOR SON'S BODY

John Gierald and his wife, Marie, with their five children, the youngest 4 years old, live in a shabby frame four family flat building at 4514 South Hermitage avenue. They hold title to the property, but since Gierald has been unemployed they have fallen far behind in mortgage payments. Their tenants are unable to pay much rent. The family was on relief until it was discovered that the Gieralds are landlords.

Yesterday Mrs. Gierald went to the county morgue and pointed out the body of a man, 28 years old, which has lain there unclaimed since Nov. 19 when he died in the psychopathic hospital.

"That's my son, Kazimir," said Mrs. Gierald. "Could I sell the body to a school or hospital?"

"I've tried to raise burial money from my friends and from my church," said Mrs. Gierald, "but I haven't been able to get it. Neighbors told me sometimes bodies are purchased for $25 or $50."

W. L. Ephlin Dies; Former Commission Merchant

Wendelend L. Ephlin, 73 years old, former livestock commission merchant at the stockyards, died yesterday in his home at 4553 Lake Park avenue. Mr. Ephlin was born in La Porte, Ind., and came to Chicago in his youth. He left the commission business 15 years ago to become an employé of the Bell Zoller Coal company. Mr. Ephlin is survived by his widow, Abbie, and a daughter, Mrs. John L. Bennett. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 6237 Normal avenue. Burial will be in Oak Woods cemetery.

Publisher Leaves $50,000 Estate in Trust for Widow

Cloyd J. Head, president of Year Book Publishers, Inc., medical publishing concern, who died on Oct. 14 at the age of 77, left his $50,000 estate in trust to his widow, Elizabeth, of the Surf hotel. This was learned yesterday when his will was admitted to probate. After Mrs. Head's death the principal will go to a son, Cloyd S. Head of Coconut Grove, Fla., and a daughter, Mrs. Helen Simons, 425 Oakdale avenue, after $2,500 bequests to each of two grandchildren.

Dr. George B. Rogers Dies; Veteran of Academy Staf

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Dr. George Benjamin Rogers, director of students at Phillips Exeter academy, where he had been a member of the faculty for 42 years, died today at the school after a short illness. He was 68.

BREAK INTO HOME AND SAVE WOMAN FROM GAS FUMES

Policemen last evening broke into the apartment of Mrs. Agnes Brosseau, 28 years old, at 11548 Perry avenue, in time to save her from death by gas. In a bedroom several rooms away were her children, William, 9 years old, Gloria, 3, and Geraldine, 5 months. They were not endangered.

The police were called by Mrs. Palma Mancinella, who lives in the same building, and who had noticed the odor of gas. Mrs. Brosseau lay on the kitchen floor in a semi-conscious condition. She was revived by a fire department inhalator squad and allowed to remain home. Police said several gas range burners were open. She refused to tell why.

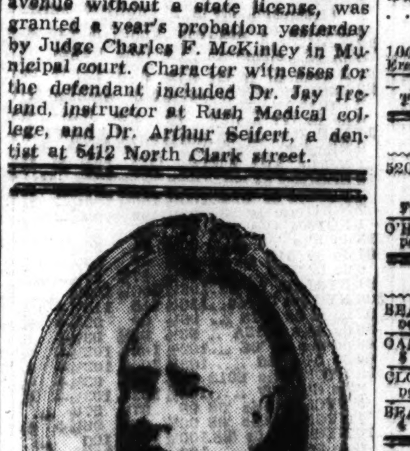

Armand Brosseau, her husband, who came home from work while she was being revived, said it was a mystery to him. However, he mentioned that his wife had been worrying over illness. Brosseau said he was a distant cousin of Mrs Cordelia Brosseau Black, who died in a suicide pact in her home at 1550 West 95th street six weeks ago. Her divorced husband, Corydon A. Black, is awaiting trial for her death, police saying he permitted her to die and then backed out of the pact.

MRS. MARY HORAN IS DEAD; MOTHER OF COURT BAILIF

Mrs. Mary Nash Horan, 75 years old, mother of Albert J. Horan, Municipal court bailif, died yesterday in the home of a daughter, Mrs. James Fitzmaurice, 5441 Wayne avenue, after a long illness. Mrs. Horan, who was born in County Limerick, Ireland, resided in Chicago for 50 years. Besides Mrs. Fitzmaurice and Bailif Horan, she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. E. J. Kelly, and two sons, John P. Horan, supervising police captain, and Harry Horan. The funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Monday from 3356 Flournoy street to Our Lady of Sorrows church. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

Amateur Dentist Is Let Off with Year's Probation

Frank Grzesick, 44 years old, convicted on Nov. 13 of practicing dentistry in his home at 1431 Balmoral avenue without a state license, was granted a year's probation yesterday by Judge Charles F. McKinley in Municipal court. Character witnesses for the defendant included Dr. Jay Ireland, instructor at Rush Medical college, and Dr. Arthur Seifert, a dentist at 5412 North Clark street.

THERE'S ONE IN EVERY FAMILY

HOFFMAN STILL DOUBTFUL OVER LINDBERGH CASE

Wishes Hauptmann Had Been Kept Alive.

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey still believes that Bruno Richard Hauptmann was not solely responsible for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. and that "as long as there are other people connected with the crime at large, our children are not safe."

He made this clear in an interview today—the first anniversary of the early weeks of the wild period of rumor and reprieve that preceded Hauptmann's execution.

Confers with Mrs. Hauptmann.

Gov. Hoffman revealed that he and Mrs. Anna Hauptmann have not wholly abandoned efforts to cast further doubt on the Hauptmann conviction. The governor admitted having held several conferences with Mrs. Hauptmann since her husband's electrocution.

"I still wish there had been some way to keep Hauptmann alive," he said. "I am by no means convinced that the crime has been completely solved.

Parkers Attack Indictment.

Meanwhile as another angle of the case the validity of an indictment accusing Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington county, N. J., detectives, and his son, Ellis H. Parker Jr., of conspiracy in connection with the Paul Wendel kidnaping case, was attacked be counsel for the two Parkers.

George S. Silzer, former governor of New Jersey, and James Mercer Davis, former Ocean county prosecutor, who appeared for the defendants, contended that the indictments were invalid because there were no colored persons on the federal grand jury which investigated the alleged abduction of Wendel; because the indictment was returned after the jury's regular term had ended; and because an unauthorized person [the court stentographer] was before the jury when it heard witnesses and voted the indictments.

REV. M'DEVITT, OAK PARK CHURCH FOUNDER, IS DEAD

The Rev. Thomas J. McDevitt, pastor of the Church of the Ascension in Oak Park, which he established in 1907, died of heart disease early yesterday in the church parish house. He was 67 years old.

Father McDevitt was born in Chicago. He attended St. Viator college and St. Mary's seminary in Baltimore, and was ordained to the priesthood on Dec. 21, 1894. Before he was assigned to found the Ascension parish he had served as assistant at St. Patrick's, St. Columbkille, Mount Carmel, and St. Brendan's churches.

New York, Nov. 27.—Trading in corporate bonds gained momentum today as convertibles and straight investment issues of second grade again came into favor at steadily rising prices. A long list of this type of bonds bettered their old highs.

An outstanding feature was the sensational rise in Baldwin Locomotive 6s on the curb exchange. Because of the indirect relation between these bonds and the proposed new common stock, through the medium of a new convertible stock, the old 6s are highly sensitive to any change in the market value of the new common.

Sugar Bonds Advance.

Other features included the sugar bonds, which, on account of improvement in the commodity, have been making new tops repeatedly for several weeks.

Standard Gas and Electric bonds reflected in their strength the gains that would accrue to this holding company from execution of the proposed refunding plan for Northern States Power. Reports today were to the effect that a registration statement, covering this plan to the extent of $100,000,000, soon would be filed.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were recorded in many of the favorite convertibles, including obligations of American Rolling Mills, Allis Chalmers, Studebaker, Gotham Hosiery, International Cement, Richfield, Warner Quinlan and Union Oil of California.

Other Issues Higher.

Non-convertible bonds in high favor at higher prices included New York Dock 4s and 5s, New York Railways 6s, Hudson Coal 5s, Consolidation Coal 5s, Botany Mills 6½s, Milwaukee 5s of 1957, American Writing Paper 6s, and Abitibi 6s.

High grade issues moved within a narrow range on a limited volume of trading. Treasury bonds were steady, influenced in no visible way by the government's announcement of an extra issue of $50,000,000 bills next week, probably the first of a long series.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Margin Buying.

Investors' Guide: I will appreciate your clearing up some matters. On Nov. 2 I purchase stock on margin. On Nov. 5 this company declares a dividend to stockholders as registered on Nov. 15. The broker does not deliver stock because purchased on margin, I presume. If this deal is all on paper until such time as I want to sell, how does the broker get these dividends payable Nov. 15? When I purchased on margin was the company notified and would my name be on the stock register? Please explain how this is handled.—W. K.

Answer: For all practical purposes you are the owner of the stock as soon as the deal is completed—probably one or two days after purchase—and are entitled to receive dividends payable to stockholders of record after that date. The stock is not in your name and your name does not appear on the books of the company, but the broker through whom you buy the stock holds it for you and you receive papers from him showing your interest in that stock. If the dividend you refer to is payable to stockholders of record Nov. 15 you are entitled to receive it. If it is payable Nov. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 4 or earlier you probably are not entitled to the dividend payment.

Central Republic Bank Stock.

Investors' Guide: Please advise on my position. I owned 20 shares of National Bank of the Republic when it merged with Dawes' Central Trust bank in 1931. As soon as I received my new shares I sold them in September, 1931. Under Judge Wilkerson's ruling on Central Republic Bank and Trust company stockholders' liability am I likely to be sued later on?—S. S.

Answer: Stockholders made party to the Reconstruction Finance corporation suit to collect double liability are those of record June 29 and Oct. 6, 1932. We are advised that there may be some liability alleged against stockholders of record July 25, 1931, but that this will be little if anything. Whether or not you may be sued on that account appears to be an open question.

General Asphalt-Barber.

Investors' Guide: We note that The Tribune has recently failed to list General Asphalt.—T. G. C.

Answer: On Oct. 26, 1936, stockholders of General Asphalt company voted to change the name of the corporation to Barber company. Dealings were suspended the following day in stock as General Asphalt and begun under the Barber name.

UTILITY REPORTED PLANNING LARGE NEW FINANCING

Several More Issues Are Filed with SEC.

Plans for issuance of $100,000,000 in bonds and preferred stock are actively under way by the Northern States Power company, it was reported today. A statement covering the securities is expected to be filed soon with the securities exchange commission, it was said, with the expectation that they will be publicly offered shortly after the start of the new year.

According to reports the financing will consist of $75,000,000 in bonds and $25,000,000 in stock. Proceeds from both issues are expected to be used for refunding purposes.

The Missouri Power and Light company yesterday filed with the SEC a statement covering $9,000,000 first mortgage 3¾ per cent bonds, due 1966, and 15,000 no par $6 cumulative preferred shares. Proceeds are to be used for refunding purposes.

Register Bonds, Stock Issue.

The Mengel company registered $2,500,000 first mortgage sinking fund bonds, $65,896 shares of 5 per cent convertible cumulative first preferred stock, $50 par value, and 496,532 shares of $1 par common stock.

The securities were registered in accordance with a plan for recapitalization of capital stock and refinancing outstanding first mortgage 7 per cent serial gold bonds. Principal underwriters will be the Metropolitan St. Louis company of St. Louis, Mo., and Janes C. Willson & Co., Louisville, Ky.

An issue of 750,000 shares of $10 par value capital stock was registered with the SEC by the Transwestern Oil company of Oklahoma City.

Argentina Calls Loan.

Argentina yesterday called for redemption out of cash resources $37,969,668 in 6 per cent bonds due 1959 held in this country. The move follows the recent sale in the American market of $23,500,000 in 4½ per cent Argentine bonds to refund a 6 per cent loan maturing in 1958. The operation is part of a general program of reduction in the cost of service on the dollar debt.

Mexico is seeking a $5,500,000 bank credit in the United States, secured by guaranty of taxes due from various oil companies in Mexico, it was learned yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS STEADY; TRADING VOLUME IS SMALL

Stocks were firm on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in light trading of 63,000 shares. Volume was well distributed among 129 issues, of which 64 closed higher, 30 lower, and 35 unchanged.

Features of the session were E. L. Bruce common and Ken-Rad Tube and Lamp class A, both of which hit 1936 peaks and closed more than a point higher in active trading. Bruce reached 22 and closed at 21⅝, up 1⅞, while Ken-Rad touched 24¾, where it closed, a gain of 1¾ points.

Six other peaks for the year were attained by Bastian-Blessing, Cherry Burrell, Independent Pneumatic Tool, Reliance Manufacturing, Sangamo Electric, and A. Stein.

HIGH MARK SET BY CONTINENTAL BANK NEW STOCK

Shares of the Continental Illinois National bank advanced 5 points over Wednesday's price in the unlisted market yesterday. The issue closed at 176 bid, 178 asked. First National bank stock rose 2 points to 286-290.

The current price for Continental stock is the highest quoted since the recapitalization effected in 1933. Directors are expected to vote the retirement of additional preferred stock at the regular December meeting or the January meeting.

It is expected the amount to be retired will be larger than the minimum called for under the bank's contract with the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

COTTON CLOSES 17 POINTS UP TO 11 POINTS LOWER

Cotton futures yesterday held within relatively narrow price limits, although a fairly large volume of business was transacted. Nearby futures were sustained by trade buying, but the distant months were lower on selling attributed to foreign account. Reports indicated the Russian crop would be 40 per cent in excess of last year.

Closing trades on cotton futures in Chicago were 17 points higher to 3 points lower. Other American markets were 5 points higher to 11 points lower. [A point equals 1-100 cent a pound or 5 cents a bale.]

Spot cotton closed unchanged, with New Orleans, 12.15 cents; New York, 12.25 cents; Galveston, 11.95 cents, and Houston at 12.05 cents a pound. Prices follow:

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

DIVIDEND FLOOD IS SWELLED BY MANY PAYMENTS

Extras, Arrearages, Resumptions Voted.

F. L. MAYTAG.

The vast sum of money being paid out to corporation stockholders in dividends was swelled further yesterday when directors of several concerns authorized extra payments and others voted to clear up preferred stock arrearages.

Extra, special and regular dividends declared yesterday amounted to approximately $14,000,000, it was estimated. This brought the total for this month to $781,500,000, which is a larger amount than for any full month on record. The previous peak month was December, 1930, when dividends totaled $567,000,000.

Corn Products Pays Extra.

The Corn Products Refining company announced an extra dividend of 75 cents, which means distribution of $1,897,000 to 14,000 stockholders. The dividend will be paid Dec. 31 to holders of record Dec. 7.

The Maytag company, Newton, Ia., washing machine manufacturers, headed by F. L. Maytag, announced a dividend of 50 cents per share, the first to be paid in six years. The dividend will be paid Dec. 21 to stockholders of record Dec. 5.

Directors of the Royal Typewriter company voted to discharge arrearages on the 7 per cent preferred stock in full through a distribution of $8.75 a share. The current quarterly payment of $1.75 was also authorized. Both payments will be made Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 8.

A dividend of 30 cents, the first paid since 1931, was voted by the Westmoreland Coal company. A special dividend of $1 was announced by the Eaton Manufacturing company.

Vulcan Detinning Pays Extra.

The Vulcan Detinning company ordered a $4 special dividend on the common stock. A regular payment of 30 cents and an extra of the same amount were authorized by Quarterly Income Shares, Inc.

The Pacific Finance corporation voted its regular 45 cent dividend and an extra of $1. Pacific Tin corporation authorized an extra of 25 cents.

Directors of the American News New York corporation voted an extra dividend of $4.25 and a bi-monthly payment of 25 cents. The payments bring the total for the year to $6.25 a share.

McQuay-Norris Manufacturing company voted an extra payment of 25 cents and a regular quarterly disbursement of 75 cents. The disbursement makes a total of $3.25 for 1936, compared with $3 in 1935.

Bourjois Resumes Payments.

Bourjois, Inc., voted to distribute a dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, marking the first disbursement since June 1, 1935.

An initial dividend of 25 cents and a special of 25 cents were ordered on the common stock of the National Container corporation.

A dividend of 15 cents was authorized by the directors of Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company, financing company. A special dividend of 26 cents was voted on the participating preferred stock. The common stock payment brings disbursements for the year to 30 cents a share.

Ewa Plantation, Hawaii, declared an extra dividend of 60 cents, amounting to $150,000, and payable to about 1,500 stockholders.

Directors of American Commercial Alcohol corporation voted to resume dividends on the common stock, the first to be paid in six and one-half years. A cash dividend of 50 cents will be paid, together with the payment of a dividend on preferred stock of the corporation's subsidiary, the American Distilling company. The holder of five shares of American Commercial Alcohol will receive two shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock, of $10 par value each, of American Distilling.

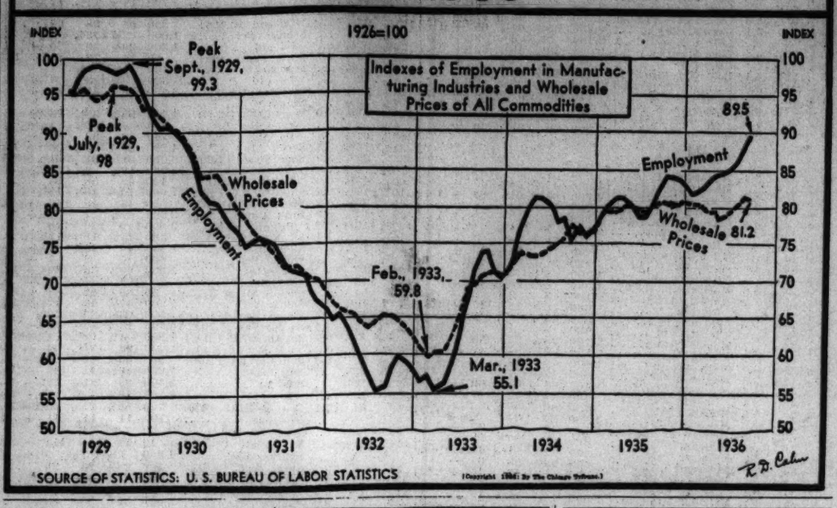

SEC Will Resume Study of Investment Trusts

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission announced today it would resume its study of investment trusts and investment companies next Monday. Hearings scheduled during the week concern the American International corporation, and Adams Express company, both of New York; Pacific Investors, Inc.; Pacific Southern Investors, Inc., and American Capital corporation, all of Los Angeles, and Investment Company of America of Detroit.

Finds Cotton Crop Grade Above Average This Year

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—This season's cotton crop was reported "longer in staple, on the average," than the 1935 crop by the bureau of agricultural economics today in a grade and staple survey of cotton ginned to Nov. 1. Ginnings amounted to 9,881,527 bales, or about 80 per cent of [illegible] 1936 crop.

Fluctuations in Employment and Wholesale Prices in the United States 1929-1936

Employes Get More Bonuses and Pay Boosts

Joining the list of companies that have shared profits with employés, the Electric Auto-Lite company of Toledo, O., yesterday announced that it will pay a bonus of $800,000 to its 15,399 employés before Christmas. The company has 23 plants in the United States and Canada.

The bonus is equivalent to one week's pay and is in addition to a week's vacation with pay. Bonuses will be paid on the basis of the employés' individual pay on Sept. 9 and will be paid to employés working Dec. 18. The vacation with pay becomes effective in 1937.

Magazine to Pay Bonus.

Condé Nast Press, magazine publishers, announced a Christmas bonus for employé with the company a year or more and a wage increase, effective Jan. 1, 1937. The announcement said 600 employés would benefit and that the wage boost and bonus would amount to about $75,000 for the 30-day period dating from Christmas.

Pennick & Ford announced a bonus of five per cent on wages and salaries will be paid to all employés, except executives, on the basis of the first eleven months' pay.

F. & R. Lazarus company on Dec. 12 will pay the first bonus in the company's history, amounting to $50,000 to 1,648 employés.

Textile Firm Raises Wages.

A 10 per cent wage increase for 1,400 employés of the Brookside Mills, manufacturers of textile goods, became effective last Monday, A. L. Emery, general agent of the mill, which is located at Knoxville, Tenn., announced yesterday. The increase will add $115,000 a year to the company's payroll.

The Goodyear Rubber company of Middletown, Conn., announced that wages of about 1,000 employés in its rubber footwear plant at Middletown will be raised on Nov. 30.

Hussman-Ligonier, Inc., manfacturers of commercial refrigerating equipment, announced a Christmas bonus of a week's wages and a 5 per cent pay increase for 300 employés. A 5 per cent wage increase had also been allowed in August.

St. Louis Store Pays Bonus.

Stix, Baer & Fuller, department store in St. Louis, authorized a bonus to 2,000 employés. Those in service a year or more will be paid $17.50 each and those working six months to a year will get $7.50.

A horizontal raise of 5 cents per hour to hourly employés of the Clark Equipment company was announced, effective Nov. 23. Announcement also was made of a salary raise, effective Nov. 1. The raises affect 2,500 employés.

The Waukesha Motor company announced distribution of $26,000 as a bonus among all employés. The announcement said there was a good prospect of repeating the bonus payment early next year. Each employé will get 5 per cent of total earnings for August, September, and October.

The Prest-O-Lite Battery company announced a bonus of more than $15,000 would be distributed to employés on Dec. 18. About 700 employés will receive one week's pay on that date. The company also will grant a week's vacation with pay to all employés in 1937. The company has been operating at peak capacity for several months.

HOLIDAY CAUSES DROP IN WEEK'S NEW CAR OUTPUT

Automobile production this week turned down after the sharp increase experienced during the preceding week, according to the estimates made yesterday by two automotive reporting agencies. The Thanksgiving holiday was an important factor in restricting operations.

Production this week was estimated at 104,283 vehicles by Cram's Reports, Inc. Assemblies in the preceding week as estimated by the same agency totaled 110,160, while in the corresponding week last year output aggregated 93,995 units.

Ward's automotive reports placed the week's output at 102,339 units, compared with 116,125 in the preceding week and 83,549 in the corresponding 1935 period. The agency said that virtually all cars produced during the remainder of 1936 will be needed to meet current retail demand.

SEARS, ROEBUCK PLAN TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK IS APPROVED

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Stockholders of Sears, Roebuck & Co. today authorized an increase in the authorized capital stock from 5,200,000 shares to 6,000,000 shares, at a special meeting held at the offices of the company here. At present 4,876,593 shares are outstanding.

The action was taken in pursuance of the recent recommendation of directors as part of the program for avoiding a heavy payment to the federal government under the undistributed earnings tax.

The additional stock will be offered to the shareholders on the basis of one share for each ten shares now held, at a price to be determined by the directors, but which will be not less than $60 a share. A total of 125,000 shares will be sold to employés. The stock closed yesterday at $98.87½ a share.

A statement issued by the company said the additional stock would "enable the company to proceed with plans for meeting its requirements for additional permanent capital within the limits of its existing simple capital structure, consisting solely of this one class of stock."

CHIEF FOREIGN MONEYS MAKE GAINS ON DOLLAR

Caution marked trading in the foreign exchange markets yesterday, but leading currencies advanced slightly against the dollar as developments abroad became more reassuring, especially the consent of the rebel forces in Spain to establishment of a neutral shipping zone, as requested by Great Britain.

French francs at New York rose 0.00⅛ of a cent against the dollar to close at 4.65 13-16 cents, and the pound sterling gained 1-16 of a cent to $4.89¾. Dutch guilders advanced 0.07 of a cent to 54.30 cents, while Swiss francs eased 0.00⅛ cent to 22.98½ cents.

Gold continued to flow moderately into this country as engagements of $2,386,000 in Canada, $2,811,999 in India, and $1,813,000 in England were made for shipment to New York.

STUDEBAKER CAR SALES FAR AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Sales of Studebaker automobiles were 105 per cent larger during the first twenty days of November than during the same period last year. Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, announced today.

There were 6,220 sales in that period this year, compared to 3,034 last year. For the year to date sales are 81,670, compared to 44,464 in the corresponding period last year.

Van Sweringen Property May Be Broken Up

Cleveland, O., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Reports that tentative feelers had been extended to George A. Tomlinson and George A. Ball by Cleveland buyers for their Mid-America corporation today colored speculation concerning the destiny of the Van Sweringen financial skyscraper.

GEORGE A. BALL. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The primary uncertainty in financial circles was whether Ball and Tomlinson would attempt to keep together the financial structure. No statement was forthcoming today from either man but reports spread through financial districts that both had agreed to divorce railroad assets from realty holdings and then place the whole structure on the market.

Expect Sale of Properties.

It was recalled that Ball stated that "at present" he saw no reason to separate the Van Sweringen holdings.

Mid-America corporation, of which Ball owns two-thirds and Tomlinson one-third, supplied the $3,121,000 to buy at auction the control of the Van Sweringen properties which a J. P. Morgan & Co. syndicate sold when a $48,000,000 loan was not repaid.

This top holding company of the complicated pyramid will hold sway over railroads worth $3,000,000,000, in addition to the coal mines and Cleveland real estate.

Face Congress Inquiry.

New ownership in the Van Sweringen railroads will face questioning from a special United States senate committee, it was indicated today, when Senator Burton K. Wheeler announced hearings into railroad financing and reorganization would start Dec. 5.

Reorganization proceedings in federal court already have been started for the Van Sweringen corporations, which control the Shaker Heights and Terminal group real estate.

American Air Lines Applies to Establish New Routes

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—American Airlines, Inc., asked the interstate commerce commission today for permission to establish schedules for transportation of passengers and express between Detroit, Fort Wayne, and Indianapolis, and between Detroit and Cincinnati. The company proposes to start with one round trip daily between the cities and to add more schedules as waranted.

Retail Sales Grow Rapidly as Christmas Buying Starts

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Retail distribution this week set a new high mark for the year as the Christmas shopping season was formally launched, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. Although holiday gift merchandise and Thanksgiving day specialties contributed heavily to the enlarged volume, bulk of the support continued to be provided by sales of apparel, house furnishings, and furniture.

Few cities failed to report an extension of consumer buying for the week, with average distribution running 5 to 12 per cent larger than for the period immediately preceding. In spite of the expanding trend at this time a year ago, the estimated volume of retail sales for the country as a whole ranged from 15 to 25 per cent in excess of that for the corresponding 1935 week.

East in Van of Upturn.

Well to the head of the list was the east, with a gain of 18 to 35 per cent over a year ago. Wage increases granted by more industries made buying freer in the middle west, where sales were 18 to 25 per cent over a year ago.

"Paralleling the rapid flow of merchandise into consumer channels," the mercantile agency said, "wholesale buying was unchecked. While the increase varied widely according to the type of merchandise, volume was estimated 22 to 25 per cent larger than for the comparative 1935 week.

"As wholesalers' inventories dwindled the necessity grew more urgent for raising estimates to manufacturers for early 1937 requirements. In more divisions shortages appeared and some branches withdrew lines because of inability to fill bookings already made.

Rural Buying Active.

"Orders from rural areas expanded to wide proportions but failed to keep pace with the surging volume from industrial centers where wages and employment increased.

"Led by the automobile, textile, furniture, radio, electrical appliance, hardware, and household products divisions, factory schedules averaged higher than for the week preceding. Developments in nearly all industrial branches were featured by rising employment totals, wage increases, and announcements of Christmas bonus distributions and plans for extensive plant enlargements early next year.

"Inability to meet shipping schedules became more pronounced, some chinaware manufacturers running one to three months behind in their deliveries, a situation that has not existed in the industry for more than a decade."

WHEAT SOARS TO BEST PRICE IN THREE YEARS

Increased European Buying Is Factor.

Wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade soared nearly two cents a bushel yesterday to the highest price since 1933. Reports that importing countries in Europe had purchased 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian cash wheat and a similar quantity of Argentine grain stimulated buying enthusiasm. In addition, reports of frost in the southern and western portions of the province of Buenos Aires, strength in Liverpool and continued dry weather in the American winter wheat belt prorvided a background for bullish operations.

Profit taking sales reduced the gains but closing prices were ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel higher, with July showing the most strength. May wheat closed at $1.16½. Winnipeg gained a cent or more and Liverpool rose as much as 3½ cents above Wednesday's closing level. Selling of futures at Winnipeg attributed to the Canadian Wheat board checked the upturn in that market.

Italy Buys More Wheat.

Continued heavy purchases of new crop Argentine and Australian wheats by Italy yesterday led some observers to believe that country had commenced to accumulate supplies because of the unfavorable political situation in Europe.

While the Italian wheat crop this year is estimated at 208,000,000 bushels, or 72,000,000 bushels less than normal domestic requirements, previous trade estimates had indicated purchases would be made of only 18,500,000 bushels of foreign wheat during the 1936-'37 season.

Yesterday Liverpool cables indicated Italy might buy double that amount. It is estimated Italy has purchased approximately 25,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada, Argentina, Australia and the Danubian basin so far this season.

Comparative Figures.

Closing prices of principal December deliveries on the Board of Trade yesterday, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Week ago	Month ago.
Wheat	$1.18½	$1.17¾	$1.17¼	$1.13⅝
Corn	1.04	1.05¼	1.06¼	.93⅝
Oats	.45¼	.45¼	.45¼	.40⅝
Rye	.95	.95	.95	.82¾

Liquidation of December corn contracts carried prices down more than a cent a bushel. It was reported moderate deliveries would be made of cash corn on December contracts as No. 3 yellow in the sample market sold at 2 to 3 cents a bushel under the December future and a full delivery basis. The deferred futures of corn received moderate commission house support and closed fractionally lower.

Little change was shown in the price of oats, rye, barley and soy bean futures. Commercial sales of 60,000 bushels of cash rye were reported.

FAIR STORE SALE ATTRACTS 500,000, SAYS D. F. KELLY

Crowds at The Fair store yesterday established a record for recent years, approximately 500,000 persons visiting the loop store in response to Economy day sales, D. F. Kelly, president, estimated last night. The Fair had 14 pages of advertisment in the Thanksgiving day edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"We thought it an immense crowd which attended our Economy day sales a year ago, following our use of a big section of the Thanksgiving day TRIBUNE, but today's crowd far exceeded that," Mr. Kelly said. "While more persons visited Colleen Moore's doll house last year, the crowd this year apparently was more interested in shopping, because so many more filled the store.

"It was interesting to note that the people in the store were cheerful and genial despite the inconveniences they encountered moving about on elevators and escalators taxed beyond their capacity. The sale will continue tomorrow because we couldn't begin to take care of all the interested shoppers in one day."

PAWN SOCIETY'S DIVIDEND FIXED; FACES LARGE TAX

In reporting net income of $166,844 for the year ended Sept. 30, John V. Farwell, president of the First State Pawners Society of Chicago, pointed out that the organization will have to pay the heavy federal taxes on undistributed earnings as the Illinois state law, under which it was chartered, prevents its raising the dividend rate.

Net income for the year was equivalent to 9.82 per cent on the outstanding capital stock and to 5.70 per cent on the average invested capital. This compared with net income of $131,099, or 7.71 per cent on the outstanding stock, in the preceding year.

Loans made during the year totaled $2,978,909, the largest since 1932, and compared with $2,832,940 in the preceding year. There were 71,712 loans made, the largest in the society's history, compared the previous high mark of 71,256 in 1935.

White Motor Given Truck Contract by War Bureau

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The war department today awarded a $215,419 contract to the White Motor company, Cleveland, O., for 150 motor trucks of 2½ ton capacity.

Great Northern Plans to Spend 30 Millions on Improvements

A program calling for expenditure of $30,000,000 for improvements and maintenance during 1937 was announced yesterday by W. P. Kenney, president of the Great Northern railway. This estimate is based on expectations of a continued increase in general business.

W. P. KENNEY. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The road plans to buy $6,500,000 of rolling stock and $1,750,000 of rail and fastenings, besides spending $12,000,000 on regular maintenance of equipment and $10,400,000 on maintenance of way. Included in the purchases will be 500 ore cars, 500 gondola cars, 1,000 box cars, and 12 passenger coaches.

Will Rebuild 11,000 Cars.

Because freight cars with archbar trucks will be refused in interchange trafic after Jan. 1, 1938, the Great Northern will equip 11,000 box cars with side frame trucks at a cost of $2,750,000, of which half will be in wages. Because of this undertaking the company will not be able to build any equipment in its shops next year.

Continuing the stream of rail equipment orders were contracts placed by three Van Sweringen lines for 58,000 tons of rails, and announcement of the Norfolk and Western that it is in the market for 1,000 hopper cars and 40,000 tons of 131 pound rails and necessary fastenings which are estimated to cost $8,000,000.

The Norfolk also disclosed that it proposes to build in its own shops eight high-speed freight locomotives, 500 gondola coal cars, and 500 hopper cars.

C. & O. Purchase Largest.

Largest of the orders of the Van Sweringen roads was that of the Chesapeake and Ohio for 37,471 tons of rails.

The Nickel Plate road ordered 13,536 tons of rails. The Pere Marquette placed orders for 7,400 tons for its lines in the United States. These three orders were divided among the Carnegie-Illinois, Inland, and Bethlehem Steel corporations.

The Pere Marquette also placed an order for 1,800 tons for its Canadian lines with the Algoma Steel corporation.

MONTGOMERY WARD REGISTERS 26 MILLION STOCK ISSUE WITH SEC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Montgomery Ward & Co. of Chicago today filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission for issuance of $26,086,000 of stock to replenish its treasury, depleted by the workings of the new federal tax on undistributed profits.

Directors of the big mail order house announced last Tuesday a decision to raise the quarterly dividend rate on the common stock from 20 to 50 cents a share and a special distribution of $2.90 a share. The action was taken to avoid the new penalty levy on earnings withheld, the company said.

There was no public offering in the stock issue announced by Montgomery Ward. The company will issue to its common stockholders of record Dec. 22, common stock purchase warants evidencing the right to subscribe on or before Jan. 29, 1937, for the common stock at $40 a share at one share of the new stock for each 7 shares held. The amount of the issue is 652,143 shares. Officers and other employés will absorb any stock not taken by shareholders.

Sewell L. Avery, president and general manager of the company, has been a stern critic of the new tax law as injurious to business.

ARMOUR STOCK PLAN WILL GET TEST IN COURT

A test suit to enjoin Armour & Co. directors from paying dividends on stock issued under the recapitalization plan voted July 6, 1934, until they have paid dividends due since 1931 on old preferred stock was filed yesterday in the Superior court.

Morris Rubinson, holder of five shares of the old preferred 7 per cent cumulative stock which was not deposited at the time the recapitalization scheme was adopted, brought the suit, seeking $34.25 in accumulated dividends on each share. His attorney, Paul W. Pretzel, refused to disclose Rubinson's address.

According to Attorney Pretzel, if the suit is upheld the company will be forced to pay $1,500,000 in unpaid dividends to the preferred stock holders who refused to surrender their old stock for new under the recapitalization.

On Aug. 17, 1934, dividends were declared on the new issues, but the arrearage on the old stock was not paid.

SPRING WHEAT AREA MAY FALL IN "DUST BOWL"

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The rapidly drying spring wheat region was said by the weather bureau today to be in grave danger of falling within the choking grasp of the great plains "dust bowl."

Only abundant rains next spring, said J. B. Kincer, crop expert, can keep the soil of 23,000,000 acres in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and Montana tied down with seedling grain. Since 1934 the "dust bowl" has been confined to a region of deficient rainfall in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles, northeast New Mexico, southeast Colorado, and southwest Kansas.

STOCKS SURGE AHEAD ON GOOD BUSINESS NEWS

Utilities Make Best Showing in Weeks.

New York, Nov. 27.—In a broad advance whose scope encompassed nearly all sections of the list stocks rose 1 to 4 points today as the financial fraternity came back from the holiday in a more cheerful frame of mind. Trading was orderly and moderately active throughout, with sales for the session amounting to approximately 2,274,000 shares.

Spectacular movements in a number of individual issues featured dealings. Substantial improvement in the utility division, which gave its best performance in weeks, did much, in the opinion of observers, to prod the bulls into action. Closing prices were just a shade beneath their best levels of the day.

Trade News Is Cheerful.

Bonus payments, extra dividend declarations, improved trade reports and business indices all received credit for contributing to the advance, while traders appeared to be less nervous over the threatening situation in Europe and the recent proposals for trading regulation. In addition, the list seemed to students of the market to be in a soldout condition, with many interests who had been hugging the side lines again participating actively.

American Telephone turned in a noteworthy performance, spurting 4 points to a new peak and finishing with an advantage in excess of 3 points. Consolidated Edison was bid up 1⅝, Stone & Webster rose 2⅛, North American climbed 1¾, and substantial advances were recorded by American Foreign Power issues, Electric Power, Standard Gas, American Water Works, and Laclede Gas.

Rail Equipments Climb.

Another section of the list that disclosed power was the rail equipments, with emphasis being placed on the locomotive shares. In response to recent large orders, Lima staged a run-up of 6 points to a new high. Baldwin preferred steamed ahead for 6¾, and American Locomotive picked up 2⅜. Gains of more than 2 points were posted by General Railway Signal, Pullman, and American Car and Foundry.

Carrier shares were strong coincident with the release of higher car loading figures for last week. Gains of at least a point were registered by Illinois Central, New York Central, Great Northern, Atchison, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, and Delaware and Hudson.

Oils hardened, with the exception of Standard of New Jersey; silver mining shares and coppers perked up, aviations gained altitude, and foods climbed. Motor shares pushed ahead, with Chrysler leading.

Practically all of the shares making up the steel group succeeded in finding higher levels, with the marshals of the division, Bethlehem and U. S. Steel, both bettering their standing by nearly 3 points.

Net Operating Profit of Rails Gains Sharply

Headed by the Union Pacific, North Western, Milwaukee, and Northern Pacific, and Pennsylvania railroads, several more large railroads yesterday added to the growing list of improved railroad earnings. However, there were a few exceptions—the Great Northern showed sharply lower earnings, and the Rock Island's October net operating income declined.

The Pennsylvania railroad reported net operating income of $9,276,073 for October, against $7,790,625 in the same month last year, and $6,815,037 in October, 1934. Gross revenues totaled $42,559,658 against $34,570,625.

For the first ten months of this year net operating income was $68,374,669, compared with $57,644,031 in the same 1935 period, and $53,730,439 in 1934. Gross revenues amounted to $362,579,512, against $304,169,705.

Baltimore and Ohio Gains.

October net operating income of the Baltimore & Ohio was $3,456,674, compared with $3,076,577 in the same month of 1935, an increase of $380,097. Operating revenues for the month gained $2,013,779 to $15,893,214. For the first ten months of this year operating net totaled $24,603,252 against $20,329,660 in the corresponding months last year.

The Chicago & North Western reported net operating income for October of $1,885,325, against $1,059,226 in October last year. Gross revenues amounted to $9,140,102, against $7,776,505. Net operating income for the 10 month period totaled $3,293,475, compared with $2,191,547 in the corresponding period last year.

The Milwaukee road announced net operating income for October of $1,849,172, compared with $1,634,230 in the same month of 1935. Gross operating revenues totaled $10,458,585, against $9,849,300. For the first ten months of this year net operating income totaled $6,803,182, compared with $2,376,175 in the corresponding period last year.

The Northern Pacific reported October operating net of $2,086,728, compared with $1,951,367 in October, 1935. Gross revenues were $6,719,439, compared with $6,392,803. For the ten months ended Oct. 31 net operating income amounted to $7,789,454 against $5,136,569.

Net operating income of the Rock Island declined from $556,513 in October last year to $477,395 in October, attributable to increased maintenance of $393,000 for improvements to roadway and equipment, plus an accrual to $159,000 for federal taxes, according to the railroad. However, gross operating revenues for October of $6,973,542 were the greatest for that month since 1931.

Northern Pacific Figures.

The Great Northern reported net operating income for October of $1,203,372, against $5,184,395 for the same month a year ago. Gross revenues were $10,526,828, against $11,090,055. For the first ten months of this year net operating income amounted to $20,447,594, against $20,150,836 for the corresponding period last year.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford railway reported for October net operating incon.e of $1,271,689, the best total since 1931, compared with $830,590 a year ago.

LIBBEY GLASS GETS BIG ORDER FROM CHRYSLER

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A. S. Middleton, manager of the Ottawa plant of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, announced today the company has obtained an order from the Chrysler corporation for 5,000,000 square feet of safety glass to be made in 30 weeks at the Ottawa plant.

Middleton declined to divulge the cost. It was estimated at several million dollars.

Construction of a plant addition in the spring which will make the Ottawa plant "self contained" also was announced by Middleton. While he would not reveal the cost, it was estimated at $1,000,000. The project will provide employment for about 400 men from the beginning to the completion late next year, it was estimated. The plant now employs 1,338 men but employment will be increased, he said.

Record for Air Express Reported by Rail Agency

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The Railway Express Agency reported today that it established a record for aerial express shipments in October, when 51,582 packages, weighing more than 222 tons, were collected, flown, and delivered.

UPTURN SHOWN IN DRUG STORE CHAIN PROFITS

Economical-Cunningham Sales Also Increase.

Economical-Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., whose stock is listed on the Chicago Stock exchange, yesterday reported sharply higher earnings for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, net profit amounting to $568,573, compared with $421,933 in the preceding year.

These earnings were equivalent to $2.85 a share on the common stock after dividend requirements on the preferred stocks, against $2.05 a common share last year. Net sales for the year amounted to $7,958,203, an increase of approximately $1,070,000.

Nate S. Shapero, president, reported that since Sept. 30, 1935, new stores were opened in Bay City, Monroe, and Port Huron, Mich., bringing the total in operation to eighty.

Current Assets Increase.

Current assets on Sept. 30 amounted to $2,024,821, including cash of $648,465, against current liabilities of $758,282. A year earlier current assets amounted to $1,672,525, cash $453,954 and current liabilities $595,286.

Notice was sent to the stockholders yesterday that at the annual meeting in Detroit on Dec. 7 they will be asked to increase the number of directors from seven to nine, change the value of the common stock from no par to $2.50, change the name of the company to Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., and reduce the amount of authorized 6 per cent class A prior preference and 6 per cent class B preferred by the number of shares redeemed or purchased prior to the date of the meeting.

Pneumatic Tool Earns More.

The Chicago Pneumatic Tool company, with headquarters in New York and plants at Detroit; Cleveland; Franklin, Pa., and Montreal, Canada, as well as in Europe, reported net profit of $307,195 for the September quarter, the best for the third quarter since 1929 and equal after quarterly dividend requirements on the preference stock, in arrears, to 74 cents a share on the common stock. This compared with $290,405, or 66 cents a share on the common, in the preceding quarter, and $201,476, or 22 cents a share, in the September quarter of last year.

In the first nine months of this year net profit of $789,027, or $1.57 a share on the common, compared with $552,591, or 40 cents a common share, in the like months of last year.

RAIL FINANCING PROBE BY SENATE TO START DEC. 7

Leading Roads and Banks Under Scrutiny.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Public testimony by the country's leading railroad men and private bankers as to railroad financing, reorganizations, and the relation of eighteen large roads with leading private banks, was presaged today in an announcement by Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] that his subcommittee of the interstate commerce committee, which has investigated these matters for a year and a half, will start hearings Dec. 7.

The banking practices in connection with railroads of such houses as J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., J. and W. Seligman & Co., Hayden, Stone & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co. will be under inquiry.

Allegheny Corp. First on List.

At the opening hearings the committee will hear evidence and testimony of the affairs of the Allegheny corporation, a controling company for the Missouri Pacific, which is now in reorganization. This company, committee attendants said, is controled by Morgan through pledging of its securities against loans made by the banking house to other interests of the late O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen. O. P. Van Sweringen, whose testimony as to his railroad holdings and activities was expected to be a feature of the inquiry, died last Tuesday.

A long and complicated inquiry with revelation of features of railroad financing never before published is expected by most of those who have been following the committee's work. The resolution authorizing the investigation was passed May 20, 1935, and the committee investigators have been at work since then.

Roads Selected by Eastman.

The roads covered by the committee's program were selected by Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the interstate commerce commission, when he was federal coördinator of transportation. They are as follows:

Chesapeake and Ohio; Erie; New York, Chicago and St. Louis; Pere Marquette; Chicago and Eastern Illinois; Pennsylvania; Wabash; Delaware and Hudson; St. Louis-San Francisco; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Missouri Pacific; Chicago and North Western; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Kansas City Southern; Illinois Central; Central of Georgia, and Florida East Coast.

CAR LOADINGS RISE LAST WEEK; GAIN ABNORMAL

Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended Nov. 28 totaled 789,500 cars, another contra-seasonal increase over the preceding week, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

This was an increase of 4,828 cars, or 0.6 per cent, compared with the preceding week; an increase of 141,576, or 21.9 per cent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 227,558 or 40.5 per cent, compared with two weeks ago.

All freight classifications showed increases over the preceding week except live stock, which declined 3,272 cars, and ore products, which fell 8,350 cars.

EGGS REACH NEW HIGHS ON AGGRESSIVE BUYING

Aggressive buying of egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday carried the nearby deliveries into new high ground for the season. An advance of ½ cent a dozen in refrigerator eggs, a better consumptive demand, heavy withdrawals from cold storage, and cold weather in leading producing sections of the country combined to increase bullish enthusiasm. November eggs sold at 30 cents a dozen. Net gains ranged from ⅜ to ½ cent on sales of 247 cars.

Butter futures advanced early on short covering but reacted later on reports showing small withdrawals from storage. The close was unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. November finished at 32½ cents a pound. Sales aggregated 239 cars. Potatoes were unchanged with January Idahoes at $2.87 per 100 pounds. Sales were 25 cars. Prices follow:

COMPANIES MUST PAY NEW U. S. TAX EVEN IF CAPITAL IS IMPAIRED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The internal revenue bureau ruled today that corporations with impaired capital must pay the new federal taxes on undistributed profits even though they are prevented by state law from declaring dividends.

Using a specific but anonymous illustration, the bureau said that between 1932 and 1935 a certain corporation sustained substantial losses, as a result of which its capital became impaired last Jan. 1. Its adjusted net income for this year will be substantial, it was said, but not sufficient to equal its capital impairment.

Under a state law, the bureau continued, the corporation can declare dividends only out of surplus, and, therefore, cannot pay dividends on 1936 earnings without violating the state statute. No exemptions for corporations facing this situation are contained in the 1936 revenue law, the bureau said, and they thus are subject to taxes on the undistributed profits.

LARD ADVANCES 15 TO 20 CENTS IN LARGE TRADE

Trade in lard futures yesterday was large, with heavy selling of December against purchases of July lard at $1 difference, and the reverse. There was also selling of January against purchases of the July delivery at 87½ cents difference. Commission houses were aggressive buyers. Strength in lard in Liverpool had some effect on sentiment. Closing trades on futures were at net gains of 15 to 20 cents.

Cash lard was quoted at $12; loose, $11.52½; leaf, $11.12½, and clear bellies at $16.25 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

HOLIDAY CASH NEEDS REDUCE IDLE BANK FUNDS

Monetary Stocks of Gold Continue Climb.

A temporary contraction in the volume of reserves held by the country's banks was disclosed in the weekly statement of the federal reserve board released yesterday. From the preceding week's total the "excess" reserves of the reporting banks dropped $60,000,000 to $2,210,000,000.

The shrinkage occurred in the face of a further increase in the monetary gold stocks and was attributed to the withdrawal of money from banks over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Currency withdrawals sent the volume of money in circulation up $54,000,000 which is a normal occurrence before a holiday.

Gold Import Effects Canceled.

This factor tended to cancel the effect of continued gold imports which have been responsible for the recent sharp expansion in bank reserves. Last week gold receipts boosted stocks of the metal by $35,000,000, lifting the total to another record high figure of $11,162,000,000.

The return to the banks of the currency withdrawn would cause the volume of reserves to expand again. Reserve authorities are now discussing means to permanently check this expansion and bring about a reduction in the reserves that might form the basis for an unhealthful expansion in bank credit.

Expansion Still Continues.

No definite policy has yet emerged from the discussions held recently in Washington between reserve and treasury officials. Last August the authorities doubled the amount which banks are required to post as protection for their depositors. While the step brought an immediate cut in reserves it did not stop the expansion caused by the increasing monetary gold supply. Since August reserves have recovered about half the reduction resulting from the board's action.

Commercial loans declined in both New York and Chicago last week, according to the statements of condition of member banks in those centers. A decline of 14 millions was reported by New York banks while Chicago institutions showed a drop of 7 millions.

JOBS AND WAGES SHOW RISE HERE DURING OCTOBER

410,745 Workers Are Employed in Month.

Chicago industries employed 1.7 per cent more people and paid 4 per cent more in wages during October than in September the Illinois department of labor announced yesterday, based on reports from 2,917 enterprises, both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing.

For the state as a whole gains of seven-tenths of 1 per cent in employment and 4.4 per cent in total wage payments were shown in a report issued Thursday.

In the Chicago metropolitan area 3,239 reporting companies, employing 410,745 persons, showed increases of 1.5 per cent in the number employed and 3.8 per cent in total wages paid.

16 Points Record Upturns.

The employment gains reported by thirteen cities and three statistical areas in the state had been cut into by employment losses for four cities, one statistical area, and the group "all other cities," for which data were not tabulated separately.

Cities other than Chicago showing gains in both employment and pay rolls in October compared with September were Aurora, Danville, Decatur, East St. Louis, Elgin, Freeport, Granite City, Joliet, Moline, Peoria, and Rock Island.

Increases in employment and decreases in wages paid were reported for the clothing and millinery and the services groups. Reduced employment but increased pay rolls occurred in the transportation equipment field and the wood and allied products industry.

NATIONAL GAIN SHOWN.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—A general advance in industrial production, employment, and pay rolls was reported today by the federal reserve board in its monthly review.

For October, the board said, its seasonally adjusted index of industrial production stood at 109 per cent of the 1923-'25 average, unchanged from the high September level and 15 points up from October last year.

Steel production was larger than in any month since 1929, it was reported. Automobile production increased sharply from September to October and continued to swing upward in the first three weeks of this month.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Farm Bandits

Nov. 27, 1936.

THE squirrels on the Wheaton farm are playing a bandit rôle this fall. During the last few weeks they have been stealing sunflower seeds that were left in the fields for the birds. The saucy fox squirrels that live in the oak woods always seem to turn up with some trick every fall—something to upset the routine of the farm.

Last fall they raided a corn field. Scampering out of the timber, the animals climbed the shocks of corn, chewed off some big ears, and then carried them to the edge of the woods. If undisturbed they sat on the rail fence to eat this stolen meal. Some of them cached corn in the woods for future use.

This year the squirrels spotted the standing sunflower stalks which had been left for the pheasants. On several occasions farm workers saw the squirrels climbing stalks to get sunflower seeds. The problem now is to foil the squirrels, yet make sunflower seeds available to the birds.

The pheasants also seem to be following a new plan of attack this year. The birds found food without getting into the corn plots last year, but this season they seem to be hungry for corn, because they have been seen in the fields a number of times.

How to Keep Warm.

The guinea hens and the Muscovy ducklings on the Wheaton farm have been putting on an interesting demonstration of how to keep their feet warm the last few days. They have some pretty good systems.

The other day we noticed that a couple of the guineas were standing on the backs of sheep—keeping their feet warm in the soft wool. Some of the birds always do this in cold weather. The Muscovys have a different method. We noticed one duckling in particular. He was stepping around the barnyard, somewhat like a football player "warming up" on the sidelines. He kept this up for a few minutes, and then decided that it was too much work. Suddenly he just squatted in his tracks, with his cold feet nestled up into a warm blanket of his own feathery down. When his feet were warm he started running around with the rest of the barnyard group.

Signs of Winter.

There are plenty of signs of winter around the farms. The smaller ponds on the Wheaton farm are frozen over; there are icicles on one of the water pumps which leaks a bit; the ducklings refuse to stay outside the barn on cold nights; and fence rows have small patches of snow in the corners.

Keep Pond Open.

The wild ducks, Canada geese, and swans on the Wheaton farm have their "own heating plant" to keep open water on the big pond. There were about 200 wild ducks there the other day, along with the geese which are there all the time. The pond was frozen over except for one corner. Here it was kept "defrosted" by the birds themselves. They splashed around in this corner, swam, walked on the thin ice [occasionally breaking through some of it], and by these combined efforts managed to keep a hole opened up. When any one approached the pond the ducks all flew up, but before long they returned to the water hole.

CATTLE CULLED FROM LIVE STOCK SHOW IN DEMAND

Packers Buy for Hotels, Rails, Restaurants.

Chicago buyers yesterday paid out well over a half million dollars for about four million pounds of cattle rejected from the live stock show. Of the approximately 6,200 head entered in that division in 417 carloads, about 4,200 were sorted out, leaving 137 loads regarded fit to compete in the international ring today.

This sifting of the show entries made for sale the 2,000 tons of the finest beef the trade has seen since the last show here. Up to $12.85 was paid for full loads of these show "culls," the bulk of the offerings selling at $11.50 to fi12.50. One animal sold at $13.

Hotels and Railways Buy.

All leading Chicago packers bid for the account of hotels, restaurants, and railroads, and big eastern interests also were represented. Show cattle comprised the bulk of the stock on the market, regular "market" cattle being mostly of rather plain quality, and selling slowly at barely steady prices. The best of these offered sold at $11.75, with the bulk at $7.50 to $11.

Hogs rose 5 to 15 cents to new five weeks' highs yesterday, the average at $9.55 showing 10 cents gain, with the top up 5 cents at $9.90.

Steady bids obtained the bulk of sheep and lambs yesterday, natives selling downward from $9.35 and fed westerns down from $9.25. The best old ewes here cashed at $4.25.

INDUSTRY "FLOURISHING"

The live stock industry is in a "flourishing" condition despite the meager 1936 corn crop which was one of the smallest in the nation's history, according to a survey of farm conditions published yesterday by the Corn Belt Farm Dailies.

Excellent fall weather produced a liberal supply of grass and other forage on which live stock was able to feed and gain weight. This condition enabled live stock producers to save feed to tide stock over the winter and means a savings of millions of dollars to them, the review said.

Cattle producers, it added, are getting good profits on the animals now being marketed despite the heavy production of beer. The October beef slaughter was the largest in 18 years and before that had been exceeded only twice.

In September, the latest month for which figures are available, cattle men were paid approximately $60,000,000, the publishing firm said. This compares with $50,439,000 for the corresponding month of 1935 and the depression low figure of $32,451,000 for September, 1933. Packers paid $54,000,000 for hogs in September, compared with $37,963,000 in the corresponding 1935 period.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3.70c per lb for spots and 3.83c for 1937 quota sugars. No sales were reported, with buyers inclined to hold aloof. Futures were easier under increased liquidation, promoted by overnight reports from Washington that next year's quota would be larger. At the outset prices broke 3 to 7 points, but met fairly active trade covering and rallied back to within a point of two of the previous close. Offerings increased again later, however, and the rally was not maintained, with the market closing 3 to 5 points net lower. Sales were 22,850 tons.

Raw sugar prices [cents per pound]:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
January	2.75	2.81	2.75	2.78	2.83
March	2.78	2.84	2.78	2.81	2.86
May	2.83	2.87	2.83	2.84	2.88
July	2.85	2.89	2.84	2.86	2.90
September	2.87	2.90	2.85	2.86	2.91

Refined was unchanged at 4.80c for fine granulated, although one refiner announced that while its list price was unchanged at 4.80c they would consider a limited business at 4.65c for immediate shipment up to noon tomorrow from buyers who have no contract balances.

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures were firmer today on increased trade covering and commission house buying, influenced by firmness in the spot market. Santos opened 1 to 8 higher and closed 3 to 13 points higher. Sales, 42,000 bags. New No. 7 opened 8 to 12 points higher and closed 8 to 14 higher. Sales, 13,500 bags.

Announcing the most revolutionary loan plan ever offered
Promise-to-Pay PLAN
No Security—No Endorsers. No Wage Assignments.
Just Your Plain Note
Now you can get a loan on just your Promise-to-Pay. If you can make regular payments, sign only a plain note and nothing else. It is just like borrowing from a friend on a simple I. O. U.—no endorsers, no wage assignments co-makers, furniture, real estate, stocks, bonds, diamonds, or other security required. We take you at your word and give you the money you need on just your Promise-to-Pay. Unbelievably simple. Your honesty integrity and ability to pay are absolutely the sole requirements for a loan on the New Promise-to-Pay Plan.
Reduced Rates
Monthly charges are 3% on balances up to $100 and only 2% on balances above $100. Also all other types of loans at the same reduced cost. For full particulars, telephone, write or stop in the office nearest you.
